7 Killed As Flaming Plane Dives After Blast

Explosion Heard Preceding Crash

Chesterton, Ind., Oct. 10 (AP).—Seven persons were killed 5 miles southeast of here tonight when a giant United Air Lines transport plane enroute from New York to Chicago, crashed in flames on the James Smiley farm.

Bodies of the victims were charred almost beyond recognition. Witnesses said apparently the crash was preceded by an explosion in mid-air.

United Air Line officials said the following persons were on board:

E. Smitt, Chicago.

Employes:

H. R. Tarrant, Oak Park, Ill., pilot.

A. T. Ruby, Chicago, co-pilot.

Olive Scribner, Chicago, stewardess.

Plane Battled Winds.

The crash occurred shortly after 9 p. m., when the plane, overdue, was battling winds into Chicago.

Miss Esther Stroup, school teacher living at the Smiley farm, said the family at the farmhouse heard the drone of the plane, then the sound of an explosion. A "brilliant flash" appeared in the darkness, and they saw the plane fall in flames.

Miss Stroup said she and members of the Smiley family rushed across fields to where the plane crashed. The wreckage was enveloped in fire.

The victims frantically tried to escape from the ship, she said, and those trapped milled about inside and screamed in efforts to get out.

The heat from the wreckage prevented attempts at rescue. Ambulances were rushed from Chesterton and nearby Valparaiso. Sheriff's deputies and State police arrived to direct attempted rescue work, but it was to late.

The transport, a twin motored plane, left Cleveland at 6:57 p. m., on the last lap of its trip from New York to Chicago. Air line officials said it reported regularly with no sign of trouble until shortly before the crash. The last radio report from the operator was at North Liberty, Ind., when he said "all was well."

Company officials said they would be unable to determine cause of the crash until after a complete investigation. It was the first fatal wreck on their New York-Chicago run in seven years of operation, they said.

Pilot's Wife Hysterical.

At the airport in Chicago Mrs. Tarrant, wife of the pilot, awaited the arrival of her husband. When told he was dead, she became hysterical. Tarrant's was the first body removed to be identified. Bodies were taken from the wreckage to morgues in Chesterton and Valparaiso.

In a farmhouse only a few yards from where the transport crashed sat Joseph Graff and his neighbor, Marian Arndt, playing cards.

2 Men Slain In Lynchburg

Brother-in-Law of Victim, Riding in Patrolman's Car, Under Arrest.

Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 10 (AP).—George Marion Ware, 55, veteran officer of the Lynchburg police force, was shot to death when making an arrest this afternoon. Percy L. Mawyer, 22, who was riding in the officer's automobile, also was killed. Each was shot twice through the body.

Arrested a few minutes after the shooting on murder charges, Henry D. Sheppard, 35, radio mechanic and brother-in-law of Mawyer, was taken to police headquarters and questioned.

Although he was confronted by at least four persons who said they saw him fire upon the men, Sheppard denied any connection with the shooting.

He was questioned closely nearly two hours. Afterward he was taken under heavy guard to Roanoke for safe keeping. Officer Ware was a popular officer. News of his death spread quickly and more than 100 gathered at the scene of the shooting and perhaps an equal number at police headquarters, where Sheppard was held.

Police were told that Officer Ware and Mawyer were shot at close range by Sheppard. Both men fell out of the police car, mortally wounded. Mawyer was unarmed, and Ware, who was shot from the back, never reached for his pistol, witnesses said.

Faces Life in Jail

Kelly, Bates Split Ransom, Court Told

Oklahoma City, Oct. 10 (AP).—"Bates and I split the $200,000 50-50 and matched for the satchel."

This was the way George Kelly was quoted by W. A. Rorer, Birmingham, Ala., Federal agent, today as explaining what happened to the ransom paid for the release of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire.

The Government completed its direct evidence in the trial of Kelly and his wife, Kathryn, with rapid fire testimony that pictured the woman as a complacent accomplice.

"I'd like to kill—myself," she was quoted as exclaiming with reference to Urschel.

The witness was Mrs. Luther Arnold, wife of a hitch-hiker hired by Mrs. Kelly to retain an attorney to defend her mother, Mrs. R. G. Shannon, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in a previous trial.

Death Threat Laid to Woman.

Letters threatening death to Urschel and his family and to the Shannons for "squealing" on the Kellys were identified by a handwriting expert as the handiwork of Kathryn.

Cass Coleman, Kathryn's uncle on whose Texas farm $73,250 of the ransom was dug up by Federal officers, testified Kathryn had violent exchanges with her husband while they were hiding there.

"'That —— fool! What did he run off for? He knew I needed money,'" Coleman quoted her as saying.

Kellys May Take Stand.

The day ended with Rorer detailing his capture of the pair in Memphis.

Rorer declared Kelly told him several other men were considered before Urschel was selected as their victim.

Whether George and Kathryn will testify had not been decided. James H. Mathers, chief defense attorney, indicated they would.

Four Men Killed In Strike Combat

California Workers Fight With Cotton Growers.

Bakersfield, Calif., Oct. 10 (U.P.).—At least four men were killed today in clashes between cotton growers and stricking field workers.

Two strikers were killed and several other combatants seriously injured in hand-to-hand battle in the Arvin district, 20 miles from here.

Two other strickers were killed and seven wounded at Pixley, when 50 cotton growers allegedly fired into a gathering of several hundred striking pickers.

Bandit Trio Flees With Mail Sacks

Gunmen Select 2 Pouches From Among 25.

Effingham, Ill., Oct. 10 (AP).—Forcing the baggageman to lie on the floor, three men tonight selected 2 mail pouches from 25 in the depot here, and escaped.

The mail had been received on a Pennsylvania train for transfer to another train. It was believed the mail was from the East. Its destination was not known.

Arthur Kroes, the baggageman, said one of the robbers wore overalls, but the other two were well-dressed.

Radical Raid Feared On Vera Cruz Palace

Vera Cruz, Mexico, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—A strong police guard was placed about the government palace at Jalapa, capital of Vera Cruz State, today to prevent its seizure by Tejedista radicals.

Davis Aids Arms Goal Of Britain

Joins Move to Obtain Accord by France and Germany.

London Fears New War Unless Parley Votes for Limitations.

Geneva, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—President Roosevelt was believed in League of Nations circles today to be prepared to join British statesmen in hastening action on a practical arms control agreement.

Norman H. Davis, chief American delegate, conferred with Capt. Anthony Eden, of the British delegation, on coordinating English and American policies in a desperate attempt to save the preliminary disarmament conference, convening Monday, by mediating between France and Germany.

It was understood the Americans would concentrate upon getting the Germans to abandon insistent demands for defensive weapons forbidden under the Versailles treaty.

French Accord Needed.

The British are to seek a compromise on France's demands regarding penalties against violators of the Versailles treaty and pacts adopted by the disarmament convention.

The British abandoned hope of obtaining an "ideal" arms control treaty at Geneva. They hope, however, through close cooperation with the Americans to prevent an armaments race which London—and other European capitals—fear will mean certain war on the continent.

Reich Proposals Sought.

Geneva, Oct. 10 (AP).—American delegates to the disarmament conference said tonight they were trying to induce Germany to make definite written proposals as to the armaments she wants as equipment for her projected new conscript army.

At the same time Americans said reports they "were preparing proposals for the rearmament of Germany" were untrue.

A spokesman said the American request was made in an effort to clarify the disarmament problem, without, however, committing themselves in any way as to whether the German figures can be accepted by the United States.

The American experts divided the projected German army of 200,000 men into divisions, in an effort to decide from a technical standpoint what each division would need in standard equipment for purely defensive purposes.

Rudolph Nadolny, German representative, told Norman H. Davis, chief American delegate, today that Germany has not filed rigid demands, being willing to submit every point to discussion.

Utah Dry Group Urges Church Aid

Appeals for Ward Officers to Fight Repeal.

Salt Lake City, Oct. 10 (AP).—John F. Bowman, general chairman of the defenders, Utah Dry Organization, today appealed direct to ward auxiliary officers of the Later Day Saints Church to enlist support for the antirepeal cause in the November 7 election.

Declaring "we have the assignment from President Heber J. Grant to our organizations, to take the leadership in this liquor election," Mr. Bowman, in a letter to the local church workers, urged them to line up "additional dry voters and we can and will win the election."

Blast Halts Rocket Plane Inventor's Work

Osnabrueck, Germany, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—Reinhold Tilling, inventor of the rocket plane, and his assistant, a mechanic, were both badly injured tonight when an explosion destroyed the laboratory in which they were working.

Nineteen Buried Alive In Honduras Landslide

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Oct. 10 (AP).—Official reports from a village 30 miles east of here today said 19 persons were buried in a landslide which struck the village of Apolopi.

The reports said part of a hill descended upon the village. Many houses were destroyed.

Wife Saves Her Mate With Story Of His Wooing

Parsons, Kans., Oct. 10 (AP).—Charged with participation in the robbery of the Chetopa State Bank, Thomas (Skeet) Bradshaw was acquitted by a jury which heard his wife testify he was in Stillwell, Okla., proposing marriage to her the day the bank was held up.

She testified she saw him both in the morning and afternoon of February 27, the day the bank was robbed of $1,351.60. She said she accepted his proposal and they were married March 9.

Florida 4-1 For Repeal; 33d in Line

Tampa Votes Majority of 12-1; Rural Areas Join Parade.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 10 (AP).—Florida today became the thirty-third State to vote for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the wets leading by approximately 4 to 1, with nearly half of the State's precincts counted.

With the vote tabulated from 749 of the 1,272 voting places, the count stood; For repeal, 75,523 against, 17,542. Incomplete returns had been received from 52 of the 67 counties.

The repealists started off early with a landslide, first showing a lead of 8 to 1 that steadily dwindled, but the drys never came close enough to leave any doubt.

The cities piled up huge wet majorities and for the most part the rural sections were not far behind. The drys were not leading in any county.

Tampa 12 to 1 Wet.

Duval (Jacksonville) County was showing a margin of 10 to 1 for repeal and Hillsborough (Tampa), where Postmaster General Farley spoke last night for repeal, showed 12 to 1 agaist prohibition.

Fashionable Palm Beach County, winter playground of the wealthy, balloted 9 to 1 against the eighteenth amendment. In Dade (Miami) County the vote was about 5 to 1. In Orange (Orlando) County the wets led by 2 to 1.

The balloting was to select 67 delegates to the State convention in November.

Dry Slate Small.

The wets had a complete list of 67 pledged candidates and voting for them was comparatively easy, but the drys had only eight pledged delegates and were forced to pick their others from among 101 unpledged delegates, taking those known to be for prohibition.

Leaders told them to vote for the first 59 unpledged candidates on the ballot, and although some of that number—they were listed alphabetically—were wet, at least 37 were dry.

C. W. Hatch New Senator

Santa Fe, N. Mex., Oct. 10 (AP).—Carl W. Hatch, New Mexico Democratic leader, was appointed United States Senator today, succeeding Sam G. Bratton, who resigned to become a Federal Circuit Judge.

Hatch succeeded Bratton as a partner in the law firm of Bratton & Patton. Later he succeeded the former senator as judge of the Ninth Judicial District and today stepped into the senatorship.

The new senator and Gov. A. W. Hockenhull are residents of Clovis. A native of Phillips County, Kans., Hatch has lived in New Mexico since 1916. Less than a year after his arrival here he became assistant attorney general of the State.

"I have tried to lay aside the personal element and consider the matter from the standpoint of all the people of the State," Gov. Hockenhull said. Fifteen Democrats had been considered, he added.

Doctors Hear New Gas Lacks Ether's Ill Effects

Chicago, Oct. 10 (AP).—A new anesthetic gas, which relaxes patients as completely as ether, was described to the Congress of anesthetists here today.

The gas, said Dr. J. A. Stiles and Dr. W. B. Neff, of Wisconsin General Hospital, is not unpleasant to take, seems to have no effect on the heart, and has few uncomfortable after effects. It is "cyclopropane," and was developed, they explained, by Prof. V. E. Henderson and Prof. George H. W. Lucas, of Toronto.

Labor Will Be Destroyed Unless Strikes Are Halted, Johnson Warns A. F. of L.

Dillon Bares Paper Loss, Big Profits

Company Passed Tumbling Rail Stock on, Senate Committee Told.

How Dillon, Read & Co., in the 1929 bear market, sank millions in railroads—now in receivership—and how much of this stock in a falling market was passed on to two investment trusts, was detailed by witnesses before the Senate Banking Committee yesterday.

One of those trusts, the United States & International Securities Corporation, took a paper loss of $11,000,000 in shares of the Rock Island and Frisco railroads, and nearly $2,000,000 in the Seaboard Airline, witnesses testified.

In face of this testimony and statements that United States and International suffered $26,000,000 paper losses over a wide range of investments, a statement was submitted showing both United States & International and the United States & Foreign Securities Corporation made a total net profit to the close of last year of $11,800,000.

Clarence Dillon Testifies.

This statement was introduced by Clarence Dillon, head of Dillon, Read & Co., which built the two giant trust companies on an original $5,100,000 investment. Dillon and Robert O. Hayward, a partner in his firm, will take the stand today to outline details of huge South American bond flotations engineered by the New York banking house.

Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, charged yesterday one transfer of railroad stock between the two trust companies was to "cut the income tax" of the United States & Foreign Securities Corporation. Ernest B. Tracy, president of the company, who was on the stand, admitted it was "for offsetting our profit."

The committee learned from Tracy he [illegible] $3,7[illegible],000 in Rock Island stock acquired by Dillon, Read & Co. in a trading account with United States & International was split between the two when the pool was terminated during the 1929 bear market.

Stock Passed On, He Says.

Tracy related how Dillon, Read & Co. disposed of its share of the depreciating stock to its other investment trust, United States & Foreign. Stock which had cost $138.06 a share was sold to the trust for $114.25, the market price, Dillon, Read & Co. taking a $326,800 loss.

Committee Counsel Pecora brought out how this stock found its way into the portfolios of United States & International, which paid United States & Foreign $111.84 a share for the lot. This transaction, Couzens charged, was made to curtail income tax payments.

Similar transactions in Frisco railroad stock pool operations were Seizure of Territory by Force Banned.

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 10 (AP).—A six-power antiwar pact among South American nations and ten bilateral accords between Brazil and Argentina were signed here today in the presence of scores of ministers and diplomats.

The antiwar treaty sets up South American conciliation machinery, complementing the Kellogg-Briand pact. It forbids forcible acquisition of territory.

Louise Brooks Weds Prominent Chicagoan

Chicago, Oct. 10 (AP).—Louise Brooks, the film actress, today became Mrs. Deering Davis and a member of a socially prominent Chicago family.

A quiet ceremony, read by Judge Francis Wilson, was witnessed only by Davis' brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. Nathan S. Davis 3d.

Vienna Fears New Riots: Troops, Police Keep Guard

Vienna, Oct. 10 (AP).—Bridges leading into Vienna bristled with armed guardsmen tonight and mounted police patroled the Leopoldstadt following a battle with rioters in the working class district. The riots were directed against the government.

A few were injured in the fighting, including one policeman, and 100 arrested, 26 of whom were held in jail.

At midnight quiet prevailed. Police headquarters said order was restored, but the guard was not relaxed.

Besides the disorders in the working class district, the Ottakring, other disturbances were reported in the Mariahilfer shopping district and also along the Leopoldstadt and the Floridsdorf.

Rumors that a general strike would be called in the Austrian capital have been heard for several days.

Rumors described such a strike as retribution by Socialists, for dissolution of the Socialist Singing League, following a demonstration last Sunday and consequent restrictions, amounting to outlawing of the official Socialist newspaper Arbeiter Zeitung.

Socialist quarters, however, denied Monday night that any such strike was contemplated and intimated the strike rumors were circulated by anti-Socialists, in an effort to embarrass them in politics.

Quit O'Brien, Ultimatum To M'Cooey

McKee Backers Threaten to End Leadership in Brooklyn.

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Backers of the independent mayoralty candidacy of Joseph V. McKee today threatened to end the Brooklyn Democratic leadership of John H. McCooey unless he agreed to break with Tammany Hall and renounce Mayor John P. O'Brien.

McCooey, Tammany's principal alley, temporarily checked the insurrection of a group of his district leaders by calling a meeting of the borough executive committee to decide which of the two candidates should be supported.

With the anti-Tammany revolt spreading, it was believed in some quarters the committee would force a declaration for McKee and end McCooey's 22 years of dominance of Brooklyn Democracy.

Misses Notification.

However, McCooey, who missed the mayor's formal notification ceremonies at City Hall, as he fought to hold his organization intact, reiterated support of Mayor O'Brien and the rest of the regular ticket.

"The committee will be called to pass on this whole McKee situation," said McCooey. "Mayor O'Brien will receive the Democratic vote, I am sure."

McKee backers hailed the open split in Brooklyn, which has the heaviest vote of the city's five boroughs. Loss of Brooklyn would be a blow to O'Brien's chances and would leave Tammany with Manhattan the only county united.

Others Join Insurgents.

Francis J. Sinnott, Brooklyn postmaster, and Aaron L. Jacoby, organization nominee for register of Queens, joined the long list of insurgent Democrats who have marched into the McKee camp.

Meanwhile, McKee answered the charge by Fiorello H. LaGuardia, fusion candidate, and Samuel Seabury, fusion strategist, that his recovery party was a reservoir for disgruntled politicians.

"This I can not make too emphatic," said McKee as the group of insurgent Democrats embracing his candidacy mounted. "I shall not appoint to public office or retain in

Woman Discovers Turtle With Dad's Initials, Cut in '61

Keyser, W. Va., Oct. 10 (Spl.).—A turtle, found by Miss Katherine Rogers, daughter of the late Joseph Rogers, of Mountain section, bore the name of Miss Rogers' father, which he had carved on it in 1861.

This occurred on the farm of his father, now owned by John W. Rogers.

Fifty years later, in 1911, Mr. Rogers found the turtle on his own farm, four miles from the farm of his boyhood. It has been 72 years since he carved his name, and the turtle has never strayed farther than four miles from the original place.

British Debt Offer Based On Loan Plea

London Herald Report Says Envoys Also Insisted on Stabilization.

London, Oct. 11 (Wednesday) (U.P.).—The Daily Herald published a report today that the British proposals on war debts during the conversations Tuesday centered on flotation of a £200,000,000 sterling British loan in New York to finance the proposed final lump sum payment.

The report added, however, that the British insisted on stabilization of the dollar-pound exchange rate before this agreement be reached, fearing that certain Americans would not otherwise subscribe to the British bonds.

The Daily Herald's financial editor added that President Roosevelt favored the British plan, but at present was afraid a political storm might ensue as a result of such an agreement.

produced documents and statistics to back their request for a reduction in the $9,500,000,000 total of interest and principal payments scheduled for the next 51 years.

Debt Parleys Open.

(Associated Press.)

Plea of radically altered world economic conditions, unforeseen when war debt settlements were made, was advanced yesterday by Great Britain as justification for the reduction she hopes to obtain from the United States.

Beyond this, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, spokesman for the London government, emphatically expounded the argument that the loans made to his country before and after the armistice were not commercial in character, but a matter of necessity and were used for war purposes.

With his colleagues, Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador, and T. K. Bewley, economic advisor to the British Embassy, Sir Frederick called at the Treasury. He was met by Dean Acheson, undersecretary; Frederick Livesey, assistant economic advisor to the State Department, and Daniel W. Bell, the Treasury's commissioner of accounts and deposits.

Statistics Produced.

In Acheson's office, the six took seats around a table and the British Acheson's described the American attitude as one of "sympathetic listening." At the same time, the American representatives realize their task is that of reconciling the Stock Exchange Bank Considered by Brokers

The project calls for a setting up of a bank and clearing house, equipped to handle all the business that ordinarily flows through Wall street commission houses.

Peace Proclaimed Path to Prosperity

Turns Fire on Industry, "Chiselers" Retarding Recovery Aims.

Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson last night told organized labor it will be destroyed if it tolerates strikes. He pleaded for cooperation with NRA.

If strikes persist, he said, public opinion will turn "either to the extreme right or to the extreme left, and either course would result in your destruction."

But what ever happens, he said "the old order is gone forever."

"The plain, stark truth is that you can not tolerate the strikes," the administrator asserted. "Public opinion is the essential power in this country. In the end it will break down every subsersive influence.

Public Opinion as Force.

"If now—when the power of this Government and its people are being given to an effort to provide and maintain to the ultimate the rights of every man who works for pay—you permit or countenance this economic sabatage, that public confidence and opinion will turn against you."

The Commerce Department auditorium where, in evening dress, he addressed a night session of the American Federation of Labor's convention, echoed with cheers as he laid down the law to labor and capital, attacked opponents of the Blue Eagle, and promised a new day of economic well-being, if all factions cooperate.

Wall Street interests he criticized as sponsoring a program to undermine the NRA—"one of the grimmest, ghastliest pieces of humor of all the queer flotsam of our daily work."

Predicts Higher Prices.

He assailed interests which, he said, are trying to turn the farmer against the NRA. He branded industrialists holding out against Blue Eagle codes and workers' guarantees unworthy as labor agitators.

Admitting that charges of "chiseling" are justified, he asserted that prices will rise still higher, that "in this, the critical hour."

It is "critical," he said, "because this country can not withstand another crash."

"The events of the near future will demonstrate whether there is in our people the power to pull themselves out of the most desperate hole into which this country ever got," he declared.

"The spotlight is on the President's recovery program. It is on industry which is being organized now with lightning speed. It is upon labor which is also being organized at a headlong rate. You have the

Gunplay Ends Pulpit Fight

Pastor Held in Shooting Rushed Away to Escape Mob.

Jonesboro, Ark., Oct. 10 (AP).—The Rev. Dale Crowley, charged with shooting a janitor today in his effort to establish himself as legal pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle here, was removed from jail tonight and taken to an unannounced town for safekeeping, as tension between the opposing factions in Jonesboro's church controversy increased.

The shooting climaxed two months of skirmishes between the group headed by Crowley and another headed by the Rev. Joe Jeffers, evangelist, who sought to oust Crowley from the pastorate.

In a statement to A. A. Tadlock, deputy prosecutor, McMurdro accused Crowley of shooting him "in cold blood."

Crowley had just won a long court controversy with the Jeffers faction in which the chancery court recognized him as the legal pastor and restrained Jeffers' followers from interfering with his activities at the tabernacle.

Delay Feared In President's Bank Aid Plan

Move to Thaw Billions Assets May Be Held to End of Week.

President Roosevelt may be compelled to hold up until the end of the week announcement of his plan to release 50 per cent of the frozen deposits in all banks closed since January 1.

He held a long series of conferences yesterday, starting with his Executive Council, which includes the Cabinet. Others with whom he conferred were:

J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency; Attorney General Cummings; Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor, and Herman Oliphant, general counsel, of the Farm Credit Administration; Stanley Reed, general counsel of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, and Henry Bruere, who is expected to head the proposed $1,500,000,000 new Federal banking corporation through which closed banks will receive R. F. C. debentures that may then be converted into cash to pay half of the frozen bank deposits.

Reserve Governors Meet.

Meanwhile governors of the country's 12 reserve banks were meeting in their regular quarterly session at the Treasury and discussing the bank program as well as monetary policy, though no official intimation of the nature of their deliberations was given out.

White House conferences with monetary advisers gave rise to a new crop of rumors that some definite monetary policy is about to be announced, but this assumption was discounted by responsible officials, who see no immediate prospect of final decisions on devaluation, on releasing gold to settle international balances or on other phases of the many proposals, which have been put before the President.

There were indications yesterday that the administration is considering broadening the proposed new governmental banking corporation to permit long-term advances to heavy industries. Much attention is also being given to the corporation's function in aiding banks, which are found ineligible for Federal deposit guarantee, when the deposit insurance law takes effect next January 1.

Rush for Insurance Starts.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, of which Walter J. Cummings is chairman, is flooded with applications from nonmember banks for inclusion in the insurance scheme. Mr. Cummings announced last night that 2,171 of the 8,557 nonmember banks had already applied, and new applications are flowing in at the rate of 200 a day. Nine out of the ten nonmember banks in Washington have already applied.

To handle the huge task of examining nonmember banks for eligibility, the insurance corporation has enlisted 47 national bank examiners as supervising officials, and 799 other examiners.

Officer Granted Delay in Manslaughter Case.

Cristobal, C. Z., Oct. 10 (AP).—The court-martial of Navy Lieut. John Henry Cross on a charge of involuntary manslaughter was adjourned today until October 16 on the plea of defense counsel for time to prepare the case.

The charge grew out of the death in an automobile accident of Lieut. Robert Burks Morgan.

British Open Plea For Cut in Debts

popular Britith demand for an end to war debt payments with insistence of the American Congress that the debts be paid in full as funded.

After yesterday's conference, Acheson described what had taken place. Sir Frederick began with the origin of the debts, he said, and traced their history. There was no suggestion, the undersecretary said, of what the London government might have in mind to offer as a basis of settlement.

British View Outlined.

Sir Frederick stressed that the British government made extensive purchases of American goods during the war, amounting roughly to more than $12,000,000,000, before America entered the conflict.

He went over the sources from which his government derived the funds to pay for these—trade balances, mobilization of American gold and securities owned by British citizens, shipping services, and commercial loans.

Just before America entered the war the British capacity to make additional purchases here virtually was exhausted, but with the Washington Government an active ally, the situation was changed. The question of how Great Britain was to carry on was solved by loans from the United States Treasury.

Exports, Imports Drop.

When the settlement was made, he said, the thought was that there had to be a marked increase in imports from the United States. Instead, he continued, both imports and exports have fallen to exceptionally low levels.

He said the American tariff had interfered with payments in goods and thus limited the scope in which transfers could be made.

Acheson said monetary stabilization, the relation between the dollar and the pound, did not come up. Conversations are to be resumed Thursday.

Inspect Pork for Washington Needy

Relief Bureau to Rush 3 and 6-Pound Cuts for City's Jobless.

Tasty meals of roast pork will be enjoyed this week by thousands of unemployed Washington families.

Approximately 32,000 pounds, the first shipment of 190,000 pounds of the meat allotted to Washington by the Federal Relief Administration, was received yesterday by the District emergency relief division.

Workmen transferred the pork to the abandoned fire station of No. 3 Truck Company on Fourteenth street. The shipment was packed in boxes containing 110 pounds each. Half of the cuts average 3 pounds and the remainder 6.

Leroy H. Halbert, District relief director, announced the food would be distributed by truck to needy in all parts of the city at once because it is perishable.

"We are mighty glad to get it," Mr. Halbert said. "It will be parceled out in 3 and 6 pound lots, depending on the size of the family and the need."

The remainder of the first 50,000 pounds requested by Halbert is expected shortly. Other portions of Washington's quota will be ordered as the demand increases.

There are approximately 17,000 persons on local relief rolls, but many of them will not share in the food because they are on work relief pay rolls.

Persons with religious scruples against pork will receive orders for other food. Officials said the number of such individuals is comparatively small.

Rolph Sends Felon To Own Governor

Bars Delay for Fugitive From South Carolina.

Sacramento, Oct. 10 (AP).—Gov. James Rolph, jr., refused today to delay extradition of C. D. Cooper, alias Ben Jones, from Los Angeles to South Carolina, where he is wanted as an escaped convict.

Replying to the defense plea that he delay extradition 30 days, Gov. Rolph said:

"I am going to permit Gov. Blackwood to settle his own cases, just as I would expect him or any other governor to do with me. You will have to take your chances with Gov. Blackwood. I can not say to him by inference, 'This is your case, but the people of California discredit your judgment.'"

Jail Breaker Sentenced To Prison for 15 Years

Rushville, Nebr., Oct. 10 (AP).—Clyde Smith, who escaped jail at Pipestone, Minn., was sentenced today to 15 years in prison on a charge of shooting with intent to kill.

The State charged Smith shot and wounded Boyd Bennett, marshal at Hay Springs, Nebr., when he attempted to arrest him for robbery.

Mother Holds Son Feared Kidnaped

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP).—Mrs. Merrill Jacquith today was in unchallenged possession of her 8-year-old son, Raymond, whom she took from the village school at Hammond yesterday. Following the disappearance of the boy, police were told he had been kidnaped.

Future Events Mean Inflation, Expert Holds

Circumstances to Force Administration Change, Asserts Statistician.

Economic circumstances occuring within the next few months will force the administration to currency inflation, L. Seth Schnitman, chief statistician of F. W. Dodge Corporation, declared yesterday before the Army Industrial College.

The present political consideration of "sound money" advocates will be outweighed by probable economic and social events of the near future and will force the administration to "utilize all of the permissive powers of recent inflationary legislation," Mr. Schnitman said.

Pointing out that he did not wish to take sides with either issue, Mr. Schnitman declared that "whether we want it or not, currency inflation will be employed as an instrument of economic flood-control."

The time for philosophizing on the merits of inflation is definitely passed, he said. "Our problem now is one of appraisal of economic currents as they are and of preparation for the floods which these surging waters will produce."

Mr. Schnitman forecast that the likely revaluation of the dollar to a level approximating a 50 per cent discount from the recent standard will not be sufficient to restore 1926 price levels.

He believes the first manifestations of currency expansion will come by way of financing part of the huge public works program.

Mr. Schnitman said his observations were based on calculations which foretold, "with definiteness," the economic conditions that precipitated the closing of the Nation's banks and abandonment of the gold standard.

Dairymen Demand Aid for Farmers

Threaten to Tear Up Code Unless U. S. Acts.

Chicago, Oct. 10 (AP).—Double protest against what was termed lagging relief for agriculture was voiced today on behalf of two major milk and dairy products organizations.

Don Geyer, of Chicago, general manager of the Pure Milk Association, threatened to tear up the milk marketing code unless Washington acts soon to enforce it and protect its signers.

Pal Held in Winkler Killing; Gangster Gets $10,000 Coffin

Chicago, Oct. 10 (AP).—David Goldblatt, former bodyguard for Gus Winkler, gangster overlord, was arrested today for questioning concerning Winkler's assassination.

"Gus telephoned me yesterday morning," he said, "and told me to meet him. I met him at 1 p. m. He was nervous. He said he wanted to borrow my car and that he was going down to the Federal building."

Goldblatt said Winkler told him he had "business" to talk over with a Mr. Waugh. It was believed he referred to his attorney, William F. Waugh, who later told police he was awaiting Winkler when he received word of the gangster's death.

Waugh said that while he was waiting for Winkler some one telephoned him, stating:

"Gus won't be able to keep that appointment. He has had an accident."

The body of Winkler was transferred tonight from a stone slab in the morgue to a $10,000 silver coffin.

Winkler "beat his last rap" today.

Into the felony court of Judge Thomas A. Green walked Police Capt. John Stege. Handing the jurist a document, he said:

The judge glanced at it and tossed it to the court clerk. "Enter the case as nolle prossed," he said.

So fearful were police that the assassination might evolve into a vicious circle of shootings that Federal agents, heavily armed, were assigned to guard witnesses in the $250,000 Chicago mail robbery of a year ago.

Suspicions that Winkler was mowed down because he had become loquacious with police about the robbery was admitted by all investigators.

Winkler's widow testified at the inquest today that during the height of the search Winkler had made arrangements for a police escort to take him today to the office of United States Attorney Dwight H. Green.

It was Mrs. Winkler, blonde and plump, who arranged for the ornate coffin.

"The best is none too good for Gussie," she said, adding that his large collection of diamonds would be buried with him.

Three suspects were arrested in the killing today, near the slaying scene, at the front door of County Commissioner Charles H. Weber's beer distributing agency.

Winkler will be buried at St. Louis, his boyhood home, where he grew up to become associated with "Egan's Rats."

New Strikes Called; Others End Disputes

(Associated Press.)

Strike violence swept into a new sector yesterday as workers went back to their jobs in other areas.

One man was killed and three injured at Bakersfield, Calif., in a battle between striking cotton pickers and workers who refused to strike for wage increases.

Meanwhile, thousands of workers in Indiana coal fields and West Virginia steel mills returned to work, guarded by military and police forces. Tear gas bombs scattered pickets at Weirton, W. Va.

Officials of District 11 United Mine Workers of America appealed to Indian coal miners to stay at their jobs as threat of a general strike appeared in that State where National Guardsmen already were in control of Sullivan County.

A demand for unionization of all mines was voiced by several union groups.

In Pennsylvania, some 75,000 soft coal miners looked to conferences between Philip Murray, United Mine Workers of America official, and Thomas Moses, president of H. C. Frick Coke Co., to bring peace to that area.

San Francisco's waterfront was the scene of a labor dispute as 100 longshoremen and two ferry-boat workers' unions engaged in a wage controversy with the Southern Pacific-Golden Gate ferries.

At Belleville, Ill., about 1,500 foundry laborers and stove mounters quit work at eight plants to force two of them to reorganize a union, leaders said.

Work was resumed on an Arizona pipeline as 400 workers agreed to allow the Federal Labor Board decide their dispute.

Druggists Told To Back Code

Stop-Loss Clause Is Held Need of Store Owners.

Declarations that stop-loss provisions in the drug code, proving a stumbling block, are false confusions made by the "wilful 10 per cent" were made before the District Pharmaceutical Association last night by its counsel. The druggists were urged to fight for the President's signature to the code.

Members were told druggists should admit that they desired to make a fair profit under the code and thereby favored the clauses setting 21 and 10 per cent as the stop-loss figures for sales on advertised merchandise.

Results of a poll of the membership on the question "Do you favor continuing the sale of liquor in the drug stores of the country?" showed 57 favorable replies with but 6 dissenting votes.

Preliminary plans were made for the convention of the American Pharmaceutical Association to be held in Washington next September.

Leland Says Ford Falsified in Deal

His Version of Lincoln Co. Purchase Discredited.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10 (AP).—Although Henry Ford's deposition said he agreed to buy the Lincoln Motor Car Co. merely to please his son and show sympathy for the founders of the concern, Wilfrid C. Leland, sr., testified today that the automobile magnate advised him to wear old clothes and go unshaven during secret negotiations.

Leland, former president of the Lincoln concern, testified in a civil suit that Ford was "very much interested" in the purchase in 1922 and promised to asume all obligations of the bankrupt concern, as well as pay $8,000,000 for it.

This was denied in the depositions of Ford and his son, Edsel.

Nation-Wide Housing Plan Considered

The establishment of a new Federal agency to handle construction and leasing or sale of low priced housing projects throughout the country is being considered, Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, revealed yesterday.

It was learned that articles of incorporation for the organization have already been drafted. They provide that the new corporation may acquire by purchase or condemnation proceedings, lands on which low cost housing projects would be built.

The plan provides that the houses would then be sold or leased with the new housing corporation repaying the Treasury the funds advanced through the public works administration.

Secretary Ickes refused to estimate yesterday the size of a fund necessary to establish and finance the corporation on a Nation-wide scale. He hinted, however, it might run into several hundred millions of dollars.

In an effort to further speed the recovery program and especially to expediate public works projects, the Public Works Administration also announced yesterday authorization had been made to reduce time for which construction bids must be advertised.

Head of Cuban Army Assures Grau of Loyalty

Holds Review of Troops for President as Menocal Flees.

Havana, Oct. 10 (AP).—Col. Fulgencio Batista, leader of the Cuban army, made an elaborate gesture today to prove he and his soldiers are still back of President Grau San Martin. It set at rest reports he was withdrawing his support in favor of the Nationalist leader, Carlos Mendieta.

Batista entertained the President at a luncheon in Camp Columbia, where a review of the troops was held for the president's benefit. Afterward Batista said:

"This gesture of the former army sergeant, coupled with the unexpected departure for Miami of Mario G. Menocal and his son, clarified to some extent the Cuban political picture, which, since the accession of Grau's government, has been riding on waves of shifting public opinion."

Menocal in Hiding.

Menocal has been in hiding for the last ten days, apparently in fear of his life. A few days ago Batista advised Menocal and other oppositionists to remain inside their own homes for safety.

Today was Cuba's sixty-fifth anniversary of independence. Amid widespread celebrations, Col. Batista's army review was held.

In the provinces the situation generally was quiet.

Menocal Silent in Miami.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 10 (AP).—Declining to discuss conditions in Cuba, Mario G. Menocal, who recently returned to Havana from exile here, came back to Miami today "on business."

Menocal said he expected to remain here several days and then go to New York. Asked if he planned to return to Cuba, he replied:

"I don't know about that."

Boy Gone; Third Time in 3 Months

Mother Wants Son, 11, to Be Ruled Incorrigible.

For the third time in as many months, police were asked yesterday to search for George McGowan, 11, who has once more run away from his home, 6607 Sixteenth street northwest.

In reporting the boy missing, his mother, Mrs. Mary McGowan, asked police to place a charge of incorribility against the youth when he is found.

Last week he spent several days wandering in Rock Creek Park while police and relatives searched the city for him. In August the boy left home with a strong box containing valuable papers. The box was later found in Rock Creek, and George was found some days later living in a shack on the Potomac river near Georgetown.

Described as being high strung and temperamental, the boy left in a fit of anger yesterday because he "didn't want to go to school," his mother said.

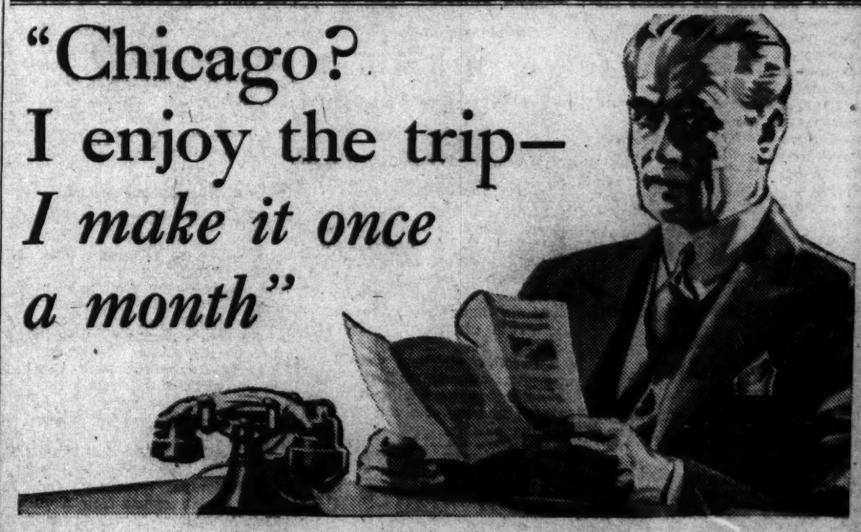
"Chicago? I enjoy the trip—I make it once a month"



"I'M supposed to get to Chicago about once a month.

"It might be a hardship—but the fact is—I enjoy that trip. I take the Liberty Limited, of course, and the minute I step into that train I get a feeling of well-being and relaxation—and I just give in to it.

"Perhaps it's the cheery willingness of the porters—or the quiet luxury of the train itself—or the good food in the air-conditioned diner—but somehow in those 17½ hours between Washington and Chicago the petty aggravations of business and life in general seem far away."

• • •

The Liberty Limited schedule is ideal—you leave at 4.05 P.M.—and you're in Chicago at 8.35 next morning.

However, if you prefer another schedule, there are 3 other fast trains to Chicago daily—the Fort Dearborn, leaving 1.10 P.M.—the Manhattan Limited (now faster by half an hour) leaving 6.45 P.M.—and The Statesman, leaving 11.10 P.M. Both The Liberty and The Statesman now offer luxurious private bedrooms—The Liberty all the way to Chicago, The Statesman overnight to Pittsburgh.

Call DIstrict 1424 for information or reservations.

$4,000,000 Stern Balm Suit Is Settled

Mrs. Nathan's Attorney Denies Payment of Any Money.

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—The $4,000,000 alienation of affections suit of Mrs. Helen Vogel Stern against Mrs. Ruth Erlanger Nathan, of Elberon, N. J., was settled today in secretive fashion.

Max D. Steuer, counsel for Mrs. Stern, informed Justice Samuel Hofstadter that "the difficulties have been settled and, in view of this, Mrs. Stern wishes to withdraw her suit."

The announcement came after witnesses had been summoned to support the complainant's contention of a romance between Mrs. Nathan and Allison L. S. Stern.

George L. Whiteside, counsel for Mrs. Nathan, told the court the settlement did not involve any payment to Mrs. Stern.

"Mrs. Nathan has at all times been willing to deny all the charges made against her and would have introduced disinterested witnesses," he said.

There was no announcement, however, as the basis of settlement.

"I never reveal anything of a confidential nature," said Steuer when asked about the terms of settlement.

In her testimony, Mrs. Stern said that one dark night in 1926, she saw her husband and Mrs. Nathan outside a New Jersey inn and declared, a "pillar of light" by which she made the identifications "may be was a light from heaven to guide me."

9 Quarantine Craft Planned

Public Health Service Allotted $367,000 U. S. Works Fund.

Allotments of $60,000 to the Public Health Service for construction of a new tugboat at Fort Monroe Quarantine Station and $307,000 for the purchase of eight cutters and launches, were announced yesterday by Federal Administrator of Public Works Harold L. Ickes.

Sixty men will be given employment for a period of six months in the construction of the tugboat to replace the old R. D. Murray. Work will start within two weeks.

The cutters and launches will be replacements of vessels now in operation, but are out of date and uneconomical in operation.

Officials estimate work can be started on the vessels within 30 days and will give employment to 200 men. These boats will be based at Seattle, Wash.; New York Harbor, San Diego, Calif.; Sabine, Tex.; San Pedro, Calif.; Pensacola and Key West, Fla.

Johnson Brands Strikes as Peril

ball. Will you hold it firm and carry it across the white line or will you fumble it and ruin the greatest chance that human workers were ever given?

"If you fail you will destroy it. You can not escape your responsibility."

Under the new NRA scheme, he said, militancy by labor is unnecessary to achieve better wages and working conditions. To prove this he cited the cotton textile code which gave "the greatest boost that workers in an industry ever got," despite that labor was not thoroughly organized when the code was framed. That code, he added, "erased some of the greatest abuses from which labor has ever suffered."

At the business session delegates upheld the A. F. of L. executive council's decree that the brewery workers' union had no right to enroll brewery employes eligible for membership in other trades unions. The brewer's union held the threat of "alienation" over the A. F. of L. in a bitter dispute.

The United Mine Workers of America, led by President John L. Lewis, threw its strength against the executive council.

The dispute was brought to the convention by the engineers, teamsters and firemen and oilers unions.

Daniel J. Tobin, president of the teamsters, declared that if the convention rejected the resolution to support the executive council it would "destroy the very foundation on which this organization was founded—the automony of the trades unions."

He accused the brewery workers union of forcing "our men" to join and of instigating strikes.

The charges were denied by Joseph Obergfell and Albert J. Kugler, of the brewery workers union. They said the original charter of their organization gave jurisdiction over all brewery employes.

Obergfell hurled back countercharges that the trades unions involved were the ones responsible for jurisdictional strikes tying up industry.

Credit Plan Splits New York Bankers

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Opinion among New York bankers is so divided over the question of issuing capital notes for sale to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that a meeting of the full clearing house committee will probably be held tomorrow to determine what action is to be taken.

Although local banks have said informally they do not need the money and that the enterprise would be a costly one in the end, bankers said today that no intention exists of giving a definite "no" to the request of Jesse Jones, R. F. C chairman, the New York banks issue notes or preferred stock so that other banks which do need the money might be prompted to follow.

Traffic Bureau LaunchesDrive For Addresses

1934 Plates to Be Denied Unless Records Are Corrected.

Washington motorists failing to list correct addresses with the Department of Vehicles and Traffic will be unable to procure 1934 license plates unless they act promptly.

Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer completed a plan whereby car owners will be forced to file their correct addresses and notify the department of changes.

Application for new tags will be mailed within a few weeks. Last year, Van Duzer said, 7,000 applications were returned because of improper addresses. He has arranged with the Postoffice Department to prevent applications reaching motorists who have moved and failed to notify the traffic bureau.

Envelopes containing tag forms will bear instructions to postmen that they are not to be forwarded. If the addressee has moved.

Under this plan Van Duzer said he would force car owners to forward correct addresses or fail to secure tags.

It was pointed out that traffic regulations require notification of an address change within 72 hours. Few comply. Penalties ranging as high as a $300 fine are possible. New Washington residents also will come under Van Duzer's campaign.

A close check will be made on out-of-town licenses to determine how long they have been in the city.

New applications should be returned to the bureau with correct addresses, a $1 tag fee and the personal property tax estimated on each blank. Tags will be mailed to those inclosing 10 cents for postage.

Dillon Tells Senate Group of Big Deals testified to by Tracy, who said Dillon, Read & Co. bought 16,060 shares of Frisco common from a joint trading account and sold them to United States & Foreign for $1,793,000, taking a loss of about $300,000.

United States & Foreign, which purchased the stock from the banking firm at $111.75 a share, later sold to the other trust for $105 a share, he added.

The witness then described the Seaboard Airline stock acquisition by both of the trusts from Dillon, Read & Co., which was managing a syndicate in the Seaboard shares. This also took place during the bear market period.

Pecora brought out that an agreement was entered into by the trusts, before the declining market, bound them to purchase Seaboard Airline stock in proportion to shares not taken by Seaboard Airline stockholders. When Seaboard stockholders refused to subscribe, United States & International was forced to take nearly $2,000,000 in preferred and common stock, which later shrank in market value to $47,907. United States & Foreign took $18,262 of the stock, which dwindled to $5,165.

Seven Negro boys, wards of the District, deprived of educational facilities in Fairfax County, Va., where their subsistence is provided by the Board of Public Welfare, served as the basis for complaint last night by the Bloomingdale Civic Association. The matter was referred to the Federation of Civic Associations for investigation, with a view to returning the boys here for schooling.

Officers elected were Mrs. J. A. Cuney, president; John A. Hall, Joseph G. Logan and Samuel B. Matthews, vice presidents; E. W. Crump, treasurer; E. M. Matthews, recording secretary; A. R. Ore, corresponding secretary; Guy Tinner, sergeant at arms, and the Rev. R. A. Fairley, chaplain.

District Seeks Budget Boost To 38 Million

District Commissioners will make a fight for a 1935 budget of more than $38,000,000 instead of $36,710,000 on the grounds of a technicality.

They revealed yesterday that they have interpreted Budget Diretcor Douglas' instructions limiting the budget to this year's appropriations as including the releases from the special gasoline tax and water rent funds. This makes a difference of $1,659,915. Previously the budget director had permitted an increase of about $3,700,000 to restore the 15 per cent pay cut in all departments.

The Commissioners believe that they are complying with the budget director's instructions when they add on the $1,158,640 special gasoline tax fund release and the $501,275 obtained from the water rent surplus as these were actually appropriations in the 1934 act though conditional upon approval by the Budget Bureau.

This extra money will take care of several construction projects. Practically no new highway work is provided in the budget, however, as the public works projects will continue well into the next fiscal year.

'World Is on Threshold of New Radio Era,' He Declares.

The whole world of raido shortly may be revolutionized by "micro-waves," tiny in length, unaffected by even the severest static and uninfluenced by day and night, Senator Gulielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless, declared upon his arrival in Washington last night for a brief visit.

"One never can tell what even one month of research will accomplish in wireless," the Italian statesman-inventor said in an interview at the Mayflower Hotel, where he and his wife are guests on their first trip to Washington since their honeymoon in 1927.

New Era in Radio.

"The world undoubtedly is on the threshold of a new era in radio.

"We have discovered that these tiny waves, to which I am devoting my experiments, are not limited by optical distances, as once was believed. The curvature of the earth is no barrier. I have conducted successful experiments from my yacht and from Italian stations up to a distance of 170 miles."

The inventor, who divides his time between new developments in the field of his own invention and the affairs of state of Italy, where he is a member of Premier Mussolini's supreme council, was enthusiastic over the new short waves, which now claim most of his attention. He held his hands a few inches apart to indicate the length of the "micro waves" and told of their accomplishments.

Beyond Static Influence.

"I have listened to them through the worst thunderstorms," he said. "They are not influenced by static, nor by the change from night to day."

"For the moment," he added with a smile, "we can not tell why."

Regarding television, Senator Marconi was equally optimistic as far as future progress is concerned, but believes it will come more slowly.

"Television is not quite ready for the general public," he said, "but great strides have been made, and it is coming."

The inventor, as a matter of fact, believes the conveyance of information by sound to be far more important than conveyance by sight. He pointed, for one example, to the transmission of financial information by radio across the Atlantic in market reports, declaring this of greater importance than the showing of events by television.

Lauds U. S. Research.

"Broadcasting," he predicted, "will never be replaced by television. In fact, they will supplement each other."

Senator Marconi paid a warm compliment to American research in radio, expressing pleasure over the great strides made here since his visit six years ago. Radio City, which he visited when in New York, he described as fascinating.

The Senator and Mrs. Marconi came here from Chicago, where they were guests at the Century of Progress. They will visit California before returning to Italy. While in Washington for a few days, the senator will pay his respects to President Roosevelt and will attend a reception in his honor given by Nobile Giacomo de Martino, the Italian Ambassador.

Tammany's Woes Help Roosevelt

office any political leader because he has come out or declared for me."

Vincent Astor, close friend of President Roosevelt, accepted appointment as chairman of the executive committee of McKee's recovery party.

Gerard Backs McKee.

James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, who had supported Mayor O'Brien before McKee entered the contest, was announced by James J. Hoey, recovery party candidate for Manhattan Borough president, as having come out for McKee.

McKee was described in an address by Seabury as being supported by "the same tin box parade" that Seabury encountered in the Hofstadter legislative investigation.

LaGuardia and other fusion candidates also spoke at the meeting, held at the Vassar Club.

(Associated Press.)

While President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee and of the New York State committee, have consistently refused to comment on the New York mayoralty situation, either on or "off the record," there was a distinct undercurrent of elation in some administration circles yesterday over developments.

Demand of a majority of his district leaders that John H. McCooey, for 22 years leader of Brooklyn and powerful Tammany ally, retire, and news that further desertions from Tammany were taking place, added to the pleasure which developments of the last two or three days had brought.

White House secretaries have told newspapermen that the President is "hands off," but no effort has been made to conceal the administration's interest or stake in the situation.

Much More at Stake.

Its desire that Tammany be beaten has been taken for granted, but the administration is represented as having much more at stake than desire for revenge.

The prize stake is the New York electoral vote in the Presidential race of 1936; the immediate stake is control of New York City by adherents of the Farley-Roosevelt wing of Democracy to bring about a financial clean-up which the President and the Posmtaster General were represented as being anxious to have.

Tammany has not been friendly to Mr. Roosevelt and opposed him at Chicago. That was the inception of the split which has widened into an open breach between the Roosevelt friends in New York and Tammany.

Lewis, Mine Leader, Helps Davis Defense

Joins Pittsburgh Mayor at Trial in Testifying to Character.

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Canceled checks were introduced by the defense today in the lottery charge trial of Senator James J. Davis, in an effort to show that $15,300 paid into the Pennsylvanian's personal account was for repayment of a loan to Theodore G. Miller, his co-defendant, and not profits from alleged lotteries.

That move followed the testimony of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and John S. Herron, mayor of Pittsburgh, who testified that Davis' character was good.

Asked by Louis Mead Treadwell, chief prosecutor, if Lewis had ever heard that, prior to the offense charged, Davis had profited from lotteries, the mine workers' head replied:

"No."

Herron's testimony was similar to Lewis'. Another character witness for Davis was David E. Kaufman, former American Minister to Boliva.

The defense also sought to show that Davis was occupied with a senatorial campaign and had divorced himself from activities in the Loyal Order of the Moose during the time he allegedly directed fund-raising campaigns of the order, out of which grew the Government's charges that Davis sent or conspired to send lottery tickets across State lines.

Frank K. Boal, senatorial secretary to Davis and a former newspaperman, said on the witness stand that Davis was involved in a campaign to hold his Senate seat in December, 1930.

"What is the purpose of this?" asked Judge Johnson Hayes.

"To show," replied Charles J. Margiotti, of defense counsel, "that at that time Senator Davis had his time taken up with matters other than the Moose."

The Federal Diary

This is how Federal employes look when they plan to forget office worries and entertain a couple of football teams. Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, is shown in conference with Senator Hugo Black and officers of the Alabama State Society, making arrangements for the Auburn-G. W. U. game here October 21. Left to right, seated—Mrs. W. F. Sykes, G. A. O.; Dr. Marvin, Mrs. R. Lee Barnes, wife of Representative Allgood's secretary; standing—C. O. Webb; Internal Revenue; A. C. Radue, Engraving and Printing; Senator Black; Ira Y. Bain, Internal Revenue, society president; Miss Juanita Buchanan, Agriculture; A. M. Laster, Internal Revenue, and Prof. DeWitt Croissant, G. W. U.

SPOKESMEN of more than 3,000 Federal employes with Civil Service ratings, who have been dismissed this year, yesterday prepared to make a personal appeal to President Roosevelt this week to win preference in employment.

BAKER.

Workers dropped under the economy act have organized the Civil Service Reinstatement League. Their second meeting was held Monday night at the Arlington Hotel.

In addition to the committee which will seek an interview at the White House, others will make a tour of various Government agencies to check on employment and the sources of expanded personnel. Officials at Emergency Relief Administration headquarters advised league members that few appointments are being made. However, league leaders declare none in their ranks is getting preference at the Emergency Relief Administration, or any other unit, while the unemployed roll at Civil Service office remains large.

The committees will hold a joint meeting later this week.

THE Three A's may be busy with their cotton and wheat contracts; the R. F. C. with loans; the NRA with codes—and on through all the other overworked Governmental departments, but with repeal impending the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol is right among the top ranks of the 1933 model Federal beehive.

DR. LINDER.

Dr. W. V. Linder, chief of the B. I. A. technical division, is on an inspection trip through the Middle West. He will return this week after surveying branch laboratories of the Government. Dr. Linder also is visiting new breweries in that territory.

With applications from brewers still pouring in and with repeal looming certain, employes at the bureau daily are being hidden behind mounting stacks of papers. Several vacancies have occurred this month through illness, resignations and other causes, but no replacements have been made. The work of the departed ones simply is spread around.

Public Works Jobs Delayed In Arlington

Sewer Jobs Can Not Start This Year, Despite Loan; Citizens Rap Board.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Regardless of action by the Public Works Administration on Arlington County's loan for $2,500,000 for installation of sewers, the unemployed of the county can look for no relief until next year, said a statement of Sanitary Engineer Allen B. McDaniel yesterday.

He explained it will be at least 90 days before completion of field work, in preparation for asking bids.

Should the Government grant the loan, as anticipated, enough data on the sewers is available to propose a special election, McDaniel stated.

Citizen Groups Meets.

The Clarendon Citizens Association last night voted to request the county board in the future to employ only county residents. Prior to the motion, there was considerable discussion regarding the employing of men by the board who lived in other counties and even in other States. The motion was offered by L. C. McNemar.

At the instance of Hugh J. McGrath, the association offered cooperation in the drive for $10,000 for relief which starts next Sunday. Mrs. L. C. McNemar was elected secretay.

Capitol Heights School Opposed

The Prince Georges County School Board yesterday was asked to scrap plans for the proposed Central Avenue School, Capitol Heights, Md.

A delegation of citizens, appearing before the board at Upper Marlboro, requested instead an addition to the Seat Pleasant High School. No action was taken.

Colored delegations, requesting hasty erection of colored schools at Ammendale and Aquasco, were heard. They were informed they would have to wait until proper contracts could be formulated.

Baa-a

Falls Church Mayor Asks End of Ribaldry.

Baa-a baa-as filled the air, covered the streets and sidewalks in big red letters and generally rocked the foundations of law and order in Falls Church yesterday as a result of Mayor L. P. Daniel's avowed intention of enforcing the town ordinances.

Mayor Daniel passed around among members of the town council Monday night a proposed ordinance covering almost every conceivable disrespect for the law and calling for a fine of $500 and a year in prison for violation.

The move culminated numerous clashes between the town's constabulary and Mayor Daniel and a large group of citizens, during which a bomb was thrown in the police station, tire covers insulting to Police Sergt. Shumate were paraded throughout streets, and three youths were arrested for disorderly conduct.

Yesterday "Baa-a baa-a Shumate!" painted in huge red letters greeted visitors entering the town on every road. Officials seemed at a loss on the next move necessary to stem the flaunting of the law.

Tribute Is Paid To Newlands

Memorial to Chevy Chase Founder Dedicated Tomorrow.

Dedication of the Francis G. Newlands Memorial Fountain at Chevy Chase Circle will take place tomorrow at 4 p. m. Senator Newlands was founder of Chevy Chase and builder of the traction line later extended to provide transportation to the area.

Charles Moore, chairman of the U. S. Commission of Fine Arts, will deliver the principal address and present the fountain to the Government in the name of the family, friends and admirers of the late senator. The acceptance speech will be by Arno B. Cammerer, director of National Parks.

The fountain was designed by Edward W. Donn, jr., and was decided upon after years of discussion of various plans for the beautification of Chevy Chase Circle. The dedication is being sponsored by civic, garden clubs and other groups of Maryland and the District of Columbia.

Edwin S. Hege is in charge of arrangements and will act as master of ceremonies. Dr. Charles C. Clark and George E. Strong are vice chairmen.

Open opposition to the town's police force was expressed last night at a meeting of the Volunteer Department, which unanimously adopted a resolution demanding the appointment of police officers "who will command the respect of the townspeople."

Passenger Permitted On Taxi Front Seat

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday capitulated to protests from the taxicab industry and suspended a regulation barring passengers from the front seats of cabs.

Operators complained the regulation would result in unfair competition as only a minority of the cabs are equipped with partitions separating front and rear seats.

The regulation was modified to bar passengers from the front seat only when the rear seat is vacant.

G. F. Crawley, Mathematician, Kills Himself

Suspension From Naval Observatory Believed Suicide Motive.

George F. Crawley, 50, until recently a Naval Observatory mathematician, shot and killed himself last night in the bedroom of his home at 331 Essex street, Somerset, Md.

Mr. Crawley was assistant astronomer at the observatory in charge of calculating positions of stars and planets for the Nautical Almanac. Recently he became involved in a disagreement with superiors, it was said, and was suspended. He was to have been retired for physical disability.

Yesterday he sought reinstatement, but was unsuccessful. This was believed to have prompted him to commit suicide.

His body was found on the floor by members of his family. They called Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, Bethesda, Md., and Dr. R. L. DeSaussure, 1800 I street northwest, who pronounced the astronomer dead. The body was taken to the S. H. Hines funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

Mr. Crawley was born in Charleston, S. C., and had been with the Naval Observatory 25 years.

The commissioners also ordered the graveling of the county road from Moore's shop to the Mellwood district line, about 1 mile.

Bus Line Noise Under Attack In Alexandria

Residents' Protest Brings Council Order for End of Din.

The Alexandria City Council last night received a petition signed by residents of the Second Ward protesting against the noise caused by repairing and operating buses at Cameron and Pitt streets by the company operated by Robert L. May.

R. L. Myers, sr., John D. Normoyle, Harvey Robinson and George Harlow appeared before the council in protest.

The matter was referred to the city manager and city attorney with instructions to abate the nuisance. If such authority does not exist, the council will adopt an ordinance to provide it, officials said.

A letter was received from the clerk of the city school board informing the council that the terms of Dr. John T. Ashton, chairman, and Orlando H. Kirk, member of the board, will expire December 1, when their successors should be elected.

A communication from the Order Fraternal Americans urged the retention of Kirk and Ashton. Both communications were held over to the next meeting.

The financial statement of the city for August showed a cash balance as of August 1 of $10,767.34; total receipts of $45,783.34; disbursements of $34,631.59, and cash balance August 31 of $21,919.09.

The council approved rezoning of the northwest corner of Patrick and Wythe streets from residential to commercial and on petitions for rezoning of the southwest corner of Columbus and Pendleton streets and 53 Glebe road, hearings were set for November 14.

The council denied application for rezoning of property in the vicinity of King street.

Bronchial Troubles Need Creomulsion

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and attacks the seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion. (adv.)

One of the dangers of jangled nerves is that the victim is often not aware of his own condition:

Tribute Paid To Y. M. C. A. By Roosevelt

Founder's Day Will Be Observed Today by Local Group.

President Roosevelt praises the work of the Young Men's Christian Association in "molding the moral and spiritual character of American youth" in a message made public here by the Washington Y. M. C. A. in conection with its observance of Y. M. C. A. Founder's Day.

The local association, with others throughout the Nation, today commemorates the birth of Sir George Williams, founder of the Y. M. C. A., by launching a "founder's memorial" membership expansion campaign, to be waged during the next seven days by a special organization of business and professional leaders.

The President said:

"I am aware of the fact that October 11 will mark another anniversary day of the birth of Sir George Williams, to whom we are all so much indebted for his vision and inspired effort in founding the Young Men's Christian Association.

"That organization has performed a valuable service to State and Nation in its work of molding the moral and spiritual character of American youth. The observance of Founder's Day by the many branches of the association is likewise a tribute to all those who have helped perpetuate the underlying principles so that they have come to play an important part in formulating American ideals of fair play and attitude toward our fellow men."

The tribute of America's President to the Britisher will meet response from Lady Nancy Astor, Virginian who became a member of Parliament, in an international radio broadcast from England tonight at 7:15 o'clock over the blue network of the National Broadcasting Co. Francis S. Harmon, general secretary of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A., will speak over the Columbia network at 6:45 p. m.

Final arrangements for the new membership campaign, during which an enrollment of more than 600 new members is expected, were made at a mobilization of the 300 volunteer recruiting officers last night at a rally dinner in the assembly hall of the Central Y. M. C. A.

New Sewer Urged In Deanwood Area

Washouts in Watts Run Basis of Requests.

Recent bridge washouts along Watts Run, Deanwood area, were the basis for request made last night by the Northeast Boundary Civic Association, meeting in the Burrville School, for a trunk sewer to relieve the flood situation. Commissioners were asked to recommend construction to the Federal emergency administration of public works.

Improvement of Grant street from Fifty-third street to the District line, and of Forty-ninth street from Eastern to Central avenue, also was requested, the association pointing out that the Northeast area had received from the emergency administration little consideration with reference to lateral highways out of $800,000 available.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Encephalitis in Indianapolis.

The symptoms of the encephalitis, which has prevailed in St. Louis for two months are as follows: Severe headaches, sometimes resistance to bending the neck forward and backward (it could be bent from side to side more readily), tremor or trembling in some cases, arm tendon reflexes disturbed and abdominal and cremasteric reflexes diminished or absent, Koenig's sign positive, toe reversal sign positive; Babinski, Oppenheim, Shattuck and Gordon signs negative.

Most of the patients are rather quiet and sleeping or sleepy, but when aroused are alert and give quick, sensible answers to questions. There is disturbance of the pupils. During the acute illness they are small, during convalescence large. The fever is generally low, averaging around 101 to 102. If a patient is drowsy, tapping the spinal fluid overcomes the tendency. These are the symptoms of patients sick with encephalitis, according to a report made to the Indianapolis Medical Society by a committee sent to investigate.

Lay people will understand the meaning of all parts of the report except those relating to certain reflexes and signs designated by physicians' names. The significance of those symptoms physician-readers will understand.

The symptoms are the same as those given by other reporters, except that others refer to the fever as being over 102 rather than under, emphasize more stiffness and soreness of the muscles, call attention to the tendency to complete recovery without after effects, short duration of the disease as compared with the reports that come from cases observed prior to this year, and give laboratory tests on the spinal fluid and blood more prominence in diagnosis.

Of great interest is that part of the proceedings of this society which indicates that this same disease has been somewhat prevalent in Indianapolis for two years past. The first cases appeared in October, 1931. Up to date 250 cases of it have been admitted to the Indianapolis City Hospital.

The Indianapolis epidemic followed one of epidemic meningitis. At first the symptoms were almost wholly those of meningitis. Gradually symptoms of encaphalitis have pushed those of meningitis out of the pitcure, although some of the symptoms now, such as soreness and stiffness of muscles, indicate involvement of the brain covering.

Symptoms of Cancer.

P. R. G. writes: What are the symptoms of cancer of the breast?

Reply.

A tumor in the breast is the first sign. There is but one at first and for a long time. A cancerous tumor grows faster than one that is not cancerous. It has more of a feel of being anchored than is the case with benign tumors. As time goes on this becomes more marked. Pain and tenderness are rather late symptoms. Retraction of the nipple is apt to be present, but not early. Enlargement of the glands in the armpit is a late sign. Anemia and loss of weight are very late symptoms—later than pain.

What the American People Want.

The series of overwhelming votes for the repeal of the prohibition amendment should be a lesson to those politicians who, professing to know what the American people want, have failed utterly to gauge public sentiment on this important question.

The war debts is another vital issue about which there has been much misrepresentation as to what the American people want. Political leaders—and those of both parties may be included—have done a great deal of talking on the subject, but their information and conclusions frequently have had as slight a foundation as their opinions on the attitude of the American people regarding prohibition repeal.

For years the American people have been ready to follow courageous and enlightened leadership on the problem of war debts. In fact, there is every reason to believe that they have been more intelligent on the subject than their so-called leaders.

By not meeting the issue squarely during the past few years, the politicians may have avoided some risk to themselves. But, with the passing of time, it has become more and more evident that every delay and postponement of a rational adjustment has been increasingly costly to the taxpayers of the country.

The time has come for prompt and courageous discussion and decision of the war debt problem on an economic and not on a political basis. In the light of past experience, there is every reason to believe that the longer the settlement of this vexatious question is delayed, the less Europe will feel called upon to pay and the less relief the taxpayers of this country will get.

New York City Election.

Ordinarily a municipal election is a matter of local importance, affecting only the community involved, the county and possibly the State concerned. The New York City election, however, is quite different. The financial condition of the city constitutes a major financial problem, not only for the city itself, but also for the State which is more or less financially involved with the city. Beyond the confines of the State, the magnitude of the financial problem is such as to make the contest a matter of national interest and of vital importance to the country as a whole.

The New York election, therefore, can not be viewed as a mere contest for the control of the political organization of the city, because the solution of problems of major financial importance depends upon the outcome. The present administration has shown itself incompetent to deal with those problems, while Mr. McKee, in the short time during which he was acting mayor, gave the public a right to believe that he would and could effect economies and bring financial order out of the existing chaotic conditions. The fusion candidate was selected after Mr. McKee's refusal to accept the nomination. There is no evidence to justify a belief that Mr. LaGuardia either by training or experience is fitted to solve successfully the financial difficulties that confront the city of New York.

The credit of the city of New York can not be impaired without injury to the credit of the State and of the Nation. Hence the rescue of the city from the fate that threatens it at the hands of financially incompetent administrators and reckless spenders is a matter that concerns both State and Federal authorities. The Responsibility which representatives of the State and Federal Government feel for the maintenance of sound fiscal policies, both in the State and for the Nation as a whole, explains the interest which they are manifesting in the local political contest and shows that their intervention is not a matter of choice, but a logical necessity.

American Conferences.

As President Roosevelt and President Arias of Panama consider questions affecting their respective republics at the White House, President Justo of Argentina is in Rio de Janeiro the guest of President Vargas of Brazil. The press of North, Central and South America hails these meetings as offering the most practical and effective method of arriving at prompt adjustments of differences or misunderstandings which may exist.

President Arias is well and favorably known in Washington, not only from his service here as Minister from Panama, but also because of his international reputation as a jurist and the public service he has rendered his country in various official capacities.

One of the troublesome questions under consideration by Presidents Roosevelt and Arias is the title to land in the Panamanian city of Colon, largely occupied and controlled by American residents, but which, it is claimed, should have been returned to Panama under the terms of the Canal Treaty.

It is anticipated, also, that this direct contact between the two executives will lead to tentative agreements which will result in the formulation of a general treaty that will be acceptable to both republics to take the place of the one which failed to secure the approval of the senates of the two countries.

The meeting of the Presidents of the two great South American republics on the Atlantic is attracting much attention throughout Latin America. President Vargas, in welcoming his guest from the Argentine, urged that South America establish principles for the peaceful coexistence of all the states, that those nations might make themselves heard for the benefit of humanity. President Justo likewise spoke for greater solidarity among southern neighbors in order to avoid the chaos threatened by the world economic crisis.

From the west coast, Chilean newspapers welcome the personal meeting of the heads of neighboring nations as a better means of reaching prompt and effectual results than large meetings attended by the officials of many countries. The hope is expressed that the beginning of a new international policy has been inaugurated that will lead to practical means of creating better international understanding.

Bi-partisan Commissions.

A grave issue is involved in the removal of William E. Humphrey as a member of the Federal Trade Commission. It is not a question as to whether Mr. Humphrey is the best qualified man for this position. Rather it involves the right of the President to dominate the independent, quasi-judicial bodies created by Congress to administer specific laws.

The President has extensive powers of removal. The Supreme Court has said that he "must place in each member of his official family and his chief executive subordinates implicit faith," and that when he loses confidence in any subordinate he "must have the power to remove him without delay." It is questionable, however, whether members of the independent, quasi-judicial bodies (such as the Federal Trade Commission and the Interstate Commerce Commission) can be regarded as members of the President's official family within the meaning of the Supreme Court decision. These bodies have been created by Congress to exercise specific powers delegated to them by Congress.

When Congress set up the Federal Trade Commission it provided that its officers should serve for definite terms and that they might be removed for incompetence, neglect of duty, or malfeasance. No charges of this kind are involved in the present case. The Supreme Court has said that a member of a quasi-judicial body might be removed "on the ground that the discretion regularly entrusted to that officer by statute has not been on the whole intelligently or wisely exercised." This is extremely broad language. Yet indiscretion, it appears, has not been alleged in this case.

Aside from the legal aspect of the President's powers of removal, the broad principle involved in the disruption of independent bodies must be considered. Such agencies as the Federal Trade Commission, the Tariff Commission and the Radio Commission are bi-partisan in character. Congress intended to make them as impartial and independent as possible. The members were given comparatively long terms so that they would not be ousted with every change of administration. Obviously, Congress intended that both the Republican and Democratic viewpoints should be represented on these commissions. Hence, the removal of any member whose political affiliations are opposite to those of the President, on the ground that the member does not see eye to eye with the administration, is a serious challenge of the independence of the commission.

If members of these quasi-judicial bodies are to be removed at will by the President, there can be no purpose in giving them definite terms, and very little purpose in choosing them on a bi-partisan basis. Under this practice the independent commissions might be reorganized with each change of administration. It is hardly necessary to state that such a procedure would destroy their independence and make them subservient to the President.

For this reason the case at hand takes on a vital importance. Can the President overrule the intent of Congress to establish agencies that will be free from his domination? The issue involves the rights of Congress as well as those of the President and commission members. Its solution may involve the future character of the quasi-judicial bodies. It would be unfortunate indeed if this case should establish a precedent that would impair the usefulness of the independent bi-partisan commissions.

Warmer Arctic Regions.

A Russian expedition to northwestern Siberia announces the discovery that the region is growing warmer. The Soviet Arctic expert, N. G. Datsky, has made interesting comparisons of present climatic influences with the observations conducted by Prof. Shrenk about 40 years ago. The earlier survey disclosed that during the summer months the ground remained frozen at a depth of six feet. Today this line of "eternal frost" has disappeared and throughout the summer there is no frozen ground.

The change is believed to be due to the fact that the polar ice cap is receding. Further evidence of this was found in the appearance of objects which had been covered by the ice sheet. The bodies of prehistoric mammoths on bare ground could only be explained by their having been imprisoned through the centuries in the ice cap, which upon melting had left them exposed in such a state of preservation that they had been torn and partly eaten by wolves.

The climatic tests recorded were in the vicinity of Mezen, which is just south of the Arctic Circle, more than 1,000 miles distant from the zone of the solid pack ice, or ice cap. In Mezen and Olkhovkau regions, where half a century ago only tundra grew, M. Datsky found growths of new timber. This would indicate that the Arctic regions are contracting, as they have been popularly described heretofore as too far north for tree growth.

This gradual change evokes speculation as to whether a warm climate may not again prevail in the far north. There is much geological evidence of a tropical climate in the Arctic during Tertiary times, just as it is now known that during the Pleistocene age all Arctic land probably was covered with ice.

A Challenge to Physicians.

The medical profession, according to Dr. J. Bentley Squier, president of the American College of Surgeons, "is still smarting from the unjust criticism contained in the report of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care." Many physicians regard this report as an effort to socialize medicine, and, in the language of Dr. Squier, to reduce their profession to the status of a trade. Protests against such a tendency may be heard nearly every time a medical group assembles.

In his address to the College of Surgeons in Chicago Dr. Squier emphasized the importance of individual initiative in medical research. Regimentation of physicians to look after the public health, he fears, would have a stultifying effect upon the development of medical science. He does not deny that better organization of the profession for service to the public is desirable, but insists that any changes should be planned and regulated "with the same clear thinking which has brought so many boons of modern medical science to humanity."

This is an issue in which the public as well as the physician has a vital interest. Most people would rather have a personal physician than be dependent upon doctors paid by the State for medical service. Yet the fact remains that many communities, especially in the rural sections, have a serious deficiency of doctors, while the profession is overcrowded in many cities. Physicians as a class are underpaid, while the public, believing medical care to be too expensive, squanders millions of dollars on quack remedies. Furthermore, most of the energy of the medical profession is devoted to curing disease and relatively little attention is given to preventive measures.

It was these and similar deficiencies at which the criticism of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care was aimed. There is a prevalent feeling in the United States that medical care should be available to every one at reasonable costs and that more effort should be given to preventive medicine.

This does not mean, however, that the public is in favor of socialized medicine. The issue is not drawn between maintenance of existing conditions and State control of the medical profession. The question is what can be done by the profession with its great medical organizations to extend its service and promote the general public health. There are reasons to believe that the medical profession is more capable of working out the problem than any other agency. The report of the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care presented a challenge and not an ultimatum.

In this era of executive love feasts, why not arrange to have the presidents of Bolivia and Paraguay meet and fight it out and give the boys in the Chaco jungles a rest?

Uncle Sam's Dollars.

From the Vancouver Sun.

Americans, apprehensive of inflation, are reported shipping their dollars to England and Canada. Americans who do this are foolish. They should keep idle money at home.

Yankee dollars just now dumped into Canada and England by nervous Americans will later on be as nervously and suddenly withdrawn. Their presence actually hurts Canada by giving Canadian exchange a false sense of value and security. England, too, complains about being temporary caretaker for 1,000,000,000 American dollars recently sent to Britain, not for use, but for safekeeping.

There is nothing wrong with Uncle Sam's dollar. It is probably the safest dollar in the world. It has behind it a greater per capita wealth in territory and foods and goods and technological productive capacity than any dollar on earth.

England, with 40,000,000 people and $70,000,000,000 of national wealth, has in round figures $40,000,000,000 of debt, or $1,000 debt per capita.

Canada, with 10,000,000 people and $30,000,000,000 of wealth, has in round figures $6,000,000,000 of federal, municipal and railway debt, or $600 debt per capita.

United States, with 120,000,000 people and $350,000,000,000 of national wealth, has Federal and State debts of only $40,000,000,000, or $300 per person.

With such great wealth and such small debt, why are Americans so nervous and apprehensive about their money?

The truth is that Uncle Sam and his citizens, while rich in natural wealth and productive capacity are poor in psychology and philosophy. Americans have not yet learned that in sports, in money and in life, losses and reverses are all part of the game.

Wise old John Bull, rich in experience and philosophy, grew wealthy by taking losses; England's objective was to always keep the game or the business or the country going. John Bull knows that life and business and trade go on; the people will eat and sleep and play and work under some convention or form of government. Whatever that form or value would be, John felt that he could be agile and clever enough to adjust himself to it and in the process make for himself and his family a comfortable, agreeable existence.

Just now John Bull is embarrassed with America's money. So is Canada. These unworking, unwanted dollars are no use to either of us, contributing nothing but instability to the country. When they are as hastily and nervously withdrawn home, our country will be criticized by their owners exactly as the United States is now being criticized.

The Big Game.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

LIFE AND RADIO.

Life, says Dr. George W. Crile in an address at the Century of Progress, is like the radio and involves a mechanism similar to a radio set. The doctor of the future will tune in on a patient and tell whether what he hears is a symphony concert or a garbled account of election returns.

• • • •

To the physician of 1940 you will be just another radio program.

• • • •

He will tune in and listen to your symptoms over a medical hook-up.

• • • •

And the test of your physical condition will be whether what he hears entertains him or bores him.

• • • •

It will be very simple. You don't feel right, so you say to the wife, "Jennie, something's wrong with me. You'd better call Dr. Feemish for a listening-in." The wife calls the doctor, who comes over and gives your body an audition.

• • • •

• • • •

He tunes in and listens to determine what sort of program you are broadcasting.

• • • •

"How do I sound, doc?" the patient will ask, apprehensively.

"I can't make out just now," the doctor will reply, "I don't seem able to get anything."

"Maybe it was that last operation."

"What operation?"

"The one in which I had my aerial removed."

• • • •

"Ah! Now it's coming over splendidly," the doctor will exclaim a few moments later.

"How do I sound, doc?"

"Quite—er—interesting. I've never heard a program quite like it."

"Am I as sick as that?"

"It's hard to diagnose the program. It's all mixed up as if I had two or three stations all at once."

"Maybe it's something I ate."

"What are you operating on, direct or alternating current?"

"I dunno, doc."

"It's all very vague and jumbled. Your liver sounds like Amos and Andy on one of their bad nights. . . . Your heart is as fast as Floyd Gibbon . . . the left kidney sounds part Galli-Curci and part Winchell. . . . Altogether the effect is pretty chaotic."

"Okay, doc. I give in. Turn me in and see what they'll allow my wife on a new set."

RECORDING BIRD SONGS.

It took modern engineering and science to capture the songs of birds where the musical and imitative arts had failed, says the Literary Digest. Bird songs are among the most elusive of melodies. Musicians have often tried to write them down, but most birds do not sing in the man-made scale. Their notes are usually not whole or half tones, but may be quarter tones or other fractions.

The apparatus which has first successfully recorded bird melodies was devised under the direction of Albert R. Brand, associate in ornithology, American Museum of Natural History. Mr. Brand's machine is essentially an adaptation of the equipment used in recording the human voice in talking picture studios.

The longest shot ever taken with the apparatus was during the recording of the song of a common oriole. The truck was 250 feet from the microphone, and the microphone and mirror were at least another 100 yards from the bird. At that distance it was hard to distinguish the bird through the mirror sight, yet the sound picture was completely satisfactory.

GOETHE'S "WILHELM MEISTER'S APPRENTICESHIP"

This is probably the greatest novel written in the German language; and in reading it in English, be sure and use the translation by Thomas Carlyle. For by so doing you read in the same book the work of two men of genius.

One does not read this novel for the sake of the story; the narrative is not filled with exciting incidents, Carlyle in his preface to the first edition (1824) fairly warned those readers who cared only for sensation, against it. He said with both truth and frankness: "Of romance interest there is next to none; the characters are samples to judge of, rather than persons to love or hate; the incidents are contrived for other objects than moving or affrighting us; the hero is a milksop, whom, with all his gifts, it takes an effort to avoid despising."

Yet few novels have greater charm than this. The late Lord Haldane said that Goethe had the most spacious mind since Aristotle. Into this novel Goethe poured the riches of observation, reflection, experience; every subject discussed, and there are many, is illuminated by his splendid mind. And there are two girls one can never forget—Mignon, a creature of pure imagination, and Philina, a creature wholly of this world, the most attractive of all coquettes.—Sacred and profane love.

Sheep Men Will Distrust All Police Dogs While One Police Dog Kills Sheep

By Robert Quillen.

It may be that prohibition made America lawless, but it wasn't prohibition that made good citizens fear and hate the law.

In every community there are law-abiding people who dread the machinery of law as they would a plague. The temple of justice, where all honest people should feel at ease, is to them a place of infamy.

And they have good and sufficient reason to regard the law as a partisan of evil.

Suppose some notorious character buys property on a quiet residence street and there begins to operate a bawdy house that outrages his respectable neighbors.

For the sake of their children and their own pride, these respectable ones must sacrifice their property and move away or rid their community of the criminal intruder.

They appeal to the police without result. Their only hope is to hire a lawyer and appear in court as prosecuting witnesses.

Their enemy is so notorious that no decent lawyer is willing to defend him. He therefore employs one of his own kind—a man without honor, shame or conscience.

This shyster does not hope to prove his client innocent, but he does hope to protect him from future prosecution.

Some of the prosecuting witnesses are women—the best women of the community, grimly enduring a hateful experience to protect their homes and their children.

Once they are on the stand, the shyster has them at his mercy. When he has finished with them, they will endure anything rather than enter a court room again.

"Isn't it true," he asks one, "that your father is a bootlegger in another city?" To another he says: "Your husband kept another woman in the house while you were away for the summer, did he not?" And to another: "Wasn't there some scandal about you and a male member of the choir of your church?"

All lies. But he is merely trying to "prove" that these witnesses are not more righteous than the man they appear against, and the court makes no objection.

The story isn't exaggerated. In all essentials it is a matter of court record.

Whose is the fault? Citizens can protect themselves only by resorting to violence—and going to jail.

Lawyers must do the reforming. They can clean up their profession if they will.

Press Comment

Inflation Is Not the Way.

Kansas City Times.

It is reassuring that President Roosevelt will have the powerful suport of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader of the Senate, in resisting the pressure for currency inflation.

It is evident that what most people want when they say they favor inflation is not inflation itself, but the results which they have been told inflation would bring. Those results are an orderly rise in prices and business activity to perhaps the 1926 level, so that debts may more readily be paid.

The administration is working on a program to produce these results, which may include a devaluation of the dollar. Certainly all experience shows that currency inflation would not produce the results desired, but would bring demoralizing evils, as Senator Robinson says.

Incubating Speeches.

Boston Transcript.

When you think of all the time its members have between sessions for garnering material for speeches, it almost seems as if it would be a good idea to keep Congress in session all the time.

Business Improvement.

Topeka Capital.

Considerable improvement in business conditions is reported from various South American countries. The same is true of Japan. Both imports and exports of the United Kingdom have made marked gains this year, as well as electric power production, steel and freight traffic. Holland manufacturers report a large increase of orders for future delivery, increased industrial production and rising imports and exports, contrary to the seasonal trend.

Europe and the world are coming out of depression. This country stands alone in its NRA effort, but whether it helps or hinders is not an essential factor.

Uncontrolled.

Detroit Free Press

Many a "fair, fat and forty" wishes she hadn't gone in for inflation when she did, and is ready to agree with those financial advisers who tell the President that once started, inflation is hard to stop or even to keep within reasonable bounds.

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

THERE IS something downright inspiring in the reentry of Hiram Bingham into public life, news of which has just reached our midst. Unlike his fellow Republicans who went into oblivion in last year's campaign, Hiram does not intend to wait until the pendulum swings back and then take a chance on stepping in right where he left off.

Bargeron.

Hiram apparently foresees that there is uncertainty about the pendulum swinging back and that it easily may be so far in the distant future that he will be an old man and not in a position to take his old place. Youngsters might have sprung up with no respect or regard for the fact that Hiram was one of those holding the line when the onslaught of 1932 came.

So he, very wisely, I think, decides again to start at the bottom with a view to working his way up.

TO this end Hiram recently entered into a purely municipal issue in his home town, a question of whether a barn or some public building should be painted at a cost of $100. I forget whether Hiram took the negative or the affirmative. My guess would be, though, that being such a conservative, he took the negative. Anyway, he was on the winning side, something that he never was in his first career, so to speak.

Being on the winning side in the first episode of his second career would seem to augur that the second career may be better than the first. Certainly we will follow it with interest. An interest always attaches to a young fellow just embarking upon his career; we follow him every step of the way until he finally lands in Washington.

With Hiram there will be the added interest of a fellow beginning upon his second career. It will be worth watching to see which turn he takes when he reaches the old corners, whether he will hew to the road that brought him first to Washington or take the other way. He will have the advantage of George Moses and Jim Watson and the others, though, because when the Republican time comes again he will be at a crossroads, ready to take anyone, whereas those who are just sitting around waiting will be at their destination with no opportunity of going back and coming another way.

IT calls for a never-say-die spirit to do what Hiram is doing, admittedly, but no one who knew Hiram when he was here will deny that he has that. There is a hardihood about Hiram and an imperturbability under fire.

Never was this so apparent than the time the Senate spanked him for easing a lobbyist into the private committee hearings on the tariff. Not once did the expression on his face change, not during the investigation, the denunciation or the vote. When a tendency was manifested, indeed, to separate him from the lobbyist in the spanking, he arose and calmly asked that they be spanked together. The impression is, in fact, that until this day Hiram looks upon that spanking as a tribute, as a show of affection on the part of his colleagues.

Certainly, it never disturbed him, or caused him to be backward as is often the case when corporeal punishment is administered to a child. A few months before his defeat found him a leader of the Republican wets at the Chicago convention when before he had not been the leader of anything.

I have always thought it somewhat tragic that his public career was brought to an end so shortly after he attained a leadership, the goal of every public man.

• • • •

BUT he is on the way again now. I suppose the next we shall hear is that a young up and comer by the name of Hiram Bingham is running to be one of the selectmen, if that is what they call their town council in Connecticut, and then that he is seeking a seat in the Legislature.

His great advantage in doing this is that he will be coming up with the new generation and when the Republicans get back in national power he will be looked upon as available, a promising youngster, not as one of those cast-off in the 1932 defeat.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Waiting.

How slowly drag the minutes by.
Can people really smile
And lightly walk, with heads up high,
This pale and ghastly aisle?

They said she'd be no time at all
Beneath the ether fumes,
It seems a week I've paced the hall
Outside these narrow rooms.

I'll swear I heard a woman hum
A merry tune just then!
I wonder if ever I'll become
That light of heart again?

That singing woman may have known
The doubt and dread I know
And paced this marble hall alone
A few short days ago.

Lord, grant the surgeon skill today
Safely his work to do
That she may smile and soon I may
These halls come singing through.

Envoy of God To Crush Jews, Hitler's Claim

Nazi Chief, in Book, Calls Self Divine Crusader Against Race.

New York, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—Proclaiming himself the emissary of God in his war against Jews, Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Nazi Germany gives the world some of his political and moral convictions in a book called "My Battle," to be published in this country tomorrow.

"If the Jew," Hitler writes, "with the help of his Marxian creed conquers the nations of this world, his crown will be the funeral wreath of the human race, and the planet will drive through the ether once again empty of mankind as it did millions of years ago. Eternal nature takes inexorable revenge on any usurpation of her realm.

"Thus do I now believe that I must act in the sense of the Almighty Creator; by fighting the Jews, I am doing the Lord's work."

Written Before Rise.

The book was written before Hitler's accession to power and announcement of its publication in the United States by the Houghton Mifflin Co. brought many protests, including several bombing threats.

The theme of anti-Semitism dominates Hitler's book. He refers to Jews as "that ever-present fungold growth," and says, in his criticism of the press, which he holds to be thoroughly under the thumb of the international Jew" "A 30-centimeter grenade always hisses louder than a thousand Jewish newspaper vipers—so let them hiss!"

"The Jewish race never had boundaries, as far as space was concerned," writes the Nazi overlord. "It was unlimited as regards space, but bound down by its conception of itself as a race. That people, therefore, was always a state within a state. It was one of the cleverest tricks ever invented when that state was stamped with 'religion' and so assured of the tolerance which the Aryan is always ready to extend to religious creeds.

Calls it Varied.

"For the Mosaic religion is really nothing but a doctrine for the preservation of the Jewish race. Hence it embraces nearly every branch of sociological, political and economic knowledge, which could ever come into question in connection with it. * * *

"Any man who is not attacked, slandered and calumniated in the Jewish press is no true German, no true National Socialist * * * a Marxist is as little likely to turn from treason as a hyena will turn from carrion."

The modern institution of democratic control by Parliament, according to Hitler, "has been the primal cause why all our political life has been so unbelievably flooded with all that is most worthless."

Touches on Eugenics.

"One thing we must and may never forget," the Chancellor declares. "A majority can never be a substitute for the man. It is always the advocate, not only of stupid, but also of cowardly policies, and just as a hundred fools do not make one wise man, an heroic decision is not likely to come from a hundred cowards."

Hitler declares it to be the first duty of a national state to raise marriage "from being a perpetual disgrace to the race, and to consecrate it as an institution designed to reproduce the Lord's image and not monstrous beings, half man, half monkey."

The state also, he holds, is obliged to see to it that a history of the world "is eventually written in which the question of race shall occupy a predominant position."

Parochial School In New Building

Mrs. Jenckes, Member of House, Aided Parish.

When more than 200 children file into the modernized Tenley School, 4400 block Wisconsin avenue, at 9 a. m. today, Mrs. Virginia Jenckes, Indiana member of Congress, will be at the door to watch them.

Mrs. Jenckes helped the priests of St. Ann's Parish and the sisters of Immaculata Seminary negotiate with the Board of Education for use of the abandoned building. The school, under direction of St. Ann's, has been equipped with complete modern facilities.

Nevada Divorce Suit Fought in Court Here

District Supreme Court was asked yesterday by Mrs. Effie C. Coffman, 916 Sixteenth street northwest, to restrain her husband, Roy M. Coffman, from proceeding with a divorce action against her in Nevada.

Mrs. Coffman informed the court she returned from vacation in August to find the home closed and a message from her husband requesting her to communicate with his attorney. Coffman has an income of $26,000 a year, his wife said. He formerly was employed by a building and loan association in Maryland.

Universes 'Die,' Others 'Born,' Theory of Priest-Scientist

(Associated Press.)

Possibility that the universe, like the cat with nine lives, may be "reborn" every so often through a mighty explosion, only to "die" and be reborn again in another giant blast was outlined yesterday by Abbe Georges Le Maitre, noted Belgian scientist.

Under this theory our universe perhaps is built out of ashes of another universe that existed before this one began, the Abbe explained. When the present universe "dies" also, as many scientists believe it will, still another universe may be "born" out of its ashes and live on for untold ages more.

Abbe Le Maitre is world-famous for his theories about the origin and structure of the universe. He is on leave from the University of Louvain to give a course in the theory of relativity here this winter at the Catholic University of America.

How the universe began is more easily explained through the idea of a periodical "rebirth" of the universe, Abbe Le Maitre pointed out, though he is far from sure the rebirth idea is correct. It helps explain, however, the origin of the one huge atom from which, he holds, our universe was born.

Underwood & Underwood.
ABBE GEORGES LE MAITRE.

Abbe Le Maitre disagrees with some scientists who think the universe is alternately expanding and contracting. If there is any expansion and contraction it takes place only in each of the succession of different universes, he holds.

Luther Denies Propaganda Here By Nazis

German Embassy Reply to Dickstein Upheld at State Office.

A denial that the personnel of German consulates in the United States had been increased recently through addition of Nazi propagandists, as charged by Representative Samuel Dickstein, of New York, was issued yesterday by the German Embassy.

No increase whatever in the total number of consular employes has taken place, Dr. Hans Luther, German Ambassador, declared, expressing surprise at Representative Dickstein's announcement that the results of an investigation of Nazi propaganda would be laid before the House Immigration Committee early next year.

Assistant Secretary of State Phillips upheld Dr. Luther's contention that there had been no increase in the number of officials or servants at the 43 German consular offices in this country, presenting figures to show fewer visas were issued for such attaches and employes in the first eight months of 1933 than in a corresponding period last year.

The German Embassy pointed out that Maj. Gen. Friedrich von Botticher, newly arrived military attache here, had been approved by the United States Government before the Hitler government came into power in Germany.

It was said at the embassy that German officials are quite aware of their obligation not to engage in propaganda in foreign countries.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Labor Perkins said her department had not been consulted by Representative Dickstein.

"I have read news accounts of the inquiry, but the Immigration Service has not been consulted. We shall be ready to make available to the committee whatever material they may request," she said.

Questioned as to the probability of general revision of the immigration laws in the January session, Secretary Perkins said that was purely a matter for Congress. She does not contemplate specific recommendations, save in several minor provisions touching administrative routine.

Nazis Boycott Asked.

A boycott of German goods by American workers was called for in a memorandum distributed among delegates of the American Federation of Labor convention yesterday, says the Associated Press.

After recounting what was described as unequaled persecution of trade union workers in Germany under the Hitler regime, the lengthy paper concluded:

"There can be little doubt in the minds of intelligent people that a boycott of Nazi-made goods on the part of the American workers is justified and that ultimately it cannot fail to prove effective."

The memorandum was signed by representatives of the United Mine Workers, Indiana Federation of Labor, United Textile Workers, and other groups.

Prisoner Holds Reichstag Fire Secret to Self

Pleas of Others Accused Fail to Move Stolid Dutchman.

Berlin, Oct. 10 (AP).—Marinus van der Lubbe, the stolid Dutch brickmason, still declined today to tell the whole story of the origin of the famous fire that swept the Reichstag building last February.

He appeared today at the scene of the fire as a defendant in the trial which has been resumed in an undamaged section of the building after three weeks of sessions in Leipzig.

He declined even to intimate who may have helped him in burning the building, a crime he has confessed.

Although goaded by George Dimitroff, another of the five defendants, to exonerate the other prisoners, admonished by the official defense counsel to break his silence, adjured by the presiding judge, Wilhelm Buenger, to say whether he had helpers, Van der Lubbe, after the most tense suspense, merely replied cryptically:

"That I can not tell you."

He left his hearers perplexed as to whether he meant he doesn't know, whether he is unable to remember, or whether he simply will not tell.

Unless Van der Lubbe makes a clean breast of the deed, it seems unlikely the mystery of the fire's origin will ever be fully known—at least if today's examination of six witnesses to the fire is any criterion.

Their testimony conflicted on essential points, because, apparently, those who first saw the fire and reported it were so excited they paid little attention to details.

Antarctic Stamp Still in Demand

First-Day Enthusiasts Paid $7,425 Monday.

A total of $7,425 was paid over the counter by first-day enthusiasts Monday, representing the purchase of more than 245,000 stamps. It was expected that yesterday's sales will surpass those of Monday.

Advertising Men Told To Sell Confidence

Advertising men must sell confidence as well as merchandise to the American people in these days of economic reconstruction, Frank R. Wilson, director of organization of the NRA, told the Washington Advertising Club, in session at the Raleigh Hotel yesterday.

Taking as his topic, "Now is the Time to Buy," Wilson informed advertisers the title of his talk was merely the slogan for progress just adopted by the NRA.

Miss Sullivan Becomes Bride In Georgetown

The Holy Trinity Church in Georgetown was the scene of the wedding yesterday morning of Miss Elizabeth Rose Sullivan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Sullivan, to Dr. Joseph P. O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. O'Brien, of Buffalo. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Joseph Bernard, of Great Mills, Md., at 10 o'clock.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of ivory satin, fashioned on simple lines. The veil of tulle, arranged in a cap and caught with orange blossoms, extended to the end of the medium-length train. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Francis J. Sullivan, jr., was the matron of honor and Miss Frances Sullivan was the maid of honor. Their gowns were of rust and apricot-colored satin and were made with tiny puffed sleeves and short trains. The small close-fitting turbans were of brown velvet and the slippers were of a matching shade. They carried bouquets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

Dr. Joseph Godfrey, of Buffalo, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Edward Godfrey and the bride's two brothers, Mr. Joseph Sullivan and Mr. Vincent Sullivan.

A reception and breakfast followed in the Pan-American room of the Mayflower Hotel. Mrs. Sullivan, mother of the bride, received with her son-in-law and daughter, wearing a gown of brown velvet with a corsage bouquet of talisman roses. Autumn flowers adorned the breakfast table.

Dr. O'Brien and his bride left later for their wedding trip, the latter wearing a costume of eel gray with accessories to match. Today they will sail from New York for Bermuda, where they will spend a week or more. After October 20 they will make their home at 749 Park avenue, Buffalo.

Mr. T. J. Burns, who makes his home at the Cario Hotel, is stopping in New York at the Hotel Martinique.

By RUTH ANNE DAVIS.

It's hard to imagine—don't try. Just take an hour off and drive by the shop and ask to see the cloak which may be worn either for sports occasions or formal affairs. It's made of Persian wool knit that gives the effect of Persian lamb.

Once you see it you may let your imagination rove and picture yourself in a close-fitting beret, the loose cloak around your shoulders, a black and white checked skirt and a dapper pair of black suedes. You'll enter the football stadium—choose a conspicuous entrance—and the 40,000 pairs of eyes will wander away from the football—now three inches from the goal line—and center on you. You'll nod and smile and know that no mere pigskin can compete with you.

Or else see yourself entering the club in a long cerise gown, your hair slicked to your head and your earrings dancing in the many colored lights with this ample cloak making you a dramatic figure.

There's a little cape which may be bought with it which you may wear over it to give a decidedly Parisian effect.

Schiaparelli searches the world over for ideas, sometimes taking the most commonplace things and skillfully reproducing her impressions in clothes and jewelry.

Recently she took the spinning wheel for her model and has designed some "spinning wheel" jewelry which would be a fitting accompaniment for a million-dollar costume. The background is gold accentuated by fine circular strippings of onyx.

You'll have a real treat if you stop by an F street shop and ask to see them.

Generally speaking, there's nothing new about trays, but particularly speaking, there are several things new about one in a downtown department store. In the first place it's made of wood and has a delightfully handy handle.

In the second place it has six little compartments to hold the glasses, and each compartment can be removed and used on the table as a coaster.

Almost every hostess has experienced the awful sensation of finding ringed places on her tables and chair arms from carelessly placed glasses. Often it's a nuisance to pass extra coasters and thus avoid the difficulty, but in this instance the whole procedure is perfectly simple and will insure against spotted furniture. Price, $1.25.

The bulldog heard his master come in the front door and ran joyfully to meet him. But his master passed him by without the usual pat on the head or the kick in the shins and walked into the library carrying a carefully wrapped bundle. He removed the papers and lifted out two bronze bookends which he placed on the table.

The bulldog watched curiously and gave a bark of jealousy when he saw two more bulldogs glaring down at him.

The dog cocked his head on one side and looked them over. Not so bad, he thought. He regarded them earnestly. One of them looked like his old aunt and the other one—well, he couldn't place him, but in the family no doubt.

They're on sale now in an E street shop. Just ask for the bulldog bookends.

People who do a lot of walking know that the sensible thing to do is wear hose which can stand a 5-mile jaunt with never a hole in the heel.

The problem is to find them. A Washington store says they have some that are practicality plus. They're full-fashion, cradle-foot, with narrow heels and come in all the fall colors. You can buy either service weight or pure chiffon, and all you'll have to pay is 65 cents.

From the price you'll probably picture them as the kind of monstrosities with a heavy look and cottony finish. But in this case it isn't so. Remove the price tag and no one would ever suspect they sold for less than a dollar.

You know how it is, when you start a new dress and see it gradually take shape under your expert (ahem!) hands, it's quite a trial to stop when shadows fall and the light over your machine is a strain on your eyes. If you had one of the little sewing machine lights which fit close down over the material you'd find that you could sew for hours at a time and never feel the tug of tired eyes. A G street shop has some which are extremely reasonably priced.

Coats With Tied Collars Keep Throats Snugly Warm

Directed by Amos Parrish

Women who were children some 30 or so years ago doubtless still remember their pride in the fur tippet Santa Claus left. And how snug and comfy it felt to be all tied up in it.

Some of this season's coats use the tied tippet idea. Of course in a very up-to-date modified way.

One of the coziest is that chin-chucking collar sketched . . . high, wide and pouched, with its ends looped over each other like an Ascot scarf. (Sometimes one end is slit for the other to be slipped through.)

This kind of tied collar wants to be soft and pliable, so it is usually made of soft, medium length haired fur, such as kolinsky, mink or dyed squirrel. Sometimes of caracul

Tied Scarfs.

Another snug-fitting tied collar is really a scarf. This you pull tight around your neck and loop the ends over. Or this, too, may have one end slit for a slip-through fastening.

These scarfs can be made of the same furs as the pouch collar or of flatter or curly haired furs as Persian, krimmer or galyak. Because of the nature of the fur, these latter scarfs aren't quite so warm as the others. But they certainly have a neat, tailored air.

If you don't want a great deal of fur but still want it up around your throat, there's a collar which stands up with a little flare and is tied at the side with fabric ends. Soft furs of the kolinsky type are most used for it. And this is one of the collars you're apt to find on those very new coats with fur borders.

The broad band of fur at the bottom looks best when there is just a small bit of fur at the top. And this collar gives you just that small bit.

Even the long-haired furs . . . fox and wolf . . . are made into tied collars. There's a setback shawl with fabric tie ends that's as youthful as they come.

Fur on Sleeve.

These coats with tied collars are good ones to choose if you happen to want fur on your sleeves. Coming up so high and close about the throat, they don't spread over the shoulders so much as the other kinds of fur collars.

So if you do put fur on the upper part of your sleeves, you don't look so top-heavy as you might with a different kind of collar.

You'll note that the coat illustrated has fur on the sleeves. Yet it does not look top-heavy.

The Family Marketer

Produce From West Increases and Cool Temperature Is Needed for It.

Marketers who purchase products from the West Coast should keep in mind that these not only come in refrigerator cars but packed in ice, too. As soon as they are bought they should be taken home and put in as cool a place as possible. The fact that sometimes they blacken or yellow before they're cooked doesn't mean an inferior quality of vegetable. It simply means that having been subjected to low temperatures they can not readily adjust themselves to warmer ones.

Artichokes should be cooked as soon as possible if you want to keep them several days. The large ones are selling for the usual 10 cents apiece or three for 25 cents, but the smaller ones may be bought seven for 25 cents. These make extremely attractive salad substitutes and are delightfully inexpensive.

Smaller More Attractive.

Instead of buying two large artichokes and slitting them to serve four people, you'll find that four of the smaller ones lend themselves to a more attractive looking dish and have the same delicious flavor as the others.

Among the most tempting-looking products on the market today are the big red Jonathan apples from Washington State. The extra fancy variety are selling for 50 cents a dozen and their sweet flavor and choice quality make them worth it.

Hot House Tomatoes.

A few of the local tomatoes are still appearing, but they're being decidedly outclassed by some of the hot house varieties from Ohio. Those from nearby are selling for 10 cents a pound and the others for 20 cents.

For just ordinary sandwiches the less expensive ones are good enough, but if you want a salad as lovely to look at as to taste you can safely bet on the hot house dainties.

Market dealers warn us if we're cantaloupe lovers we should make the best of them now, for every shipment is liable to be the last. The most popular sellers are those from Colorado, but even these are gradually passing out. However, Texas and Arizona may be counted on for a few weeks yet to supply the market. Nice large ones now are 15 cents apiece.

Now that cool weather seems to be definitely here, we can enjoy some of the choice cuts of pork with decided relish. This week has seen it jump in price a few cents. You can buy a pork roast for 23 cents a pound, and if you serve this with browned sweet potatoes, parsnips and apple sauce, you have a meal fit for a king.

Nonchalant!

Genial John Barrett Shared Bows With Girl Who Lampooned Him.

Genial John Barrett was in Washington some time ago and was greeted by a host of friends who recalled his hospitality while director of the Pan-American Union.

Before the service, Mr. Barrett had served as the United States Minister to Siam. Frequently thereafter Mr. Barrett embellished his conversation with references to his friend, the King of Siam, and other notables he had met in the course of his peregrinations.

During the World War a number of Washington society girls attended the National Service School, a military encampment where young women were trained for Red Cross work and in rehabilitation crafts under strict military discipline. Once a week the camp rules were relaxed for a sing and a good time.

A local belle one night put on a stunt which she called "John Barrett and the Notables He Has Met." The saucy miss had studied Mr. Barrett's speeches and even his gestures and the audience was in roars of laughter over the impersonation.

"Sh, Sh, Sh!" suddenly came from the group of merrymakers. But the camp Elsie Janis kept on with the imitations. Finally she finished and was bowing to the wild applause when John Barrett stepped up to her and said: "May I take the bows with you? I really think you should share with me."

Variety Yours If Meat Loaf Graces Table

It's a Versatile Dish and Quite Satisfactory for Sunday Supper.

By Ruth Chambers.

For, variety serve a meat loaf. Or, if you are accustomed to making use of this convenient, economical and savory way of serving meat, achieve variety by new combinations of ingredients. Doubtless you pride yourself upon your collection of cake recipes. Why not collect recipes for meat loaf? You'll find this an interesting field of research.

The meat loaf is very versatile. Piping hot, it comes to the table as the main dish at dinner. Served cold, in thin slices, it has its place at the buffet supper. It may be the basis of a delicious Sunday night "company" supper, accompanied by potato salad in lettuce cups, bread and butter slices and a hot beverage.

Infinite Variety.

Sliced meat loaf forms one of the tastiest of sandwich fillings. For picnics, the entire loaf may be packed, to be sliced as needed.

It may be part of an oven-cooked meal. It is a meat dish which can be prepared in advance, often a great convenience to a housewife.

It is a way of making use of less-demanded, but often most savory cuts of meat, since the grinding breaks the connective tissues without any loss of the flavor and the nutritive value of the meat.

Meat Loaf De Luxe.

1½ pounds ground beef
4 crackers, rolled
Salt and pepper
1 cup seedless raisins
3 eggs, beaten slightly
Slices of bacon
3 slices mild cheese

Mix well and put half the mixture into a baking dish. Cover with very thin slices of mild cheese. Cover with the rest of the meat mixture. Shape into a loaf and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Ten minutes before serving, cover the top with strips of bacon and continue cooking until the bacon is crisp.

Creole Meat Loaf.

1½ pounds chopped beef
1 small onion
1 large green pepper
2 small pickles
1½ teaspoons salt
1 pimento
pepper and paprika
Strained tomato juice

Mix the beef with the chopped onion, the green pepper, finely chopped, the pickles cut in small pieces and the tomato juice. Season with salt, pepper and paprika. Oil the loaf pan, and place half the mixture in it. Cut the pimento in long strips and arrange over the meat. Place the rest of the meat over it and bake for an hour in a moderate oven.

Picnic Meat Loaf.

2 pounds ground lamb
1 pound ground fresh pork
1 pound veal, ground
1 green pepper, minced
1 small onion, minced
2 eggs
1-3 cup cracker crumbs
½ cup cooked tomatoes
Salt
Pepper

Mix thoroughly and form into a loaf. Pour over it 1 cup of tomato juice and bake in a moderate oven for an hour, basting several times wit htomato juice.

Baked Lamb Loaf

2 pounds lamb shoulder, ground
1 cup milk or stock
1 egg
1 cup bread crumbs
2 tablespoons minced parsley
2 tablespoons minced onion
½ green pepper, minced
Pepper

Beat the egg, add liquid, then the crumbs and let soak 10 minutes. Combine the ground meat and seasonings. Then combine the two mixtures and turn into a well greased tin. Bake in a moderate oven for an hour and a half.

Pigeon Wakes Her Every Day at Dawn

Seattle (AP).—Every morning lately, about dawn, Miss Eleanor Macdonald says, a pigeon has been flying in through her window.

He raids the kitchen, pecking away at crumbs or fruit, and then flies to her bed. There he walks back and forth, preening himself and cooing.

"I think he must be the pet of some former tenants," she says. "But he interrupts my morning sleep."

Works to Save "Dull" Children

DR. LILLIAN SMITH,
leader in child welfare work, believes most dull children are ill, and with this in mind has led a Nation-wide movement to make medical care available to all in need.

Most Dull Children Just Ill, Woman Health Crusader Says

Physician Tells How P.-T. A. Is Saving Thousands From Disease.

A brisk little person with graying hair, smartly clad in severe black and white, the physician obligingly expounded her theory while in Washington last week, attending the child health recovery conference called by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

"Subnormal students are proving themselves normal, even exceptional, when defects in eyesight, hearing and heart are corrected through our annual summer round-up," she declared.

In Work Five Years.

Five years' work as national chairman of the summer round-up committee of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers has familiarized Dr. Smith with the subject of child health.

Her job, as representative of the congress to the Conference, was to tell of malnutrition among children and to stress necessity of bringing diet up to standard requirements. Graduate of Tufts Medical School, in Boston, she has been director of the Michigan Bureau of Child Hygiene since 1925.

Dr. Smith superintended the physical examination of 9,000 children of preschool age in 1928, her first year as national "round-up" chairman.

Through her efforts, each successive year has seen a steadily increasing number of children thus helped to physical and mental progress. Last year, 85,000 boys and girls of preschool age passed through local clinics conducted in every State in the Union by the Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Aim to Educate Parents.

"Youngsters we contact are greatly benefited, of course," Dr. Smith related. "But our main object is to educate parents to the necessity of continuous medical supervision of their children and early corrective treatment.

"From this standpoint, I consider the summer round-up one of the most important health movements now carried on; one that is bound to result in higher standards of child health."

Dr. Smith cited the instance of a 3-year-old child injured at birth. Considered a hopeless cripple by his parents, he was entered in one of the summer round-up clinics this summer. Examination revealed the injury could be corrected if speedily treated. He was entered in a hospital for an operation and today is definitely on the road to normal physique.

"Had the parents waited until the child was 6 or 7, the damage might have been irreparable," said Dr. Smith. "His body was twisted and his lungs were threatened by thwarted chest development.

Psychological Harm, Too.

"Psychological harm was being done. He was being kept apart from other children. His parents, perhaps unconsciously, seemed somewhat ashamed of and apologetic for his condition. In time, the child would have been permanently marked by self-consciousness and a sense of inferiority, in addition to his physical handicap."

More than 50 per cent of the 85,000 children examined this summer, most of whom were between 5 and 7 years of age, were found to be physically defective.

Common ailments are malnutrition, enlarged tonsils and adenoids, decayed teeth, which affect breathing, hearing and heart action, and defective vision.

Where parents can not pay for corrective treatment, it is provided free through cooperation of the Parent-Teacher Congress with civic and social welfare organizations.

Although the summer round-up health check is a project of the Parent-Teacher Congress, this organization is urging community and civic groups in towns, villages and rural districts to sponsor it in areas where the National Congress is not represented.

"There is no reason why any public-spirited group could not do the same work," Dr. Smith declared. "We would be glad to give them all possible help."

Poem of the Pessimist.

By Katherine W. Smith.

I've laughed when I have wished that I
Could weep, and cried out flippant things
To hide my tenderness, my eyes
Are hardened to my sorrowings.

But I have laughed too long, and now
The world is laughing too . . . I find
That I've forgotten how to weep—
The world remembers I am blind.

Dressing School Girl a Problem Demanding Care

Serious Study Will Cut Cost and Keep Wardrobe in Shape.

Dressing the grammar school girl economically, yet pleasingly, is a problem of special interest nowadays. It goes without saying the first step is to determine what actually is needed, and the second, to examine carefully the clothes on hand.

Gymnastics, dancing and swimming call for special garments, and the sizing up of needs helps in distributing wisely the amount one has to expend. Also, it lessens the danger of spending too much on certain garments and being forced to sacrifice others of possibly greater importance.

Enlist the child's interest when planning and selecting her clothes. While a busy mother may feel she can make decisions much more quickly and painlessly herself, the child with ideas of her own may be made shy and unhappy because of selections imposed upon her.

Make certain that clothes set well and are durably constructed. Active, growing children need simple styles that fit comfortably, stay in place, adjust easily to growth and are durable enough for rough play. Such clothing permits proper physical growth, leaves the mind free for other things and contributes in no small measure toward development of poise and self-confidence.

Washable materials are best for school dresses. Attractive and serviceable cottons for practically any type of outfit are now available at very little cost. Only in exceptional cases is the warmth of wool dresses really necessary, as underwear can be adjusted easily to changes in temperature, and warm wraps can be provided for outdoor wear.

Firemen Overlook Crippled Youngster, But Is He Happy?

Columbus, Ohio (AP).—When more than 1,000 crippled children were taken to a football game by Columbus firemen, Irwin Diamond, 12, was overlooked.

Irwin saw a fire prevention display and a movie, ate a huge meal at a restaurant, pulled the siren on fire engine No. 1 and received a ticket on the 50-yard line to the Ohio State-Vanderbilt game next Saturday, with the promise he'd meet Coach Sam Eillaman and the team.

Women Chided For Passing Up Political Chance

Suffrage Leaders Blames Their Inability to Agree on Leadership.

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Women have been more a decoration for political clubhouses than a fundamental adjunct to politics, in the opinion of Mrs. Antoinette Shuler, suffrage pioneer of the fighting days of Carrie Chapman Catt.

"Women have not come up to expectations in their use of the weapon they worked so hard for," she said today.

"They have been more of an appendage in politics than a basic part," this gray-haired woman, who acts and speaks with the pep of a subdeb, said. She had been chairman of campaigns and surveys during the suffrage battle. Her special field of attack had been the States of Maine, Michigan, South Dakota and Oklahoma, as well as western New York State.

Says Men Run Show.

"Women may attend political meetings and all that," she said, "but when candidates are chosen, when party platforms are drawn and when party schemes are dictated, it is the men who do it—behind closed doors.

"Which is to say, we generally lend the effect of being 'all dressed up and no place to go.'" Mrs. Shuler, former president of city and State federations of women's clubs, whose work all her life has been for and with women, said:

"We never have held the offices that were naturally expected after securing the power to vote," she added.

Blames "Master's Voice."

In Mrs. Shuler's opinion, the three elements in this shortcoming are "women's custom of 'listening to their master's voice;' men's traditional opposition to women appearing in politics, and women's up-to-now inability to show political cohesion and cooperation among themselves.

"Many women are so used to hearing one man in the family tell them what they should do and what they should not do, what is ladylike and what is not ladylike, that naturally the men, enmassed in assembly districts, doubled and tripled the decision of 'what was not proper,'" she said.

"The other reason is that generally many women are regarded as queens in their own homes—and when they get together in a political body it is then difficult for them to conceive of anyone else being 'queen.' Thence the breaking up and disintegration of what might otherwise be a strong bulwark."

Sees Chance of Success.

In her quick manner and husky voice, she reflected "there might yet be a chance of success with voting if the women really strike out to make the possibilities probabilities. To a certain extent they have done this within the past few years."

Regarding the possibility of a woman President, Mrs. Shuler said: "Woman has to prove herself in a big way first. She must be as efficient and capable to do the job as a man is. She must be an executor of big things.

"No one should speculate, nor even want to speculate, on the probability. Women first must prove themselves step by step."

Sister of Late Nicholas Longworth Writes Novel.

The Countess de Chambrun, sister of the late Nicholas Longworth, arrived recently in New York from Paris, bearing the manuscript of a novel. It is based on the life of Shakespeare, in which she has been making particular researches. Lippincott will publish the book.

Latest among dire predictions for the American people is that of Dr. John Martin Hess, Los Angeles orthopedic surgeon and foremost authority on the human foot. He says, in his book, "New Feet for Old," published by Doubleday-Doran, that in 50 years American women will all be in wheel chairs. This is due to the effect of the automobile and of footwear, which is far more cruel than the binding of feet by the Chinese.

The December number of the American S, ctator will inaugurate a new book column by Ernest Boyd.

Without having read Miss Gene Gauntier's novel, "Sporting Lady," published by Alfred King, it is not too rash to say that her own life is even more interesting. As a girl she trouped with a stock company, playing melodramas in hundreds of one-night stands. She entered moving pictures at their start, with the old Kalem firm, and played leads solely. She wrote and directed some 500 films in which she appeared. She was the first star to be advertised. She discovered David Wark Griffith and made him a director of the old Biograph Co. In 1912 she made the first film of the life of Christ, in Palestine, and took the part of the Virgin Mary. She has a theater in Kansas City named in her honor. And her brother-in-law is Count Wenner-Gren, director of the Scandinavian Electrical Trust, who recently purchased the late Ivar Krueger's "floating palace" yacht.

Three Against the World.

A novel, "RED CLAY," by Frederick Arnold Kummer; Sears, $2.

One discovers in the end pages of the book the significance of the title; the first man, Adam, had a name, which, translated from the original Hebrew, meant red earth, red clay—"of the earth, earthy."

But if one expects this novel to treat of the passions of the soil in the tradition of the last decade of Ostensos and Hamsens, then this story of Alan Prentice, a former bank clerk; Sylvia Martin, a beaten-by-the-big-city artist, and Horace Todd, fiddling vagabond familiar with the classics, will prove a disappointment. Motivating the amateur back-to-the-soil movement hinted at in the latter stages of the story is the economic status of the trio and the besetting desire of Sylvia to hide her scarred face from the world. No desire to till and plough is shown.

The story, however, makes pleasant reading. Two people, Alan and Judy (who is Sylvia), meet in the doorway of a defunct bank in the rain. Alan has just been fired; Judy's abilities as illustrator have found no taker. Judy is an adept with marionettes and the two decide to pool misfortunes together on the road as mountebanks. Their inexperience thrusts Horace into their company, and the three adventure along the highways southward.

Inevitably the triangle occurs when Judy, Horace and Alan are thrown together in Todd's ancestral home in Maryland to live the winter through. Horace, twice her age, is the solicitous, paternal, worshiper-from-afar; Alan is genuinely in love with her. Irate townspeople eventually force the latter to cave-man tactics and he overcomes Judy's obsession that only pity is in his heart. Horace's Santa Claus act to save the mortgage for his young friends ends the story on a quaintly melodramatic note. DON BLOCH.

Grandmother Meigs Again.

"A NICE LONG EVENING," by Elizabeth Corbett; Appleton-Century, $2.

In this book Miss Corbett displays the same skill in handling dialogue and presenting thoroughly human characters in a swiftly-moving plot which made her previous novel, "The Young Mrs. Meigs," a best seller.

The same characters appear in both books, and, although Mrs. Meigs is a little older in "A Nice Long Evening," she is as delightful as ever in proving that any woman can be ageless. Her existence is never of the chimney-corner variety ordinarily attributed to a woman of 80-odd years.

Following the incidents that enliven her days would be enjoyable for any reader. Mrs. Meigs never is dull, whether selecting her own books at the rental library (so the clerk won't have a chance to wish pious novels onto her) or purposely forgetting her glasses because she dislikes wearing them anyway. It is interesting, too, to follow events in the lives of those who surround Mrs. Meigs. There are her four children, all married; her two "adorable" grandchildren, for whose happiness she is anxiously concerned; the three old women who play bridge with her; Molly and the baby, who have come to live with her; Dr. Manning, for whom she eventually finds a suitable niche, and another "admirer," whom she meets at the rental library. All of these weave in and out of the life of Mrs. Meigs, who believes that "if you really wanted to do a thing, you might better do it at 80 than younger; you felt the adventure of it more."

Naturally, all of those with whom she comes in contact are devoted to Mrs. Meigs, but in her own mind, "devotion was like steam heat; you wanted it, of course, but you didn't want too much of it."

This story, delightful in every page, makes good reading. Its subtle humor, keen characterization and smooth plot will insure its popularity. And there are valuable lessons in it for some men, many women and every grandmother.

HOPE RIDINGS MILLER.

Only Woman Lighthouse Keeper Says Sixth Sense Warns Her Even in Sleep of Danger to Mariners

Has Filled Man-Sized Job Since 1925; Appointed by Coolidge.

As long as her tower light shines down in her eyes, Uncle Sam's only woman lighthouse keeper sleeps soundly each night up at Turkey Point, Md.

But darkness shrieks a sudden alarm to Mrs. Fannie M. Salter and speeds her out into the bleakest of nights and up her winding tower steps to fling afar the light that guards river, bay and canal travelers.

Mrs. Fannie M. Salter, Uncle Sam's only woman lighthouse keeper, has left a sick bed and faced a blizzard to keep mariners safe in storm-roiled waters off Turkey Point, Md. She is shown at the daily task of polishing the lighthouse lamp and, with her son, Bradley, on the grounds of the 100-year-old station.

So it is with the shifting of winds and the coming of fog.

"I can always tell when a fog is coming," she explained to a recent interviewer, speaking in the pleasant little drawl of the Virginia lowlands where she was born and reared. "I don't know how, maybe it's a sixth sense. But it wakens me even before it arrives. The same way with any thick weather—rain or sleet or snow. An east wind, of course, always makes me suspicious."

Tower 100 Years Old.

The cluster of white frame buildings at her station—the farmhouse, the 100-year-old tower, the little oil and bell houses and barn—glistened bright and clean under a noon sun. In all directions from this three-acre point one sees rustic shores and the winding rivers that meet here, the Schuylkill, Northeast and Elk, and, straight ahead, Chesapeake merging into the skyline.

Keeper Salter and her little family are accustomed to informal interviews. From nearby river resorts yachting parties and swimmers in rowboats tie up frequently at her rocky shore and climb the cliff's narrow, wooden steps to inspect the tower and get acquainted with our only woman lighthouse keeper. Occasionally they drive out the rough, dirt road from Northeast, 14 miles away.

What Questions.

"Their favorite question," Mrs. Salter laughed, "is whether I have to keep the light burning every night. And one little boy, when I told him the other day the lighthouse was just 100 years old, exclaimed, 'Gee whiz, have you been here all that time?'"

Mrs. Salter's intent gray eyes remind one of the long watches she has stood against the menace of storms. There is only a little gray in her brown hair and her figure has kept the straight, strong lines of the inveterate hiker.

"I have no idea how many steps I've climbed on this job," she smiled. "There are about 50 steps and then the ladder in my tower. I've averaged four round trips a day for my eight years and, before my husband's death, I helped him 10 years here and 11 in his other lighthouses. I've never figured it out."

An Easy Day.

"This is an easy day," she replied to an inquiry about her routine. "The first thing in the morning I ran up and put out the lamp in the tower. After breakfast I went back and cleaned the tower, polished the lenses, covered them with the linen cover and drew the window curtains all around. That's to keep the sun off the lenses. Then I brought down the lamp, cleaned and trimmed it and put in the oil. It holds enough to burn all night. With that fixed and the bell clock wound, I'm free for house and garden until dusk.

"Then I'll be taking the lamp up and will light it after I draw back the curtains. I'll sit there a while to make sure it's burning all right and around 9 or 10 o'clock I'll run back again to see that everything is O. K. And while I'm there I'll take my look over the surrounding country. Three lights with no keepers I watch and report to Baltimore immediately if they go out. There is the lighthouse at Havre de Grace, 9 miles away; one at Fishing Battery, 6 miles in the other direction, and the beacon light at Arnold's."

Job Has Its Thrills.

But this is all child's play to Keeper Salter. It is when things happen all at once, as they have a way of doing, that her work really begins. There was that bleak night when the bell cable broke. She was alone with her son, Bradley, who was only 7 then and slept soundly through it all.

"I 'smelled' a fog in the air," she related, "and just knew we were in for a night of it. So I sat up, and about midnight heard the whistle of the passenger boat, making for Philadelphia around our point. I ran out and turned on the appliance that starts the fog bell ringing our signal, four times a minute. But just as I got back to the house there was a horrible crash. The cable had broken. It holds an 800-pound weight that regulates the bell clock. Once we wind the clock the bell rings automatically for 2½ hours, when it's working right.

"There was just one thing to do. I ran out and pulled the bell rope, counted 15, pulled it again, counted 15 again, and kept this up steadily four times a minute for 50 minutes until the boat was well around the point and headed for the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal. I'm sure I never was more tired. The noise of the bell was earsplitting and that constant pull on the rope out in the cold was back-splitting."

Mrs. Salter received her appointment following the death in 1925 of her husband, Clarence, who served the same post. The Lighthouse Service in Washington had ruled against women for these positions, but neighbors gained the support of their senator, who secured for her a special appointment from President Coolidge. She has been filling ever since this man-sized job, with entire satisfaction to the men at headquarters.

"There's nothing while I'm conscious that could ever keep me from that tower or bell when they need me," she declared quietly. "I've gone out with fever from a sick bed into a blizzard and lived through it, and I'll do it again when necessary."

Inland waterway steamers and barges from New York and Philadelphia to Baltimore, Norfolk and sometimes farther South, comprise much of the Turkey Point traffic. Also there are yachts and small fishing boats and nearby resorts, dozens of them on good sailing days.

Fishermen and Hunters.

Keeper Salter's is a happy, busy family, alert to the call of passing ships, wise like their neighbors in the lores of fishing, farming and duck hunting. Turkeys and chickens hold sway in their barnyard and down a hillside their sheep graze. Toots, a Chesapeake Bay hunting dog, eagerly follows Son-in-law James and Brother Bradley when they take down their guns each fall. And in matters of fishing they have won wide fame.

"We knew that last hurricane was coming before it was predicted," explained Mrs. Salter's daughter, Mrs. Olga Crouch. "We caught an 8-foot shark one day and as big a sturgeon the next. We figured only an unusual storm would send in those fellows. The sturgeon's roe brought $30 from a wholesaler and the shark made gobs of money for a county fair at 5 cents a look."

Serving ships that sail by night and day is a family tradition with them. Mrs. Salter's other daughter, Mabel, living in southern Maryland, is married to the first mate on the lighthouse tender that visits Turkey Point and nearby stations.

"This Is Home to Us."

Little granddaughter Melba, sturdy and tan, with big blue eyes and boyish-clipped yellow hair, regarded the visitor seriously. Swinging on the porch glider with Dusty, the cat, she entertained with a tuneful, if husky, rendition of her grandmother's favorite hymn, "Let Your Lower Lights Be Burning."

"It's always been home to us—this sort of place," remarked Mrs. Salter, "ever since my honeymoon at a lighthouse near Cape Charles. Once when the girls were little we stayed with Mr. Salter at a screw pile lighthouse, built out in the bay, where families were only allowed to visit for two weeks at the most, and with permits from the office. We stayed six weeks without a permit—we loved it so, living right up in the tower and fishing from off our porch. I hid with the girls in a closet one day when an inspector paid a surprise visit. I think he caught on when Olga knocked a pipe off the shelf where I'd hid her, but he was nice and didn't say anything."

What Today Means

"Libra."

If October 11 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 10 to 11:30 a. m., from 5 to 6 p. m. and from 8:45 to 9:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 3 to 4:30 p. m. and from 6:45 to 8 p. m.

You will perhaps be inclined to call for help on this date when as a matter of fact you will not need it; do not let doubt and hesitation creep into your work. Be steadfast. The wedding held on this day should prove a happy and joyful affair with every indication of turning out successfully.

The child born on this October 11 will not do things by halves. He will throw his heart and soul into all that he does and will come as near to reaching perfection as does anyone. This little one will look you squarely in the eye and if the thinks badly of you, he will speak out frankly and not behind your back.

If October 11 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely an average person who will neither rise to great heights nor sink to great depths. You will in all probability poke along through life, enjoying a goodly amount of it and meeting your periodic setbacks like all the rest. You are not the type to become hardened by the depressing things all must pass through, for, all in all, you are a hopeful person. You are quite natural in all things that you do; your tastes are simple. You go in for the beautiful rather than for the impressive. Your greatest weakness will probably lie in your tendency to rely too greatly on a few people whose importance to you will be all out of proportion to their true worth. When these people pass out of your life, for any reason at all, you will feel that a part of yourself is gone.

Born on October 11, the women are pretty much the home-loving and home-building type; few of them stray into business and a majority of them probably marry early in life and settle down happily to family life. The men drift out into the business world or into some other activity, almost any kind, and take their places as cogs, though perhaps not too important ones, in the machinery of life. Both sexes enjoy music, the theater and other forms of healthy amusement. They are not the type to rush wildly along. They move at a comfortable speed in all that they do and they get about as much out of life as does the average person.

Successful people born on October 11:

Prentiss Mellen, jurist.
Henry Dexter, sculptor.
John D. Runkle, mathematician.
Henry J. Heinz, manufacturer.
Paul Ambrose, organist.
Harlan Fiske Stone, jurist.

Mrs. Greenway Here, Eager for Job in Congress

Arizona's Lone Delegate Is Thrilled at Prospects; Hunts a Home.

She fairly radiates vitality, does striking Isabella Greenway, Arizona's new Congresswoman and girlhood intimate of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In Washington to confer with Arizona delegates on a proposed public works project for relief of unemployment in her state, she swept into her apartment at the Willard Hotel at 7 o'clock last evening, over an hour late for an appointment with press representatives.

In a day devoted to serious discussion of problems affecting the lives of her constituents, she had found time to work in a brisk morning walk and luncheon at the White House with the First Lady; to visit her suite of offices on the first floor of the old House Office Building and to the Capitol where, in the Hall of Statuary, is a Borglum statue of her late husband, John Greenway.

Thrilled by Statue.

"I nearly died of excitement when I saw John's statue," she exclaimed as she tossed purse and gloves on the table. Asked if she had seen it before, she replied:

"Oh, yes, I've seen it again and again. There's a bad light on it, don't you think?"

Tall and beautifully proportioned, Mrs. Greenway wore an ankle length jacket frock of warm beige in pebble crepe, severely plain. The blouse, made surplice style, was trimmed with covered buttons.

She removed a broad-brimmed shallow hat of deep brown velvet, matching her suede slippers in color, to fluff up an abundant crown of crisp graying hair, swirled high about her head. Her purse, an enormous one, and her gloves were brown.

"I'm terribly excited and so happy!" she declared. "So thrilled to have a chance to work. I'd be ashamed to have you know how happy I am at having work to do. I've never had a job before in my life—that is, a real job!"

"We—" referring to the governor and the senators from her State—"are very concerned about our State. There is absolutely no change in the unemployment problem there, except through the relief which has been afforded through the Civilian Conservation Camps. That has helped materially."

State in Desperate Need.

Mrs. Greenway, said that in a State of less than half milion population, 140,000 people in Arizona are being supported by public funds and have been for more than 2 years.

"The situation is desperate," she said. "Our one industry, copper mining, is closed."

Then she sought to turn conversation from herself by launching into enthusiastic praise of Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey.

Mrs. Rumsey, chairman of the consumers' advisory board of the NRA, made her debut in New York society with Mrs. Greenway.

"I wonder if you realize what an entrancing person she is to know?" she demanded, referring to Mrs. Rumsey. "I have known her since I was 16, and she was all of 17. Mary is that kind of great artist who is always quietly behind the real things. Ever since I have known her, I have found her to be one of the most public-spirited women in this country."

Discussing the NRA and its effect upon the people of Arizona, she said:

"We are absolutely in accord with the whole picture. The spirit in support of the President's program of emergency relief is 100 per cent. But our State has practically no circulatory money.

Small Merchant Hit.

"Small merchants are hardest hit. In almost every instance they have borrowed money in order to increase payrolls: small loans for a short time, on arrangement that there would be money released in State public works programs."

Mrs. Greenway's present visit to Washington will be of indefinite length, no longer than it takes her to accomplish her utmost on behalf of her constituents, and, if possible, find a house for herself here.

With her is her 9-year-old son, John, jr., who stoutly declined, prior to his mother's return to the hotel, to be interviewed. He departed for dinner remarking that he "would much rather be home."

Her entry into the social and political life of Washington marks the resumption of a close friendship with Mrs. Roosevelt, which began in girlhood in the aristocratic society of New York City. They were debutantes at the same time. Mrs. Roosevelt was then the niece of the President of the United States and the names of the two girls were often together in society columns.

New Congresswoman

MRS. ISABELLA GREENWAY, Arizona's sole voice in the House of Representatives and friend since debutante days of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, is in Washington to promote a public works program for her State—and to look for a house.

Washington Women in Welfare

Mrs. Schloss a Leader in Jewish Relief Efforts, Community Chest.

A member of the national committee of the National Council for Jewish Women, as well as an executive member of the local chapter of the National Council, Mrs. Leonard B. Schloss has been active in Jewish welfare work for the last 18 years. She serves on the boards of the Jewish Foster Home and Jewish Welfare Federation, and is national senior adviser for the Junior Auxiliary of the National Council.

With the coming of the Chest, a great deal of Mrs. Schloss' activities was transferred to that organization. She has been a consistent member of the special gifts unit and a tireless worker in the speakers' unit, in addition to being a member of the board of trustees and of the budget committee.

"There is plenty of work for everyone to do," Mrs. Schloss says. "To overcome the present situation everyone must consider him or herself drafted to do something. It is not a one man or one woman job, but a task that must be faced by the entire community if we are to rid our country of the disastrous situation it is now facing.

"For 18 years I have devoted a great deal of my time to all phases of social work and social welfare and I am confident that now, as never before, the interest of American women is needed in local social service activities.

"We could well follow the example set by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the outstanding woman in America today, whose activities should prove an incentive to American womanhood in special work activities."

Castor and Olive Oils Excellent For Dry Scalp

Brushing and Massaging Sun Treatments Good for Most Hair.

Many women are still complaining that exposure to summer sun, salt water and shower has served to dry their hair so completely that it is difficult to get it back to normal. What the dry type of scalp and hair needs is oil and plenty of it. Half and half castor and olive oil makes a splendid treatment for dry hair. The hair should be parted every half inch and the oil applied along the part with a pad of absorbent cotton.

The oil may be warmed somewhat before using, but should not be hot enough to scald the scalp. When the entire scalp is covered with the oil, wrap a towel or clean linen cloth around head and allow the oil to remain on the scalp as long as convenient, if possible overnight.

Roots Nourished.

When this treatment is preceded by a thorough brushing and scalp massage, the pores are thrown wide open and the oil serves to nourish the hair roots more thoroughly.

After the oil treatment, instead of shampooing in the usual way, spraying the hair first, apply the liquid soap and work up a rich lather first before adding the water, as the soaping will help to cut the oil, whereas water to start the shampoo would only make the oil cling more tenaciously. Two or three soapings and as many very thorough rinsings, followed by a lemon or vinegar rinse, and the hair should show a marked improvement. In drying this type of hair, try to dry naturally instead of by artificial heat.

Oily Scalp and Hair.

Brushing and massage is excellent for every type of hair as it stimulates the circulation, and when the blood stream functions properly we can hope for greater beauty of skin and hair and greater body health.

If scalp and hair are excessively oily, the diet should be carefully watched and excess sweets or fats avoided. For local treatment the use of an astringent hair tonic several times a week is recommended to help dry out the excess surface oil.

The oily type of scalp needs more frequent shampooing than the dry type. And an occasional dry shampoo is very helpful. An occasional pinch of borax in the last rinsing water will help to cut the excess oil, too, but this should not be used to excess. Sun treatments are excellent for the oily type of scalp.

Horse Throws Girl, Then Sits on Her!

The Prince knows how it goes to be thrown from a horse. Miss Harper now knows, too, but she experienced the added indignity of having the animal sit on her.

Unable to regain its feet after stumbling, the horse wove around for a couple of seconds, then squatted on the fallen girl. She is nursing cuts and bruises.

Recluse Digs Ditches And Leaves $100,000

Pittsburgh (AP).—A 72-year-old man fell dead here while digging a ditch. Hours later he was identified at the morgue as Francisco Negoni. A search of the weather-beaten shack in which he lived as a recluse disclosed papers and bank books indicating he left an estate of $100,000.

The Right Road to Slams.

The Million Dollar Bid, as the 4-5 Notrump Convention has often been called, paid dividends recently to the only team in a Duplicate game playing the Approach-Forcing System. The deal was played by eight teams, of which seven, blinded by 100 honors persisted in playing a club contract, and, unable to establish the definite location of the four Aces and the important Kings, could not safely bid a Grand Slam.

The eighth team, who were wise enough to use this most valuable feature of the Approach-Forcing System, guided their bidding smoothly to a Grand Slam contract in the proper suit, spades, and were justly rewarded by high score for that deal.

South, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	3♣	Pass
3NT	Pass	4NT (1)	Pass
5NT (2)	Pass	7♠ (3)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—A Slam try, showing two Aces and the King of a suit previously bid by the N-S partnership.
2—The conventional response, showing the other two Aces.
3—This bid is safe when the location of the Aces of hearts and diamonds has been established. It is practically inconceivable that South will be unable to get enough discards from the setup clubs to rid himself of whatever losing hearts he may have. This is particularly obvious since South, having the heart Ace, has refused to bid hearts.

West opened the heart Queen, and South was able to claim all 13 tricks without play. Not even the club discards were necessary.

It is important to note that South could have held the K-Q of either hearts or diamonds and 1 have had the same honor-trick values. Only teams employing the 4-5 Notrump Convention could safely bid the Grand Slam.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If you have as partner a master player who has opened the bidding against vulnerable opponents with one notrump, your side having a part-score of 60, what response should you make to that bid, holding:

♠ A 9 4
♡ 8 6
◇ Q J 9 6
♣ Q J 8 2

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Club Sweetens Charity Bread For Children

Arlington Catholic Group Devises Idea to Shield Recipients of Help.

The bread of public charity is food too bitter for children, thinks the Catholic Women's Club of Arlington, Va.

Literally, it lodges in shame-constricted little throats; brings tears of pain and mortification to eyes too young to harbor such grievous guests. Its body-building values are debatable.

To sweeten such bread, to make it palatable and nutritious, the club has adopted a new payment plan this year, in connection with its cafeteria project at St. Charles' Parochial School, in Clarendon, Va. The cafeteria was installed in the school a year ago.

Imitation Coins Used.

Imitation coins, identically resembling dimes so far as size, shape and color are concerned, are distributed privately among needy youngsters by nuns in charge of the school.

As payment is made to the day's cashier, in exchange for selections from a complete hot luncheon menu, no one knows by looking whether the coins collected are real or imitation. None, that is, save the child in need and the kindly cashier, who does not tell.

Mrs. E. J. Stockling, chairman of the club committee in charge of the cafeteria, explained the method:

"The club is seeking to conduct the cafeteria in such a way as to be of real benefit to those children who need help. Above all, we seek to keep such children from suffering an inferiority complex among their companions.

Only the Nuns Know.

"No child knows who is receiving a free lunch, nor do our club members. The coins are given to the sisters, who in turn distribute them in confidence to such children as need them."

The menus are planned both for their nutritive value and their attractiveness to the child. They will remain basically the same throughout the year.

Last year the club served 5,985 lunches, 2,750 of which were free. According to present indications an equal number of free lunches will be served this year and probably more.

Mrs. D. J. Odenthal, of Marion avenue, Clarendon, is president of the club, which is only a year old. Mrs. T. J. Manning was chairman of the school committee during its initial year's work.

Complete lunches are served at the school cafeteria for 10 cents. Soup, milk or cocoa, to eke out cold lunches, is served for 3 cents.

Mothers Are Guests At G. W. University

Faculty Members and Upper Class Women Hosts.

Mother's Day—to acquaint the mothers of entering freshmen girls with George Washington University—was held yesterday in Corcoran Hall and on the campus.

Faculty members and upper class women of the university told the many freshmen and their mothers of the institution's extra curricular activities and demonstrated some of the fall sports open to them.

Following a tour to the points of interest, tea was served by the home economics departement in the president's garden and the group was addressed by president Cloyd H. Marvin. The university band played for the guests. A visit to the sorority rooms completed the program.

Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, director of women's personnel guidance, introduced the speakers who included Dean Henry G. Doyle, faculty sponsors of 16 student organizations and upper class representatives of each.

Stocks Droop Seven-Tenths In Quiet Sales

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Interest in the stock market was dormant today. With wheat dipping to the lowest levels since June, traders evidently thought there could be little chance for further improvement in equities and, after giving utilities a mild whirl, professionals let the market drift. The average change was a small loss.

The utility industry had been particularly interested in that election, because it represented the first expression of opinion by an electorate since the Tennessee Valley authority had announced its prospective rate schedule for districts eligible as consumers of Federal power.

Some Utilities Improve.

Several utility stocks improved fractions to more than a point, American Power & Light, American Water Works, Commonwealth & Southern, and National Power & Light being rather active.

However, the rise had little durability, and by the close most of the gain had been surrendered. Oils, as a group, were steady to firm. Alcohols and metals appeared to be under liquidation by traders who recently had undertaken commitments in those fast-moving divisions. Rails dragged lower, although Santa Fe improved a point.

Industrials were sluggish. Release of the United States Steel backlog figures at noon, revealing a decrease of 114,704 tons in September, found the market somewhat unsettled, but hardly was an influence on either the activity or the indecisive trend. Steel common closed a point lower, while the preferred, with a divident meeting two weeks distant, was firm. Little gossip is being heard as to the directors' probable action on this payment, the inclination being to look for another 50-cent disbursement.

On Losing List.

Allied Chemical, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears-Roebuck, National Biscuit, Case, New York Central, Kennecott, Wrigley, Cerro de Pasco, American Telephone, Borden, Park & Tilford, Penick & Ford and Westinghouse were down fractions to the neighborhood of a point.

National Distillers, American Commercial Alcohol, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Bethlehem Steel, Western Union and Union Pacific were down about 2. United States Smelting, General Electric, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey and Johns-Manville finished higher. Turnover for the five hours fell to 1,140,000 shares.

A shrinkage in U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage position had been widely anticipated, although some of the guessers had thought the bulge in new business late last month might hold the decline to smaller proportions than was actually the case.

Some Code Results.

However, the code has brought some change in ordering practices.

Heretofore consumers have ordered to protect themselves against higher prices, but did not need to specify against their contracts; now an order is considered binding without specifications, and presumably this tended to limit new business to actual needs.

Foreign exchange rates made small changes in a quiet market. The dollar's steadiness was accompanied by noticeable firmness in high grade securities, an encouraging symptom, especially if it indicated that important investing interests were becoming more confident that "sound money" was to prevail.

War Debts and Currency

By Ralph West Robey.

In spite of the fact that representatives of the United States and British governments currently are meeting in an attempt to reach a settlement on war debt payments, the problem is receiving little attention by the public. This lack of interest is perhaps largely the result of a widespread belief that little if anything will result from the negotiations. Unfortunately, there are good reasons for holding this view. It is not easy to conceive a much worse situation than the present from the point of view of reaching an agreement on the debts which will be satisfactory to the peoples of the two countries.

In the aggregate there are a vast number of factors making this the case. The whole world is just beginning to emerge from the depths of the depression, and while the improvement has been impressive, there still is a lingering doubt in many minds of whether we may not again slump down toward the old lows. Further, it is recognized that there still remain an immense number of readjustments to make, many of which will involve relatively heavy burdens. There is a hesitancy, accordingly, to make any agreements which involve forecasting the future and reaching a more or less definite decision on how continuous and rapid the climb to prosperity will be.

Currency Instability Involves Larger Issue at Present.

Insofar as possibilities of reaching an immediate agreement are concerned, however, the question of currency stability is far more important than the problem of appraising the future trend of business. If the latter was all that is involved it is probable representatives of the two Governments could get closely enough together on this point to prevent its being an insurmountable obstacle. In fact, it is reasonable to assume that they not only could come to a workable understanding on this, but could reach an agreement on how it should be allowed for in the amount of payments to be made.

When such decisions rest upon a basis of currency uncertainty, nevertheless, it becomes practically impossible to get them into terms of any particular meaning. Assume for example, that it is agreed business will improve at the rate of 25 per cent a year until we are back at the 1929 level, and that in consequence the scale of payments should increase proportionately. Then, there is the question of reducing the agreement to definite terms. If we have a stable currency—a currency always equal to the same amount of gold—there is no difficulty involved in this for all that is necessary is to increase the annual payments in dollars by 25 per cent.

Agreement Meaningless Unless Unit of Payment Is Constant.

If the measure of payment, or the international value of the currency, however, is subject to violent changes, such a provision means nothing. Should we cut our currency in half, not only would we receive a proportionately smaller amount of purchasing power as measured by gold, but the payment would be only half as heavy for the foreign debtor. In other words, every change in the value of the dollar in terms of gold, or in terms of British pounds, has a direct effect upon the significance and justness of any payment or settlement agreed upon.

The first task in connection with the current negotiations, accordingly, is to come to some understanding on the outlook for dollars and pounds. If this can be done, it will be possible to discuss the war debts from the point of view of how much the debtor countries should and can pay. If the future of the currency remains in doubt in the negotiations, however, the best that can happen is bargaining on token payments and lump-sum settlements. Any agreement reached on this basis, it should be obvious, will have no necessary relation to the amount which would be mutually most just.

Bond Market Driven Higher By Utilities

Gains Average Four-Tenths as Sales Mount to $9,064,000.

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Some of the recently depressed utilities lifted their heads in the bond market today and listed loans generally displayed a more hopeful tone.

The utility section apparently reflected the rejection by the voters of Birmingham, Ala., of a proposal for municipal ownership of electric power and other facilities.

List of Advances.

Among issues that rallied fractionally to 2 or more points upon announcement of the Alabama vote were some of American & Foreign Power, American Water Works, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Detroit Edison, International Hydro-Electric, International Telephone, Leclede Gas, Montana Power, New York Edison, Pacific Gas, Portland General Electric, Postal Telegraph, Utilities Power & Light and Western Union.

More restrained advances in the railway department were recorded by some liens of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake Corporation, Chicago & North Western, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, K. C. Southern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Norfolk & Western, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Southern & Union Pacific, New York Central Convertible 6s made an exceptional gain of 4¼ points.

Some Industrials Improve.

Most of the industrials did little, although improvement was shown by loans of Goodyear, Otis Steel, St. Joseph Lead, Standard Oils of New Jersey and New York and United Drug.

United States Government securities were hesitant following reports of a possible conversion proposal for part of the Liberty Fourth 4¼s. This issue declined four-thirty-seconds of a point and most of the Treasuries were down one-thirty-second to nine-thirty-seconds.

Foreign obligations were generally dull and mixed.

Curb's Prices Change Little In Dull Session

Results Are Irregular at Closing; Sales Rise to 243,000 Shares.

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—The curb market closed with irregular price changes after narrowly backing and filling in dull dealings today. Utilities and a number of specialties furnished some buying interests but enthusiasm was dampened by a reactionary tone in alcohols, metals and others.

The Celluloid Corporation and Celanese issues, were again strong features, the preferred issue of the former rising 7 points in a small turnover. Technicolor gained nearly a point in heavy trading Aluminum Company of America yielded 3 points of its 5-point advance of yesterday while fractional recessions occurred in Swift & Company and Gulf Oil. Petroleum shares as a group were fairly steady.

American Gas & Electric and Commonwealth Edison each improved a point while Columbia Gas & Electric preferred added 3¼. Newmont Mining and Distillers Corporation seagrams sagged around 2 apiece and National Distillers New, Hiram Walker and New Jersey Zinc eased major fractions to a point.

Transfers approximated 243,000 shares compared with 196,000 for the previous session.

Curb—Results of trading in a dull session were irregular, with narrow price changes. Sales increased to 243,000 shares.

Wheat — Stop-loss selling drove wheat prices down. A late rally reduced the heaviest drop. The Government report was a surprise, but no material effect on the market resulted. December wheat sold at 84½; May, at 88⅝.

Cotton—Southern and Wall street selling caused cotton to drop about 75 cents per bale. The general market was down 13 to 16 points. December sold at 9.41; October, at 9.29.

Rubber—Crude rubber futures closed quiet, 2 to 7 points lower. December sold at 8.04; January, at 8.16.

Sugar—Raw sugar was easier, spot prices declined 5 points to 3.40 under increased offerings; refined prices were unchanged at 4.60.

Coffee—Spot coffee demand was dull. Santos No. 4 sold at 9 cents; Rio No. 7, at 7¼.

Foreign Markets.

London, Oct. 10 (A.P.).—Trading on the stock exchange was considerably less active today and profit taking in some sections caused an irregular price tendency. Argentine rails improved while German bonds again weakened on disarmament uncertainties. Tin and South African gold mining shares also eased. The market closed irregular.

Paris—Wall street optimism induced short covering on the bourse and caused an irregular improvement of prices. Electric, rubber and Rio tintos shares improved, rentes held steady, but gold mining shares were weak. The closing was heavy.

Berlin—Owing to the lack of business, prices on the boerse declined about one-half point. The market closed dull and idle.

Third Recovery Stage Forecast by Bankers

New York, Oct. 10.—Hornblower & Weeks in their current "Weekly Observations" express their belief that "we should shortly witness the beginning of the third of a series of extended recovery movements, which have characterized the main upward direction of the market since it got under way in July, 1932."

Explaining the July reaction as "the result of too rapid advances," they add: "Hence, with a review of the performance of the market during the past eight months indicating that nothing has occurred to alter the belief that the main direction of the market is upward, we would be inclined to maintain a constructive attitude, insofar as prospects for a favorable outcome of the many problems now in process of solution are concerned."

Upper Banner Coal Co. Sold at Public Auction

Clintwood, Va., Oct. 10 (AP).—The Upper Banner Coal Corporation, with holdings in Dickenson County valued in boom times at $1,700,000, was sold at public auction here Saturday for $50,000. The Burroughs interests of New York were the successful bidders.

The plant has not been in operation for four or five years. The corporation owned approximately 6,000 acres of the best coal land in southwest Virginia and the mine was well equipped. Half of the amount the property brought at the auction will be turned over to the delinquent tax collectors, on whose behalf the sale was ordered.

Future of Dollar Will Depend On Pound, Some Experts Say

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—The history of the dollar off the gold standard is rapidly reaching a point where its future will depend in a large measure upon the course of the pound sterling, according to one school of thought among Wall street monetary experts.

These experts hold that any stabilization of the dollar on gold is out of the question without an agreement with the British as to the ratio at which they propose to stabilize sterling.

At the same time, it is argued that any further lifting of the commodity price level in this country through depreciation of the dollar against foreign currencies would probably have to be through depreciation against sterling, rather than the gold currencies.

In view of the importance of the dollar-sterling ratio, some usually well-informed Wall street quarters insist that the discussions starting in Washington this week, with the British war debt delegation, headed by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, economic adviser to the British government, must explore this situation very thoroughly and may lead to an eventual monetary understanding.

It is pointed out that some 40 currencies are hinged to sterling, forming the most important currency bloc in world trade, and having the greatest influence on world price levels. While the dollar has declined further in relation to the gold standard currencies since July, the sterling currencies have declined with it since that time, and the decline of the dollar has ceased, evidently, to lift our price level.

The British monetary authorities have appeared determined that the pound shall not advance above its old parity with the dollar of $4.86⅝, and it has been hinted in London that any effort to put the dollar above that level must result either in a depreciation war between the dollar and the pound, or a sharp lifting of tariffs against American goods in Great Britain and possibly other countries in the sterling area.

467 Cars of Pork Shipped to States

The Farm Administration said yesterday that 467 carloads of cured pork had been shipped from the stocks of approximately 100,000,000 pounds obtained in slaughter of pigs and sows in the hog emergency campaign.

Ohio has received 52 carloads; South Carolina, 45; Michigan, 37; New York, 36; Texas, 32; Kentucky, 24; Oklahoma, 23; Indiana, 19; Louisiana, 17; Wisconsin, 16; Mississippi, 16; Arkansas, 14; Tennessee, 14; Washington, 13; Missouri, 13; Kansas, 12; Arizona, 12; Iowa, 11; Colorado, 10; Minnesota, 8; Connecticut, 8; Virginia, 8; Utah, 6; Montana, 5; Idaho, 4; Rhode Island, 4; Nevada, 3; Delaware, 2; District of Columbia, 2; New Mexico, 1.

The administration said the initial shipments were largely for distribution through October and that further requests under the allotments granted by the Federal Relief Administration would be filled later. The pork obtained in the campaign was turned over to the Relief Administration for distribution.

Grain Exports Cut To 211,000 Bushels

(Associated Press.)

Grain exports from the United States last week amounted to 211,000 bushels, against 179,000 bushels the previous week, and 870,000 bushels in the corresponding week last year.

Wheat, 1,000 bushels, against 5,000; corn, 33,000 bushels, against 126,000; barley, 172,000, against 40,000, and oats, 5,000, against 8,000.

Canadian grains exported last week from United States ports amounted to 634,000 bushels, against 517,000 bushels the week before, while last week's exports of North American wheat flour were 42,000 barrels, against 36,000 the previous week.

France's 1934 Budget Is $2,600,000 Less

Paris, Oct. 10 (AP).—A budget calling for expenditures of 43,758,000 francs (about $2,600,000) less than the final figures for 1933 has been drawn up for the next year by the French government.

The new budget provides for expenditures of 50,441,952,000 francs (about $3,000,000,000).

Wheat Declines Trimmed by Late Rallies

Stop-Loss Selling Tumbles Prices; Crop Report Is Surprise.

Chicago, Oct. 10 (AP).—Stop-loss selling on the part of impatient holders tumbled wheat prices down almost 3 cents a bushel today, with about 1½ cents rally later.

The Government crop report after trading was at an end contained something of a surprise, an increase of 8,259,000 bushels in the official estimate of 1933 United States yield of wheat. Trade comment, however, indicated that the returns were too near to those of a month ago to have any material market effect tomorrow.

Wheat closed nervous, 1 to 1⅝ under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅜ off to ¼ up; oats, ¼ to ½ down, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 17 cents.

Stimulation Is Lacking.

Liquidating sales in the wheat market were attributed largely to absence of any definite new stimulating factors. Plans announced for paying off depositors of closed banks had apparently been discounted by previous informal reports, and more notice was given to bearish items such as lower quotations at Loverpool and Togord that wheat at Rotterdam was bringing less than 1 cent a pound.

Transient rallies, however, were promoted by a temporary bulge in the rye market, influenced by reports that an increase of the United States import duty on rye was probable.

Helping the late partial recovery of wheat values was some buying attributed to domestic mills, together with the fact that primary receipts were decidedly small.

Visible Grain Supply.

Another strengthening circumstance was stress put on statements that the United States wheat visible supply had apparently reached its peak for the season on September 30, and had receded 1,727,000 bushels this week.

The recession was asserted to be almost a month earlier than usual, and the 1933 peak the smallest since 1928.

Unfavorable husking returns from Ohio, Indiana and Illinois gave relative steadiness to corn and oats as compared with wheat. Country offerings of corn to arrive were mostly above buyers' views.

U. S. Dollar Turns Higher on Markets

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—The American dollar moved quietly and narrowly in foreign exchange transactions today, but finished moderately higher in terms of leading European currencies. There was little in the news to motivate dollar rate fluctuations and traders abroad were reported to be maintaining a cautious attitude in the matter of short commitments.

The British pound sterling was fairly firm most of the day, but ended ⅛ of a cent lower at $4.69¾ for cables. French francs eased .01⅛ of a cent at 5.92½ cents, Dutch guilders declined .15 of a cent at 61.05 cents and Belgian belgas and Swiss francs were off .07 and .09 of a cent, respectively. German marks and the Scandinavians were slightly lower, but Canadian dollars retained an advance of ⅛ of a cent at 97.81¼ cents.

Cotton Slumps 75 Cents on Southern Sales

December Sells at 9.41 as General Market Drops 13 to 16 Points.

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Cotton dropped about 75 cents a bale today under Southern offerings and local Wall Street selling promoted by declines in stocks and grains.

Demand was restored by absence of fresh developments, but with trading limited the market was quiet readily influenced by relatively small orders either way.

After rallying to 9.55 in the early trading, December eased to 9.41 and closed at that price with the general list ending steady at net losses of 13 to 16 points.

Opening Is Lower.

The opening was 7 to 10 points lower in response to Liverpool cables and hedge selling. There was also a little selling credited to Bombay Mill account.

The market rallied, but turned downward again in sympathy with stocks and grain. Final prices, at or within a point or two of the lowest for the day, carried the market back approximately to Saturday's closing levels, erasing Monday's rallies following the Government report.

Exports today 68,897, making 3,653,898 so far this season. Port receipts, 94,843. U. S. port stocks 3,634,276.

Cotton Checks Give Push to Mail Orders

New York, Oct 10.—The distribution of millions of dollars in cotton acreage checks to cotton planters in the Southwest has resulted in a substantial increase in business in this section of the country, Carl D. Berry, president of National Bellas Hess, Inc., stated today. Reports received by us regarding conditions in this section he added, are becoming more encouraging.

Commenting on orders received from Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, the three States which have benefited most from the distribution of Government funds, Mr. Berry said: "The ratio of orders received to catalogs from Texas late in September was 33 per cent greater than earlier in the month and from Oklahoma the increase was 22 per cent. The percentage of increase in Louisiana was even larger, but must be modified somewhat by the fact that distribution of the company's new fall and winter catalog was made a few days earlier in Texas and Oklahoma."

Comparison of September sales with last year is unavailable as the company ony began operating as of October 1, 1932, but Mr. Berry points out that sales in all territories during the first four weeks since circulation of the fall and winter catalog show an increase of 55 per cent in orders and 90 per cent in cash receipts, compared with productivity of the spring catalog during its first four weeks of circulation.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, Oct. 10.—A meeting of the Eastern railroad presidents' committee on passenger fare reduction is scheduled here for Friday morning. Representatives of the Southeastern roads are expected to attend.

Baldwin Locomotive Works' unfilled orders on September 30 totaled $4,214,000, against $2,627,000 on January 1. September bookings of the company and its subsidiaries amounted to $1,281,000, compared with $501,000 a year ago. Recent expansion of bookings reflects increased maintenance work by the railroads.

Freight traffic on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad last week totaled 26,487 cars, against 23,275 in the previous week and 24,730 a year ago.

Walter Huston, in Person, Tomorrow Night—Universal Pads Budget—Best Films

Popular Actor To Be Seen On Keith's Stage

Tomorrow will be a busy day for those harried souls who make a conscientious effort to keep abreast of all the openings and other events of importance in our cathedrals of the conversational celluloids. Not only will there be two premieres, but there will also be a special event.

Beginning not on Wednesday, as was the case with "The Emperor Jones," which will terminate its 8-day run tonight, nor yet on Friday, as would be normal under the theater's avowed policy of Friday openings, but inaugurating its Washington engagement tomorrow morning, the much-vaunted picturization of Sinclair Lewis' first novel since being awarded the Nobel prize for literature, "Ann Vickers," will be seen for the first time locally at RKO-Keith's with Irene Dunne in the name part and Walter Huston opposite in the role of Judge Barney Dolphin, last of a long list of her suitors.

Tomorrow night, at Loew's Palace Twentieth Century's production of "The Bowery, a United Artists release, will be given a special midnight public preview with elaborate trimmings and no rise in the regular scale of admission charges.

Walter Huston, in Person.

Between these two notable screen occasions, Walter Huston, on his way to the National Capital to film a picture adapted from the magazine story "Rodney," at Fort Myer, will appear in person at one performance at RKO-Keith's. This will be at approximately 9 p. m., just before "Ann Vickers," in which he plays so prominent a part, will be thrown on the screen for the last showing of its inaugural day.

Mr. Huston's appearance at this one performance was arranged by telegraph yesterday. Manager Hardie Meakin of RKO-Keith's had the good fortune to intercept Mr. Huston by wire at Albuquerque, N. Mex., en route to this city, and secured his immediate agreement to the single appearance in the flesh. He is expected to arrive at Union Station Thursday morning.

Following the final Thursday night performance at Keith's, Mr. Huston, George Archainbaud, the director of "Rodney;" Assistant Director Nelson and Tommy Atkins, production manager for RKO-Radio, will be tendered a press reception and buffet supper backstage.

An Enviable Record.

Walter Huston is recognized as one of the most versatile actors the contemporaneous American theater can boast. From outlaw to President of the United States and from White House to penitentiary are only a few of the spectacular steps that have marked the cinematographic career of this admirable artist.

One of his greatest characterizations as a film player was as Abraham Lincoln in David Wark Griffith's picturization of the life of the Great Emancipator. In striking contrast to this thoughtful portrayal was his impersonation of the outlaw, Trampas, in the talking film version of Owen Wister's cowboy classic, "The Virginian," made famous on the stage by the late Dustin Farnum, with Frank Campeau in the Huston role. In "Gabriel Over the White House" he again was a President of the United States—although not an identifiable one—and in "Ann Vickers" he will be seen as a State Supreme Court Judge who goes to prison for accepting bribes.

"Who's Afraid of the Big, Bad Wolf?"

Such is the refrain being played and sung by the eminent little porkers cast in the title roles of Walt Disney's Silly Symphony, "Three Little Pigs." This is a classic among short-reel screen subjects and the first on record to be specifically booked for a return engagement on F street. It will be shown for the second time at Loew's Palace, in conjunction with the premiere engagement of "The Bowery," opening Thursday midnight.

Thus, with Mr. Meakin's projected midnight snack, does the "social season" of the dramatic desks find itself gastronomically perpetuated. It is a part of the many regrets that harass this department that press of other duties rendered it impossible for it to report, first hand, either on the gay goings-on at City Manager Carter Barron's "Bowery party," backstage at Loew's Fox Monday night, or at Host Peter Borras' season inaugural at the Madrillon last evening at 10. Both, however, are being bruited about among the cognoscenti as huge successes that continued until daylight almost made a fool of the lighting effects!

"Best of the Month."

The list of "Selected Motion Pictures for October, 1933," representing the joint estimate of previewing committees from coast to coast and compiled and distributed by the Will H. Hays office, gives a wide field of choice among current screen releases.

The three pictures hailed as the "Best of the Month" are "Berkeley Square," with Leslie Howard and and Heather Angel; "I Loved a Woman," with Edward G. Robinson, Kay Francis and Genevieve Tobin, and "The Power and the Glory," with Spencer Tracy, Colleen Moore and Ralph Morgan. Of these, only "I Loved a Woman" has been seen in the Capital.

All Seen But Four.

Under the heading of "Social Drama" are listed "Beauty For Sale," "Brief Moment," "Bureau of Missing Persons," "Captured," "Doctor Bull," "Ever in My Heart," "Midshipman Jack," "One Sunday Afternoon," "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," and "Turn Back the Clock." Of these, local picturegoers still have "Beauty for Sale," "Brief Moment," "Ever in My Heart," and "Midshipman Jack" to look forward to. At least three of them, however, are imminent.

Of "Melodrama, Mystery and Crime," those thought best include "Charlie Chan's Greatest Case," "Penthouse," "Shanghai Madness" and "Torch Singer." The only musical production recognized by the "cross section of public opinion" is "Too Much Harmony," which may be currently enjoyed at the Metropolitan.

Speaking of the Metropolitan, Walter Morris, formerly manager of Warner Brothers' New and Strand theaters in Staunton, Va., has taken over the management of the Tenth and F house pending the recovery of Manager Vincent Tompkins, confined to his home by an attack of bronchial pneumonia. Mr. Morris brings to the Met the fruits of experience gained in the operation of Publix theaters in Florida, Tennessee, New Jersey and New York; Warner Bros. theaters in Baltimore and Hagerstown, Md., Staunton, Va., and points in Ohio. It fell to his lot once to open fourteen new houses for Publix in the brief period of twelve months. He promises numerous innovations at the Metropolitan.

A Revised Announcement.

Our old friend Paul Gulick, one of the home office executives of Universal Pictures, drops a line from 730 Fifth avenue, New York, to advise that with $2,000,000 added to the production budget, Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, has just issued a new and revised "Season Announcement."

Many weeks ago, this column recited at some length the pretentious plans of Universal for the present season. Those plans have now been appreciably augmented — exactly $2,000,000 worth, to be exact.

This sizable increase in the budget was decided upon when James R. Grainger—"Jimmie" to you, and you, and you, and me—for many years the mainspring of the Fox sales and distribution forces, became general director of distribution for Universal. The money has been allocated to increase the production value of each of the 26 pictures previously announced, for the purchase of new story material, toward the total of 36 productions for the year, and for the signing of stars, featured players and directors never before seen on the Universal roster.

New to Universal.

These personalities include John Barrymore, who will star in "Counsellor at Law;" Edmund Lowe, Elissa Landi, Wynne Gibson, Lowell Sherman and Bebe Daniels. New arrangements have also been made with its own stars, Paul Lukas, Lew Ayres, Karloff, Chester Morris and John Boles. In addition, the company intends to develop several new stars by careful casting in appropriate stories.

Margaret Sullavan, who made such a deep impression in "Only Yesterday," just finished, heads the list. She will play in "Little Man, What Now?" just bought, and "The Good Red Bricks," two splendid roles. Others are June Knight, whose first picture is "Ladies Must Love," Claude Rains, introduced in "The Invisible Man;" Alice White, Leila Hyams, Russ Columbo, Onslow Stevens, Roger Pryor, Gloria Stuart, Jimmie Butler, Lois January and many others.

Authors and Directors.

To interpret stories by such authors as Fannie Hurst, Elmer Rice, Charles G. Norris, Edna Ferber, Vicki Baum, R. C. Sherriff, the late Ring Lardner, Lucian Cary, William Anthony McGuire, Frederick Lewis Allen, Tom Reed and L. G. Blochman, Universal has a splendid corps of directors. This group includes Lowell Sherman, John Stahl, James Whale, William Wyler, Edward Sedgwick, Frank Borzage, Eddie Buzzell and Harry Pollard, among others.

The making of 36 feature productions is the task which Universal has undertaken this year. It is the most elaborate and comprehensive program Universal has outlined since Carl Laemmle, jr., became general manager of its productions.

The scramble for grand opera dates at the Washington Auditorium, it seems, goes on apace. Manager Louis J. ("Duke") Fosse calls up to report a prospective booking for the week of November 19 to 26, a tentative dicker with Amedeo Passeri, manager of the New York Grand Opera Co., last heard in a week of standard repertoire at the National, for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 1, 2 and 3, and conversations on Miss Maria Verdi's second adventure, as the only woman impresario in the field, planned for some time in November. The Capital, it would appear, will not want for any "concord of sweet sound!" That is, if all these negotiations come to something more than pencil marks on a tablecloth.

Dots and Dashes.

Master Norman W. Pyle, one-time company manager for Marie Dressler, one-time director of advertising and publicity for the Loew interests in Washington and one-time a variety of other things, evidently up and about before breakfast for a change, pauses in these shiny walnut precincts to scribble a reminder that "Dinner at Eight" opens in the National Theater on Sunday night, October 29, at 8:45 by the clock, with performances daily thereafter at 2:45 and 8:45 p. m. . . . "A most successful film and in my humble opinion much better than 'Grand Hotel'," says Master Norman . . . The perennial Master Pyle goes on to say, "Of course, you know the names of the stars" . . . Yes, of course . . . And no sooner is Howard S. Benedict—harbinger of Clare Kummer's "Her Master's Voice"—out of hearing of ours than in pops Ned Holmes, one of the stalwart old guard, doing a little ground and lofty avant couriering for Helen Hayes in "Mary of Scotland" . . . Ned goes back to those rare old, fair old, golden days when show business was show business . . . But don't we all? . . . You'll be hearing more of him, from time to time, I'm afraid! . . . Helen Menken, one gathers, will not be with Miss Hayes in "Mary of Scotland" . . . Philip Merivals, however, will be . . . And Stanley Ridges, former leading man of the National Theater Players . . . Remember? . . . Announcement that Warner Bros. "Footlight Parade" will open at the Metropolitan on October 20, gives rise to the hope that Ruby Keeler and husband, Al Jolson, may come down for the opening, the way they did in New York . . . Not a very rosy hope, but still a hope . . . You know, one of those things that springs eternal.

Like a leak in the garden hose at this time of year, sort of!

Bride Asks Full Text For Submission to Senator King.

While those charged with formulating a liquor control plan for the District of Columbia were preparing yesterday to study the Rockefeller "State Alcohol Control Authority" in the light of its applicability to conditions here, the plan drew a cross-fire of opposition from Washington wets and drys.

For sharply contrasting reasons, spokesmen for wet and dry organizations opposed the proposal, contained in a survey sponsored by John D. Rockefeller, jr., for a system of State liquor monopolies to control retail sale of heavier alcoholic beverages through State-owned and operated chain stores.

Without commenting upon the Rockerfeller survey, Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride announced yesterday he was sending for its complete text. He will incorporate the State liquor monopoly plan, with his recommendations, in a communication to Senator William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee.

King Studies Proposal.

Senator King said yesterday he, too, will study the Rockefeller survey in detail and that it will be considered when a liquor control plan for the District is drafted early in December. When Senator King's committee meets, two months hence, the suggestion of Raymond D. Fosdick and Albert L. Scott, Rockefeller investigators, will be taken up with other plans already submitted.

From many interested quarters, however, opposition came to the Rockefeller plan.

Spokesmen for the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and the Crusaders declared the State liquor monopoly, which made no provision for on-premises sale of alcoholic beverages by the glass, was inadequate and unsuited to conditions in the United States.

Dry spokesmen reiterated opposition to any plan of liquor control whatever, provided such plan fell short of absolute prohibition. Andrew Wilson, president of the Anti-saloon League, dismissed the Rockefeller survey with the statement:

"I think it is a mistake to have alcohol used for beverage purposes under any circumstances."

Others Enter Protest.

A similar attitude was taken by Mrs. W. Hiram Wadleigh, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and Canon William Sheafe Chase, superintendent of the International Reform League, who propose to fight to outlaw liquor entirely.

Capt. W. L. Stayton, of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, declared himself totally at variance with the Rockefeller proposals, saying his association never had believed a national plan, imposed similarly upon all States, to be feasible. He declared the people of the United States, now voting for repeal, hadn't prohibition of the sale of liquor for consumption on the premises in mind, and pointed out opportunities for corruption in politics under State liquor monopolies.

This latter phase of the Rockefeller plan also drew the fire of Representative Emanuel Celler, of New York, who said yesterday:

"The recommendation for a State liquor-control monopoly and the opening of State liquor stores is to be thoroughly condemned. It is the best method I know to revive and strengthen bootlegging and illicit traffic. Mr. Rockefeller and his associates have closed their eyes to our own sad experience with State liquor ownership."

Baker's Views Quoted.

Representative Celler quoted a letter from Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, who wrote:

"I do not believe the Government ever will be permitted to go into the liquor business, both for the reason it would involve unendurable bureaucracy and because a partnership between our Government—National, State or local—and the liquor business is offensive."

Rufus S. Lusk, executive vice commander of the Crusaders, opposed the Rockefeller plan as "inflicting too much prohibition" and failing to provide for the sale of alcoholic beverages with meals in hotels, restaurants and clubs.

Representative Fred A. Britten, of Illinois, who recently announced Congress would tolerate no "un-American" liquor control plan which would prohibit sale of liquor by the glass in drug stores and groceries, said last night:

"The Rockefeller plan could only come from prohibition or intolerant sources and positively would promote bootlegging and speakeasies to a greater degree among the masses than heretofore under the 'noble experiment.'"

Woman's $10,000 Suit Says Bread Held Wood

Suit for $10,000 was filed here yesterday against the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. by Eva Schecter, 520 Lamont street northwest. She charges she purchased a loaf of bread from a store at Kenyon and Warder streets northwest that contained pieces of wood.

Her throat was seriously injured, she complained, when she bit into the wood.

U. S. Allots District Jobs $412,034

Naval Gun Factory to Get $255,265 From Public Works Fund.

The Navy Department will expend $255,265 at the Naval Gun Factory. This is expected to provide 1,500 man months of labor. In addition the navy yard gets $2,500, principally for mechanical equipment.

Naval radio communications in Washington were allotted $10,000 from $712,500 set aside for the general improvement of naval broadcast facilities. Other stations sharing in this allotment are: Summit, Canal Zone, $191,0000; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, $153,000; San Diego, Calif., $15,000; and Sandy Hook, N. J., $3,500.

The District National Guard will receive $66,945 for housing facilities and equipment improvements and repairs. The Militia Bureau received a total of $2,100,460 to be expended at National Guard camps in virtually every State.

Departments Assisted.

Five Government buildings will get new window fixtures here at a cost of $77,324. The departments sharing in this grant are Postoffice, Interstate Commerce, Labor, Justice and the auditorium which connects the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Labor Buildings. The work is expected to provide 150 men with jobs for three months.

Nearby points, especially Annapolis, also shared generously in yesterday's disbursements. The Naval Academy received $557,000. Of this, $225,000 will be used to build a new sanitary sewer system. Work will start within 30 days and will give employment to more than 200 men for a year.

The Annapolis Radio Station will get $332,000 additional for purchase of new equipment and general modernization.

The Norfolk Navy Yard, Air Station and Supply Depot will receive a total of $45,850.

Camps to Be Improved.

Virginia and Maryland also shared in the Militia Bureau allotments. The Virginia Beach camp was allotted $60,120, while $42,100 will be spent in Maryland at Fort George G. Meade and at Camp Cascade.

In yesterday's allotments the Navy Department received a total of $1,473,387. This will be expended on a total of 25 different projects.

The Naval Torpedo Station, Newport, R. I., $74,960; Portsmouth Navy Yard, $8,525; Boston Navy Yard, $15,900; New York Navy Yard, $3,200; Philadelphia Navy Yard, $23,000; Philadelphia Naval Aircraft Factory, $11,425; Charleston Navy Yard, $9,519; Pensacola Naval Air Station, $3,500; San Diego Naval Air Station, $10,600; San Diego Naval Supply Depot, $5,150; Mare Island Navy Yard, $21,945; Puget Sound Navy Yard, $37,700, and Pearl Harbor Navy Yard, $6,790.

Renters Lag

Evictions for Nonpayment Threaten New Record.

Evictions for nonpayment of rent in Washington probably will set a new high mark, James Ring, rent investigator for the Public Utilities Commission, stated yesterday in revealing figures for eight and a half months.

A total of 6,819 eviction writs were issued before September 15, and 924, or 13.6 per cent, were executed. Eighty-six per cent paid up before the writs became effective.

Last year 9,047 writs were issued and 12.8 per cent executed. Figures for previous years showed 5,294 writs issued and 11.1 per cent executed in 1929; in 1930, there were 6,163 and 12.7 per cent, and 1931 the count was 7,194 and 11.4 per cent.

Banks Here Ask Deposit Insurance

District Is Rated First on Percentage Basis; Indiana Leads.

Nine out of the ten District banks not members of the Federal Reserve have applied for membership in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Walter J. Cummings, chairman, announced last night.

The District ranked first on a percentage basis, but Indiana led numerically, with 188 banks applying. Other States included Pennsylvania, 170; Minnesota, 159; Illinois, 113; Missouri, 104; Louisiana, 101, and Ohio, 100.

Cummings disclosed 2,171 of the 8,557 State banks receiving application blanks already have responded favorably. He explained directors' meetings were necessary for decision, retarding returns.

Federal Reserve member banks automatically become members when the new deposit insurance provision of the Glass-Steagall act becomes effective January 1. Deposits will be insured in full up to $2,500.

Cummings appointed 47 National bank examiners as supervising experts to learn whether the banks are eligible to become members of the corporation. An additional 799 examiners have been selected to aid the supervisors.

Work Stopped By Contractor In Labor Row

3 Government Projects Halted by Demand for 4-Hour Day.

Fresh fuel was added yesterday to the fight between union ironworkers and contractors over the four-hour day, when the Campbell Metal Window Corporation suspended its work on three Government building projects.

The window firm joined General Bronze Corporation in shutting down operations rather than accept the split-shift four-hour day. The latter firm is under contract at the new Supreme Court, Justice and Postoffice departments and city postoffice addition, while Campbell has jobs at the Archives and Justice buildings and Naval Hospital.

Hope for the settlement this week of the Labor-I. C. C. building dispute rose yesterday when officials predicted William L. Hutcheson, president of the International Carpenters Union, will come to Washington today for conference.

Carpenters on the $12,000,000 project struck September 1, because they were not given installation of some remaining radiator inclosures. Two weeks later, James Stewart & Co., contractors, were forced to suspend all work.

Runaway's Parents To Prosecute Man

$1,500 Theft From Girl, 15, Charged to Clerk.

Stating they would prosecute the New Orleans pawnshop clerk who allegedly stole $1,450 from their daughter, the parents of Sylvia Blumberg, 15, who ran away from home September 16, last night prepared to leave for the Southern city.

Samuel Chernin, 33, was arrested there Monday, after Washington police notified New Orleans authorities of the theft. He is being held under $5,000 bond.

The girl was located in Alexandria, Va., last Wednesday. The jewelry she carried with her was still intact, but she had less than $100 in cash.

Gas Station Robber Takes $38 in Holdup

Charles Cabel, 48, manager of a gas station at Thirteenth and K streets northwest, was held up and robbed of $38 yesterday by a young white man, who locked him in a washroom.

Cabel told police the man knocked at the door and when he opened it the man pulled a gun. After remaining in the washroom a few minutes, Cabel broke down the door.

Boy, Skating Into Bus, Is Killed Under Wheels

Thrown under the wheels when he skated into a Washington Railway & Electric Co., bus, at Fourth and W streets northwest, Rudolph Hackley, colored, 5, of 234 Oakdale place northwest, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon.

Curtis T. Sales, 26, driver, said he did not see the boy until he hit the side of the bus. Sales was released in custody of an attorney.

Lumber Needed to House Forest Workers During Winter Would Fill Train 150 Miles Long and Build 30,000 Homes

Officials Find Sufficient Timber Stored Without Cutting Single Tree.

Enough lumber to build 30,000 family houses, which would constitute a city of 120,000 population, or to fill a train that would reach from Washington to Philadelphia, 150 miles, or to make a board walk 2¼ feet wide and 1 inch thick around the equator, without cutting a single tree is this week's discovery of the Emergency Conservation headquarters.

These and other facts and fancies have been complied in the office of Director Robert Fechner in its work of ordering 300,000,000 feet of lumber to build winter camps for Civilian Conservation Corps workers.

Axel H. Oxholm, director of the Division of Forest Products of the Department of Commerce, loaned to the Emergency Conservation headquarters for a week, was called into consulation, when it was feared the lumber industry could not supply the emergency demands.

Lumber Already Stored.

He has conferred with lumbermen from all parts of the country, compiled endless statistics, and concluded that more than enough lumber to fill the order, the largest ever placed in peace time, is in lumber storehouses throughout the country.

The 300,000,000 feet actually represent one-third of the annual lumber production of the United States and, while it will nearly deplete the available supply, it will necessitate no new sawing.

The Government, after consulting lumber and forest experts, has specified grade two common lumber, air-dried and grade-marked.

This second-grade lumber, when thoroughly dried, is hard and serviceable, even though it is not beautiful to look at. Mr. Oxholm considers it has been a drug on the lumber market, since the greatest demand is for the grade one product. The average tree produces one-third first-grade lumber and two-thirds second and third grades.

A large part of this second grade material has been left in the storehouses and its use will permit lumbermen to start afresh, in the opinion of Oxholm.

Lumber Must Be Dry.

Another factor the Emergency Conservation officials have specified is that lumber be thoroughly dried. Green lumber would crack and warp and, because of its excess weight, would cost much more for transportation. Since it requires several weeks properly to dry the wood, any recent cuttings would be useless for the Government's purpose.

"These camps have been established to preserve and conserve the forests," declared Oxholm. "What need is there to worry whether the lumber supply is exhausted or not?

"This move will stimulate commercial reforestation and intelligent conservation as no other factor has ever been able to."

There are 1,466 winter camps to be provided. Approximately 530 completely new ones will be built. The others are to be winter-proofed and new buildings added.

The purchase and construction work is in charge of the quartermaster general's office of the War Department. This office estimates that, during the month they have had authority to begin work, approximately three-quarters of the lumber actually has been purchased and one-third of the work completed.

Finish in November.

It is believed that all of the construction work will be finished by the middle of November.

Of the 300,000 conservation camp workers who must be provided with winter quarters before cold weather sets in, 250,000 will be provided with lumber-built barracks. The other 50,000 will be in Southern camps and housed in winter-proofed tents.

It is estimated 40,000 outside carpenters will be employed in the construction work.

A certificate of death by natural causes was issued yesterday by Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald in the case of Ernest V. McIntosh, 42, found dead in his home, 101 Fourteenth street southeast.

Dairy Value Up $809,238 In Two Weeks

Thomas H. McInerney, president and guiding genius in National Dairy Products Corporation, will have to explain to the Senate Milk Investigating Committee the reasons for the rapid rise in the "good will" items of its 515 acquisitions.

The good will of the Chestnut Farms Dairy soared $809,238 within 15 days, Special Investigator Elwood H. Seal revealed yesterday after a two-day investigation of the corporation's books. Seal also announced he would subpena McInnerney.

As of January 15, 1929, the National Dairy set the good will of Chestnut Farms at $1,000,000. Before the Senate Investigating Committee, company officials testified net worth of the Chestnut Farms at the time of its acquisition was $1,650,000, of which $1,000,000 represented good will.

The Chestnut Farms books for 1928 listed good will of the concern at $2,760. Seal will ask whether the National Dairy valued the good will too low in the stock exchange application or too high in testimony before the Senate committee.

The Senate investigator has obtained the applications for stock listings of the 513 subsidiaries of the National Dairies.

Loyal Fan

Celebrates Giants' Victory in "Enemy" Territory.

Caught in enemy territory celebrating the world series victory of the Giants, McGilligon pleaded guilty to intoxication.

Judge Gus A. Schuldt suggested to McGilligon that Washington was a dangerous place to celebrate the victory of the Giants.

"Well, your honor," replied the 64-year-old fan, "if you will let me return to New York I'll guarantee not to come back until the next world series."

Judge Schuldt took his personal bond.

Mrs. Amy S. King, of Dent School; Miss Mary Tate, of Lennox School, and Miss Ethel Waters, of Maury School, will be judges. Charles W. Guthrie, Shakesperean actor of the English stage, who has been living in Washington for the last five years, will be the announcer.

Former Secretary Doak Improving in Illness

The condition of William Nuckles Doak, Secretary of Labor in the Hoover cabinet, who has been seriously ill with a heart ailment since Friday at his home, Notre Cid, in Arlington County, was said to be improved yesterday.

With the advent of the Roosevelt Administration, Mr. Doak resumed his former post as legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. The son of a Confederate veteran and a native of Wythe County, Va., his career began as a yardman for the Norfolk & Western Railroad in 1900. He is 50 years old.

Industrial Exhibition Already Gets Entries

More than 60 industrial concerns already have asked for space in the ninth annual industrial exhibition of the Washington Chamber of Commerce October 23, in Washington Auditorium.

Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the chamber, says many special features are being arranged for the show. The Boys' Club, Columbia Institute for the Blind and the Photo Finishers Association also will have special exhibits.

France Hands Roosevelt Sword Forged as Gift to Washington

Aldebert de Chambrun, acting on behalf of Premier Daladier, of France, yesterday presented President Roosevelt with a saber of honor forged for George Washington 150 years ago. The gift will be placed beneath the portrait of Washington in the White House with a personal letter from the premier to Mr. Roosevelt.

French volunteers and officers, who fought under Washington during the Revolutionary War, ordered the saber during the French Revolution as a symbol of the new spirit of liberty.

Washington died before the saber was completed. It remained unclaimed in Alsace until recently when it was presented to Premier Daladier. The premier wrote:

"The death of the hero took place before the gift could be sent to him; but the token of admiration of French soldiers of the Revolution still keeps, despite the lapse of time, its value as a symbol, and the Government of the Republic takes pleasure in renewing, to Washington's successor, the homage of a free people to the noblest figure of the struggles for liberty.

"I have chosen for this mission Gen. De Chambrun, a descendant of La Fayette, in order to attest the community of memories and the continuity of the ties which unite to France the great Republic of the United States."

The ceremony that took place yesterday in the presence of the French Ambassador, Andre de Laboulaye, was thus a reconstitution of what would have taken place more than a century ago.

Revenue Legal Division Drops 20 Employes

Lawyers, Stenographers Sent to Justice Department.

Twenty employes of the civil division of the office of the general counsel for the Internal Revenue Division were transferred to the Department of Justice yesterday, under the President's reorganization order.

Those transferred included 13 attorneys and 7 stenographers. All were dropped from the permanent rolls of the Internal Revenue Division, but were given 30-day appointments in the Department of Justice. At the close of the 30-day period those to be kept will be appointed permanently.

The temporary appointments of 40 Washington employes of the legal division of the Veterans' Administration, who were transferred to the Department of Justice expired yesterday. Officials were unable to say last night how many of these would be given permanent appointments, but believed most of them would be kept. Some of the 300 or more in the field will probably be dropped, however. The Veterans' Administration workers were transferred to the Department of Justice, September 10 and given 30-day appointments.

The President's reorganization order transferred to the Department of Justice all departmental solicitors except those in the Labor, Commerce, and Treasury Departments. Later orders postponed the movement of the legal divisions of the Internal Revenue until October 10, and of the Veterans' Administration until September 10.

Fattening

Safe Reducing Food Seized as False.

Acquisition of that sylph-like quality considered so desirable among women may or may not have received a temporary setback through the operations of the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

Among 112 consignments of food and drugs seized during September by the administration, a large shipment of "a new safe reducing food" consigned to a Washington drug store was condemned as displaying false claims. The administration found the product had much food value and would not of itself reduce flesh.

The activities of the administration during September was outlined in a report by W. G. Campbell, director. Fines ranging from $10 to $500 were imposed. Canned foods, partly decomposed, and fresh fruit, infested with vermin were among the commodities removed from the market.

Calvert Span Fight Likely In Congress

Fine Arts Commission's O.K. on Latest Design May Not Be Final.

Dispute Revival Hinted Over Steel, Masonry Construction.

The Fine Arts Commission yesterday announced final approval of the latest design for the Calvert Street Bridge, but there is a possibility the bridge will not be built in accordance with this three-span stone-facing plan.

While the prolonged controversy over whether the bridge should be of steel or masonry construction appears to have been settled finally by action of the Fine Arts Commission in insisting on the latter, it is more than likely the row will be revived in Congress even before the project is placed under contract.

Three Months Needed.

Engineer Commissioner Gotwals said yesterday that Modjeski, Masters & Chase, Philadelphia consulting engineers, had informed him they would need three months to complete detail specifications for the new design. This means the District will be unable to advertise for bids before the first of next year.

There are several Senators and Representatives who have engaged in the controversy and have insisted on the single-arch steel structure, in preference to the multiple-arch masonry bridge. With the reconvening of Congress, January 3, it is believed they will revive the row and demand to know why the Fine Arts Commission reversed its stand and overrode the District Commissioners.

But belief of District officials that the issue again will go before Congress is based on a more concrete forecast; that is, that bids on the masonary bridge will exceed the $1,250,000 authorization, thus forcing the District to ask for an additional apropriation.

Material Prices Up.

While no estimates have been made on the new design, Modjeski, Masters & Chase estimated last July that a multiple span masonry bridge to replace Calvert Street Bridge would cost $1,335,600 without their engineering fee, since placed at $20,000. This estimate was made on prevailing material prices, which have since increased.

At the same time the firm estimated the single arch steel bridge urged by Commissioner Gotwals, and for which plans and specifications had already been drawn, would cost but $1,109,135.

District officials see a possible solution in advertising for alternate bids on the steel and the masonry bridges with the expectation that at least one would be within the authorization.

Board to See Models.

The Fine Arts Commission will go to New York Saturday to inspect models of statuary which will decorate Arlington Memorial Bridge, it was announced yesterday by H. P. Caemmerer, secretary.

Gotwals Asks Bids On Sewer Project

Second Item in Grant of $1,719,500 to D. C.

Commissioner Gotwals yesterday ordered the second NRA sewer project advertised for bids although bids on the first item in the $1,719,500 grant will not be opened until tomorrow.

Specifications are complete on the Piney Branch relief sewer, at an estimate cost of $400,000, Gotwals said. Bids will be opened tomorrow on the upper Potomac project for which $15,000 was obtained from the Public Works Administration.

Independent Bakers Study Buying Agency

Organization of the independent bakers of this section is to be completed at this session. The association is a voluntary organization designed to help independent bakers cooperate with more powerful concerns in the same field.

Dr. A. J. Olmstead, chief photographer of the National Museum; David Edmonston, art critic of Camera Magazine, and Ira M. Gullickson, photographic expert of the Metropolitan Police Department, will be judges.

Cronin Signs to Pilot Nats for 3 Years at Reported $22,500 Wage

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

CLARK C. GRIFFITH, of the Griffith Stadium Griffiths, hands Joe Cronin a 3-year contract to manage his ball club, and I am reminded of a little scene in the same office at the ball yard back in 1925.

Griffith was handing another 3-year contract to another young fellow at the end of the season and he was saying, "Bucky, my boy, I am proud of you," even as he said unto Cronin yesterday.

Bucky Harris was one of Griffith's greatest disappointments. That, Griffith will not admit in so many words, but when he talks of Bucky Harris you get the drift of blighted hopes, of sad reminiscence, of the echo of a sign. For Griffith had planned much for Bucky Harris.

Ready to Step Down.

When that contract for $100,000 for three years was handed to Bucky Harris that day eight years ago, Clark Griffith was ready to step down, ready to let younger hands relieve him of the responsibility as the president of the Washington Baseball Club; ready to sit out the seasonal battles with players over wages, with league officials, with office help and with umpires.

On Bucky Harris he had built his hopes of finding a successor. Bucky was to step into the business. Bucky was to be no mere manager. He was to be an officer of the club. A new clubhouse was being built. Harris' executive office was already receiving its appointments. Bucky Harris would carry on for Griffith, the "Old Fox" confidentially whispered to his friends.

And then Griffith was to suffer his keen disappointment.

Bucky Harris Drifts.

The Bucky Harris of 1926 was not the Bucky Harris of 1924 and 1925, when he had brought two pennants to the Nats. Baseball was no longer and obsession with Bucky. He had made new friends, moved in new circles. He was not the first man on the field for batting practice, and no longer was he the last to leave. Bucky was growing older, less ambitious.

His executive office in the clubhouse, Bucky began to frequent less and less. Clark Griffith found himself on the job every day. The reins he had turned over to a younger man were drooping listlessly. Harris and Griffith were drifting apart.

His contract still had two years to run. During 1926 and 1927, Bucky managed the ball team, and that was all. Griffith was back in harness in the clubhouse, running his business affairs as he run them since 1912, when he bought the team. Came the end of the 1927 season, Detroit wanted Harris. Griffith gave him his release. There was no pang of regret—only disappointment.

And Now Joe Cronin.

Yesterday Griffith appointed Joe Cronin as manager of his ball club for three years. Like Harris, Cronin was the youngest manager in the big leagues. Like Harris, he had led the team to the pennant in his maiden effort. But, unlike Harris, he apparently had not been invited to step into the business office of the club.

The situation, perhaps, has opened anew the old wounds of Griffith, who harks back to the Harris debacle with slight encouragement. Perhaps, this time, the "Old Fox" is playing a waiting game.

He is fond of Cronin, as fond of Cronin as he was of Harris. Some day, however, Griffith will step down. Methinks Cronin will move in upstairs.

Guiscard 15-2 Choice In Cesarwitch Classic

Newmarket, England, Oct. 10 (AP). With Lord Derby's Guiscard the choice at 15 to 2, 30 or more of Britain's leading handicap horses are expected to start in the classic Cesarwitch tomorrow.

The two and one-quarter mile course was far from ideal for racing today, despite a 45-mile gale, which did much to dry out the track. More rain was predicted before the start of the great autumn handicap.

Although Guiscard, which will be ridden by Tommy Weston, was the favorite, there was plenty of support for Sir Frederick Ely's lightly weighed Ximenes, Victor Emanuel's American-owned Statesman, and Loose Stride. Each was quoted at 17 to 2.

New Anacostia Park Golf Club Is Organized

The Anacostia Park Golf Club became a step nearer realization last night with the naming of organization committee and board of governors headed by Winfree Johnson.

More than 70 golf enthusiasts attended the get-together at the clubhouse that had a two-fold purpose. Formation of the club was one, and the awarding of prizes to winners in the various flights of the recent Anacostia amateur-open tournament the other.

Martin F. McCarthy, champion; John Connelly, runner-up; Bradley Burrows, Earl Jameson, E. O. Kroeger, E. F. Burley, J. L. Maddon, W. H. Moreley, J. G. McGrath, L. M. Drennan, C. S. Burgess, J. C. Messick, David Jameson, Al Brown, W. E. Roberts, H. Brosnan, Jimmy Estes, Dr. R. W. Cooper, Charles B. Ezeler, M. P. Sexton, Joseph Grimes, C. E. Cole, A. L. Kildreth, Charles A. King.

Md. Coaches Point for Tulane

DENIED the sweets of victory by Virginia Poly last Saturday, Maryland's football team faces another delay in celebrating a trumph this week-end when it engages Tulane in an intersectional game at New Orleans. Formerly the ruling dynasty in Southern football, Tulane still retains some of the might and power that once raised its standard above those of its rivals.

Maryland has but little to offer in the way of opposition. A lineup dominated by green sophomores can hardly be expected to cope with the experienced and capable pigskin toters in the camp of Tulane. But an air of optimism prevails at College Park. The Terps are executing their daily chores with a snap that is misleading. Misleading because it gives the impression that they are preparing for a championship game.

Maryland Showed Fight.

Against V. P. I., Maryland fought a game although losing battle. It forced the highly touted Virginians every inch of the way, refusing to quit even when their rivals' second touchdown placed victory far beyond Maryland reach. It is this spirit that the coaches are counting on to make a good stand and respectable showing against Tulane.

The same eleven players who started against V. P. I. will heed the opening whistle against Tulane. Ennis and Bernie Buscher, ends; McLaughlin and Callahan, tackles; Bradley and Simpson, guards; Webb, center; Nelson, quarter back; Yaeger and Benner, half backs, and Sachs, full back, are the nominees.

Ed Minion, regular tackle, who broke a bone in his hand for the second time this season last Thursday, will not be ready for action until the V. M. I. game, and possibly not until the Western Maryland scuffle a week later.

A light signal practice and drill in fundamentals comprised yesterday's workout, but heavy work will be the order from now until the team departs for the South.

Grange's Team Tests Passers Tonight

Capital Pro Eleven Makes Debut Against National League Leaders.

THE Washington Passers, local pro grid eleven, will seek its initial laurals in the game of football tonight when it encounters a ranking team of the National Professional Football League, namely Red Grange's Chicago Bears, at Griffith Stadium. The kick-off will be at 8:15.

The Bears, with the famous Grange, who burned up the college gridirons back in 1923, '24 and '25, boast also such stellar performers as Bronko Nagurski and Jack Manders, All-American full backs from Minnesota; Johnny Sisk and Joe Ronzani, of Marquette back fields; Link Lyman, 259-pound Nebraska bludgeon, and a host of other glorified grid collegians. The team is coached by George Halas and Laurie Walquist, two of the pro games' earliest coaches. The Bears lead the professional loop.

The Passers possess several well-known local college players, although they are not expected to win. Chief threat on the Capital squad is Jimmy Bankhead, a Texas luminary and triple-threat star. Another prominent Passer is Johnny Fenlon, who was a George Washington satellite.

The Victory Post No. 4, Fife and Drum Corps will parade before the game and between the halves.

2 Accused "Dopers" Ruled Off Race Tracks

Detroit, Oct. 10 (AP).—Clarence E. Lehr, secretary of the Detroit Racing Association, today said that Robert Wingfield, trainer for the Audley Farms, and Thomas Murray, handler, had been ruled off the turf following charges that they had "doped" a horse during the recent race fete here. Their licenses were revoked.

Wingfield, Murray and Thomas Moore, the latter another handler, are held to the Federal grand jury under $3,000 bond each on charges of possessing narcotics, following an investigation conducted by Federal officials.

Racing Director Joseph A. Murphy, who ordered the two men ruled out of racing, said no action was taken against Moore.

Mrs. Vare Advances In Hot Springs Golf

Hot Springs, Va., Oct. 10 (AP). Irving T. Smith, of Greenwich, Conn., was blasted out of the twenty-first annual fall golf tournament here today by Fay Ingalls, of Hot Springs, who won a 3-and-1 victory.

Mrs. Edwin H. Vare, jr., of Philadelphia, the former Miss Glenna Collett, advanced without difficulty to the second round of play in the women's tournament with a 7-and-6 victory over Mrs. John L. Hall, of Boston.

Harridge Raps Umpire

League Head Says Moran Ruled Too Severely in Ousting Manush; Says No Club Can Show Profit; Predicts Cuts.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 10 (AP).—William Harridge, president of the American League, said tonight cuts in salaries of players and reduction in overhead would be necessary if the owners are to stay "out of the red" next season.

He also criticized the action of Umpire Charley Moran in banishing Heinie Manush, of the Nationals, from the fourth game of the recent world series with the New York Giants.

"Umpire Moran ruled too severely," Harridge said, "when he ordered Manush out of the game. Manush didn't commit anything so flagrant as to cause his removal in such an important, short series, where a win or loss means so much to the players and club owners. Umpire Moran should have put the matter up to Judge Landis and permitted him to rule after the game."

Sees NRA as Aid.

Turning again to the league in general, Harridge expressed the opinion the national recovery act would help the league next year.

"Everything considered," he declared, "the American League had a right good season which has closed, but another reduction in overhead which calls for a players' salary cut, among other matters, will be necessary if the owners are to keep from losing money. The players realize this, too.

"I don't believe a team in the American League can show a profit for the 1933 season. There were salary cuts, but nothing to compare with the falling-off at the gate. I don't mean to infer that the interest in baseball is dropping. Instead, there is more enthusiasm over the game than ever before. But the people, because of the present economic conditions, haven't the money to spend for baseball tickets.

Uniform Cut Expected.

"However, with the NRA putting many people to work, I believe the receipts will take a jump in 1934, but not enough to make up for the present big expenses of all eight clubs. Therefore, some sort of uniform cut in salaries can be expected."

U. S. Veterinary Sought To End Horse Doping

Chicago, Oct. 10 (AP).—Joseph A. Murphy, widely known racing official and acting president of the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association, today appealed to Representative John J. Cochran of Missouri, a personal friend, to have the Federal Government station an official veterinary surgeon in the paddocks of each track under his jurisdiction.

If the Government would permit it, Judge Murphy said, his associations would pay for the services of these veterinarians.

Judge Murphy charged there was no cooperation between the Governmental agents and race tracks in the fight to stamp out alleged "doping" of horses at present because the agents, he said, were "snoopers, who made a play for the galleries and publicity."

Hockey Starts Nov. 9.

Montreal, Oct. 10 (AP).—The National Hockey League race, sending nine teams away on the long winter quest for the league title and the coveted Stanley Cup playoff berths, will get under way November 9.

Training Table Ban Favored by Coach

First Step Toward Paying Men, Says Huff.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 10 (AP).—"Establishment of the training table is the first step toward paying football players," Athletic Director George Huff, of the University of Illinois, said today in an address at the Urbana Rotary Club luncheon.

The director voiced a strong disapproval of the plan to feed collegiate football players, advocated by a majority of the Big Ten Conference coaches.

"If we are going to feed hungry football players, we ought to feed all hungry students—girls, as well as boys. The training table is the first step toward putting the players on a pay roll. If we started paying the players, we would have to establish a wage scale, and before long there would be all kinds of administrative difficulties. There would be holdouts of star players and strikes by team members."

Hubbell Voted Award by Writers

Named Most Valuable in League; Balloting Is Near-Unanimous.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10 (AP).—Carl Owen Hubbell, celebrated southpaw pitcher of the world champion Giants, who never so much as received a single vote before in the contest, emerged today by official ballot of the experts as the National League's "most valuable player" for 1933.

The vote was almost unanimous for the Meeker (Oklahoma) master of the screwball, who scored 23 victories during the league season, including 10 shutouts, and twice pitched the Giants to triumph over the Nats in the world series without allowing a single earned run in 20 innings.

77 Out of 80 Points.

Hubbell scored 77 points out of a maximum possible total of 80 in the contest, decided by ballots of a committee of eight members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America and announced by the chairman, Denman Thompson, of the Washington Star. The pitcher won by a decisive margin over two outfield rivals, Chuck Klein, of the Phillies, and Wally Berger, of the Braves, who finished second and third with 48 and 44 points, respectively.

Six of the eight ballots marked Hubbell's name at the top of the list. The two others rated him second and third. Points were on the basis of 10 for first, 9 for second, and so on.

Manager Bill Terry of the Giants received the other two first-place designations, but wound up fourth in total points with 35, followed by Pepper Martin, third base sensation of the Cardinals, with 31.

Big Turn-over In Stars.

The entire National League reflected an unusually big turn-over in star talent. Seventeen of the 27 players receiving actual votes in the contest were not even mentioned on the 1932 list. Lon Warneke, Cubs' young right-hander and runner-up to Klein last year, was named on only one ballot. Hubbell and Klein were the only performers listed by every member of the committee. The result of the poll:

Carl Hubbell (Giants)	77
Chuck Klein (Phillies)	48
Wally Berger (Braves)	44
Bill Terry (Giants)	35

Fred Schulte Honored By Fellow Townsmen

Belvidere, Ill., Oct. 10 (Spl.).—A real "local boy makes good" reception was tendered Fred Schulte upon his arrival here today. The Washington centerfielder was greeted at the station by a 75 piece band, which headed a parade staged in his honor. Schulte Day was declared and many business houses declared a holiday. This evening, Schulte presided over a banquet given in his honor at the local country club.

Shem's "Ringer" In Race at York

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 10 (AP). Aknahton, the horse which ran as ringer for Shem at Havre de Grace in 1931 and for Gailmont at Hialeah Park in 1932, has cropped up again with the report he ran and finished second under the name of Chinese Puzzle at the York, Pa., fair last Thursday. Several Maryland horsemen identified the horse as the perennial ringer. Aknahton, after the race.

"For the lack of proper identification and pending further investigation the horse Chinese Puzzle is suspended, as is also Mickey Limerio, his owner and trainer."

A full report on the case has been filed with the Maryland Racing Commission. In the meantime the horse is said to have been shipped from York and his present whereabouts are unknown.

Jamaica to Investigate Horse 'Sponging' Case

Sweeping Light failed to show the speed expected and today Trainer Fred Kraft visited the horse's stall and found him bleeding from the nose. The track physician, after an examination, then removed a long silken sponge from one nostril of the horse, which is owned by Arthur Kram, of Howard Beach, Long Island.

Nash to Dodgers.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League today announced they had bought the contract of Tom Nash from the Green Bay Packers.

Nash was a star player at the University of Georgia in his undergraduate days. The purchase price was announced as $1,500.

Salary Boost Accompanies Contract

"Proud of Joe," Griffith Says in Announcement of New Pact.

No Changes Contemplated at Present in Make-Up of 1934 Team.

THE destinies of the Washington ball club during the seasons of 1934, 1935 and 1936 yesterday were committed to the keeping of Joseph Edward Cronin, the young man who came out of the West to lead the Nats to the American League pennant in his maiden managerial venture.

In an act that beat the arrival of his twenty-seventh birthday by only a few hours, the youngest manager in the big leagues signed a three-year contract to manage the Nats at a salary that Owner Clark Griffith declared contained a "substantial" increase over his one-year contract for the 1933 season.

Neither Griffith nor Cronin would divulge the exact financial terms of the new contract. Unofficially, however, it was reported that Cronin was to draw $22,500 per year, as contrasted with his 1933 salary, understood to be $17,500.

Emerging from their huddle in the office of the club owner, both Griffith and Cronin were smiling, seemingly having forgotten the tragedy of the world series lost to the Giants.

"I have signed Joe to a three-year contract," Griffith announced. "I'm proud of the boy." The club owner had one arm draped paternally around the shoulder of his strapping shortstop.

Cronin, too, was elated, in sharp contrast to his keen disappointment that followed the close of the late and lamented series with the Giants. "I told Griff I'd try to give him another winner," he said. "I think we can do it, too."

Shies at Figures.

Pressed for details concerning the terms of his financial arrangement with Cronin, Griffith shied at amplifying his announcement, pointing out that it was the club's policy never to make the players' wages public.

"I can't mention any figures," he said. "I might just as well tell you $100,000, like they did up in New York, when they said that Terry was drawing $40,000 a year." Thus the owner of the Nats expressed personal doubt concerning Terry's reported salary.

In signing Cronin to a three-year term, Griffith dealt with his young manager exactly as he had dealt with Bucky Harris and Walter Johnson, each of whom had worked with one-year contracts before being tendered the management of the club for a three-year spell.

Last Laugh on Critics.

Thus did Griffith have the last laugh on his critics who, before the start of the 1933 season, had censured him severely for appointing as young a ball player as Cronin to the managerial post, foreseeing the ruination of a prize shortstop under the weight of a manager's responsibilities.

All season long Cronin maintained his high caliber of play both at bat and in the field to lead his team to the pennant by an eight-game margin over the Yankees, who had been heavy favorites to repeat. As the youngest manager in the big leagues, the San Francisco boy became the youngest manager ever to win a pennant.

Plans No Changes.

Asked concerning changes on the Washington team next year, Griffith directed the questions toward Cronin. "We can't tell now," said Cronin. "Don't forget, I've got a pennant-winning team, and we've got to be careful how we juggle it a round. It was good enough to win this year, and I haven't any changes in mind now."

He will return East in December for the winter meetings of the big leagues, when the trading market again will be thrown open.

Bejshak Hurt In Accident At Finish

ONE of Man O'War's boys, Sea Fox, ran like a scared rabbit to win the best race of a featureless card at Laurel yesterday afternoon. It was well that Sea Fox had his best racing legs under him because he drew a determined rival in little Gloritone, a daughter of the famous The Porter which was one length behind at the finish of the mile and one sixteenth contest. Another two lengths away came Brass Monkey.

In the shuffle that marked the dash for the clubhouse turn, Gloritone flattered her backers by taking the lead. However, Sea Fox soon was in full motion and had sprinted to the front on the swing for the backstretch. In ribbon fashion, the field sped up the tree-bordered far side with Gloritone chasing Sea Fox and the others making up a second division.

Filly's bid Fails.

Sea Fox might have been dragging Gloritone, so evenly did the little filly stick to her task. At the quarter pole, she made a bid that carried her up to Sea Fox's saddle. But there her effort ended for she slid back in the last 10 yards.

Don Meade gave the winner one of his best arm-slinging rides and brought joy to the hearts of the Fox in a big way. Extra tickets were necessary, so great was the demand for wagers on the 5-year old.

Happy Go had broken on top and had led the field by margins up to five lengths. Nearing the finish, Bejshak went to the whip on the tiring juvenile. Good Goods, a trailer at the start, rushed up on the outside and passed Happy Go at the edge of the mutuel board. Sun Monk was third.

The Doctor was a winning favorite in the second race and had a rough trip around the course. Sunny Susan and Caterer battled for the lead for most of the mile and a sixteenth with The Doctor far back. At the turn into the stretch, The Doctor waded through and had to fight his way out of close quarters in the run for the wire. He made a good job of it to get the verdict by a neck margin over Everfair.

Rose Parade Scores.

The first of the mad scrambles at a mile for 2-year-olds resulted in a victory for Rose Parade, a field horse, over Moira's Chief, the favorite. Little Corporal was third. Wise Ways, Forceful and Little Corporal all had flings at the lead before the important stretch running began.

The second division of juveniles was headed by Plight, which took a head decision from the favored Red Jug. Red Badge was third in the field of 14. Cabochon set most of the pace but wilted in the stretch.

Blimp gave the long-shot players their innings in the sixth race. Under a powerful ride by Dabson, the son of Under Fire routed Mountain Elk, the favorite, to pay a $45 mutuel.

In the third, Puchero passed Modern Times to win the purse with High Socks third.

Sleeping sickness, or encephalitis lethargica, which is sometimes called "sleepy sickness" to distinguish it from African sleeping sickness, has many and varied symptoms by which it is recognized by physicians. One symptom which is sometimes present in cases of this sleeping sickness is insomnia—the inability to sleep.

Another, perhaps stranger, symptom is sometimes noticed: sleepiness by day and inability to sleep at night. In African sleeping sickness sleeplessness is also noted in the early stages.

Dear Al: Laurel Race Track.

There is a well-known veteran jockey at this track who is getting few mounts. I recall a race he rode. It was reported that he had bet his money, or someone else had bet their money for him on his mount. Of course, the horse was not in on the deal. When the starter sent the field away, the horse stood still. But the jockey soon whipped his charge into action. With one quarter of the race run, it was evident that this horse could not be close. But the jockey, perhaps ired by the realization that his big killing was thwarted, went to work with his bat. He set a new record for horse whipping. Next to last and beaten a sixteenth of a mile, he pounded his mount down the stretch. Even after five horses had crossed the finish line ahead of him, this jockey laid on the punishment. Yes, there is a veteran jockey at this track who is getting few mounts.

BILL.

First race—Galon Lad has been close in his last two starts and appears the most probable of this field to graduate. Landsman, from the J. Fred Adams holdings, turned in a nice race with this sort. May be the one to beat. Plain Ace for the show.

Second race — Dancing Mack meets only fair opposition in this field. Sprinted the other day with this race in mind. No standout, but worth a take-a-chance wager. Glen Burnie should show to advantage in this field. Helen's Alibi is consistent and draws the show award.

Third race—Prince Tokalon ran a powerful race the last time, closing like a shot out of a cannon. Will appreciate the route today, and I see no reason for a miss. Daily News and War Saint for the place and show.

Fourth race—Polly Egret led some of the best youngsters hereabouts before tiring in the stretch run of that last outing. In a better spot today. Grey Glade's last was a beaut. Must be beaten here. Flabbergast for the rest.

Fifth race—Character, Cutie Face tnd Dyak is my line-up in this sprint. Character lost a decision to Cutie Face at Havre de Grace, but I don't expect the rider to go to sleep, as was the case in that race. Dyak has been raced into condition again and may take it all.

Sixth race—Traffic Judge's recent victory was well earned and attests to the condition of this plater. Figures to lead Even Up to the wire. Below Cost may be the surprise package of the race.

Mason Winner in President's Cup Golf Tournament

Chevy Chase Final Ends, 7 and 5

WSEVERLY MASON, jr., defeated Dr. Thomas M. Foley, yesterday afternoon at Chevy Chase, 7 and 5, in the finals of the annual President's Cup tournament, one of the highlights on the club's fall golf calendar.

The tournament was conducted on a match play with handicap basis, Mason having a four handicap and Dr. Foley, 15. Mason, who played bang-up golf this past summer in North Carolina tournaments, was in fine fettle, shooting a 36 for the first nine, and being only one over par when the battle ended on the thirteenth green.

Mason waded through a strong field before reaching the finals. A week ago he defeated his father, Dr. W. Beverly Mason, sr., in the quarter-finals.

Another of those medal play and handicap tournaments will be staged this afternoon at the Columbia Country Club under the auspices of the Maryland State Golf Association. Amateur stars from Baltimore and the District will compete for low gross and low net prizes in three classes as follows:

A—1 to 10 handicap. B—11 to 21 handicap. C—23 to 35 handicap. Professionals also are invited to compete, but they must play from scratch. Entrance fee is $1.50.

With the schedule fast drawing to a close, two more tournaments were announced yesterday by the Maryland State Golf Association. One is the senior championship to be played on October 18 at the Green Spring Valley Club course October 18, and the other is an 18-hole tournament on October 25 at the same course.

Johnny Miller, District "champions of champions" will defend his Beaver Dam Club championship against Martin F. McCarthy, rugged national amateur participant and Anacostia titleholder, Sunday in the 36-hole finals. The first round will begin at 9 a. m., and play will be resumed at 1:30. In the consolations of the first flight R. M. Brown will meet W. J. LaBille.

Here's a woman golfer who won the medal after she won the club championship.

She is Mrs. Ralph Goldsmith, who yesterday vanquished Miss Bertha Israel in the playoff for the qualifying prize in the Woodmont Country Club championship. Twice club champion, Mrs. Goldsmith shot a 45—49—94, and Miss Israel a 48—50—98.

Charlie Avant, Kenwood Golf and Country Club, carried off low gross honors in the annual Electrical League of Washington golf tournament at Washington Golf and Country Club yesterday. Avant posted a 41—39—80 to pace a field of 60 players.

Ralph Gibson, with 41—41—82, captured second low gross.

The first low net prize went to Percy Schneider, who had 97—28—69, and second was won by Roy Burress, with 92—20—72.

Mrs. L. H. Hedrick, medalist, advanced to the semi-finals of the golf tournament staged for wives of officers of the Army War College Club by defeating Mrs. A. Kimball, 4 and 2, yesterday in the first round of match play with handicap.

Play in the four flights will be resumed today.

Results:

First flight—Mrs. L. H. Hedrick defeated Mrs. A. Kimball, 4 and 2; Mrs. L. H. Hewitt defeated Mrs. John C. Wean, 2 up; Mrs. John Rogers defeated Mrs. J. S. Upham, 1 up; Mrs. A. E. Dedicke defeated Mrs. C. K. Wing, 1 up.

Second flight—Mrs. J. C. H. Lee defeated Mrs. C. C. McCormack, 1 up; Mrs. T. H. Chambers-Mrs. John Conklin and Mrs. Hibbs-Mrs. F. L. Purdon play today; Mrs. Hurdis defeated Miss Betty Meyer, 3 and 2.

Third flight—Mrs. Guy V. Henry defeated Mrs. J. B. Harrington, 2 up; Mrs. N. Brinson defeated Mrs. C. R. Allen, 2 and 1; Mrs. T. J. Christian defeated Mrs. George Grunert, 4 and 3; Mrs. R. M. Littlepage defeated Mrs. O. H. Saunders, 1 up.

Fourth flight—Mrs. H. E. Taylor, bye; Mrs. G. I. Morrow defeated Mrs. J. R. Weaver, 2 up; Mrs. J. M. Wainwright, bye; Mrs. F. Siebert defeated Mrs. C. H. Mason, 2 up.

Mrs. H. A. Knox, of Congressional; Mrs. J. Franklin Gross, of Indian Spring; Mrs. L. G. Pray, of Manor; Miss Sue Gantt, of Kenwood, and Mrs. Douglas Tschiffeley, of Washington Golf and Country Club, have been appointed as the nominating committee to bring in a slate of officers for the Women's District of Columbia Golf Association.

The slate will be brought in 30 days before the association's annual meeting which is scheduled for December 7. Miss Elizabeth C. Harris, of Kenwood, is president of the association.

Forty municipal golfers of the District are engaged in the task of qualifying in the annual West Potomac championship. S. C. Wimsatt is the defending champion. A new title holder among the women will be crowned, since Betty Garber, who won the title last season, is teaching school at Danville, Va., and will not be able to compete.

Manager Bob Stevenson announced that all 18-hole qualifying scores must be turned in by October 23. Prizes will be awarded winners and runners up in all flights.

Thursday, October 19, has been set as the date for the "field day" at Kenwood in honor of members of second teams that played in the District matches this season. Kenwood triumphed in the competition, Mrs. Roy C. Miller, golf chairman, is arranging for the "field day."

Practice and Play.

The Meridians will practice at 8 o'clock tonight at the Sixteenth street reservoir. They play the Centennials in the National Capital League Sunday.

Pegler

Says Vines, Like Tilden, "Turned Square" at Wrong Time.

By Westbrook Pegler.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 10—The profession of amateur tennis must be in a rather bad way when one of the leading amateurs of the world finds it necessary to turn pro in order to make a lixing for himself and his family. The professionalization of Ellsworth Vines, of California and the American Davis Cup Team, suggests that the amateur game is becoming altogether too amateur for comfort.

The more intensely amateur they make the sport of tennis the more amateurs they will drive out of the business and into the professional class. If they should ever adopt the same rules for tennis that are faithfully adhered to in the game of golf, the class of professional tennis players would become as numerous and as respectable, socially, as the class of professional golfers.

Like William T. Tilden 2d, Vines did not time his turn-over, or his turning square, as the act of turning pro is called in the tennis business, as well as he could have. The time for Vines to have turned pro, or square, with most profit to himself, was before he suffered a succession of defeats in the summer competitions. These defeats seem certain to affect his prestige and drawing power at the turnstiles.

Defeats Hurt Prestige.

Thus his withdrawal from the amateurs will be less a blow to that faction, including the promoting clubs which derive the revenue from the gates, and less a boon to the professional element than it would have been if he had quit while his reputation was at its best. His reputation did fall off several points during the summer trading, abroad and at home.

Tilden, also, in his time, waited until he was appreciably down from his maximum to decide that amateurism had nothing further to offer him. Nevertheless, Tilden appears to have done very well on the courts in his new character. I believe he has been less prolific in a literary sense and less active in the drama since he turned pro, but then an amateur has to hustle and peddle his by-products if he is to show a profit at the end of a year, whereas a pro takes his earnings, if any, as straight pay and is not forced to drive himself after hours. The professional status seems to be more comfortable, independent and respectiable than that of the amateur who puts in his time, years on end, playing for his supper his transportation and his board and room.

Vines is developing a reputation among his loving friends of the newspaper set as a great repudiator. As in the case of a picturesque President of the United States of some years back, it may yet be thought necessary to interview him in pairs, one man to get the story and the other for corroboration. If he does not repudiate a statement attributed to him today regarding the financial condition of his family, that statement will make him out an interesting type of youth.

"My mother has been working in a department store for years to earn enough to support me," Vines is reported to have said. "It was not until a year or two ago that I was able to earn enough to help the family. Now I feel that it is time to take a long rest while I am the family wage earner."

This is a noble expression, to be sure, but is raises the picture of a young man touring the world, presumably a strict amateur in receipt of no reward for his playing, and performing in the tennis capitals of the Old World and the Atlantic Seaboard while his mother toils in a department store. Some boys, in the same situation, might have felt that tennis and travel were unimportant as compared with the urgent necessity of obtaining some sort of working job, however humble. But then, he did say, or was quoted as saying that a year or two ago he began to be able to earn some money to help the family. So amateur tennis may not be as severely amateur as the word itself would imply.

150-Pound Grid Clubs Open Season Sunday

Line-up of teams in the 150-pound class of the National Capital Football League was completed last night, with five aggregations scheduled to compete. In the opening games Sunday, the Brooks Club meets the Meridian A. C. on Gonzaga Field at 2:30 and the Stantons engage St. Stephens at Silver Spring at 2:30. The Palace A. C. remains inactive insofar as league competition is concerned.

The teams will weigh in Thursday and Friday between 6 and 9 o'clock at the Atlas Sport Shop.

Pixlee Grooms Back Field for Clemson

WITH a majority of his back field men still feeling the effects of bruises acquired in the North Dakota game, Coach Jim Pixlee yesterday found himself in a dilernma concerning a starting back field for the Clemsen game Friday night at Griffith Stadium. Capt. Lee Carlin and Joe Walsh are out for at least three weeks. Johnny Baker, Don Bomba, and "Nig" McCarver are bothered with sore muscles and aching limbs.

Pixlee experimented with the remaining backs yesterday. Ben Plotnicki was inserted at quarter back for Baker, "Red" Hoyle, who has been on the bench with a broken hand, got in at half back, and Johnny Morrison, heretofore a guard, was shifted to the other halfback post. Wayne Davenport was at full back.

May Start Combination.

Although they looked ragged in spots, Pixlee was well pleased with the combination and intimated that he may use them in the starting line-up, substituting the regulars only if necessary.

Burdened down with Clemson plays, the freshmen played havoc with the Colonial varsity in the early part of scrimmage. But as the older men got their bearings they bottled up the Frosh backs and completely stopped their line plays.

Another injury occured yesterday when Finish Parrish's nose came in contact with a flying foot. He was taken to the hospital and it is feared the organ is broken.

The Head Pin

The new Recreation Alleys girls' team, unbeaten in matches with Arcadia and Meyer Davis, will roll the Columbia Girls tonight on the Columbia Alleys. The girls will wear their new costumes.

The El Gees rolled 1,564 and 529 to capture high team set and game in the Washington Ladies League last night. Evelyn Ellis scored the high individual set mark with 341 and Polly Shugrue rolled high individual game with 130.

The O's 1,513 was high for team set in the Postoffice League, and their 513 was high team game. Regan rolled 326 for high individual set and Buzzard's 121 was the mark for high individual game.

Audit Review's 1,419 produced the high team set mark for the Internal Revenue Ladies, but Administrative's 491 was high for team game. Miss Engman's 317 set and Mrs. Kelly's 125 game stood out.

The first big double bill bowling show of the season will be staged by the National Capital League Friday night. Duckpin fans will see virtually every District star in these matches. The front-running Book of Washington team is scheduled to clash with Lucky Strike Barbers and Judd & Detwefler, while the Silver Spring Skating Rink crew, which established a world record five-game set of 3,288 in Baltimore last week, is slated to oppose Temple Hand Laundry and Farnan's.

After 30 years of hitting the head pin, Jim "Pop" Ellett still throws a mean shoot. Last night in the Odd Fellows League he was prevailed upon to roll anchor for Amity No. 1 team by his son, Perce. Thus inspired, he shot high game of 136 and 353 for the league.

Whip Litchfield, numbered among the first ranking 10 of the city, cracked out his first 400 set of the season, rolling with King David in the Masonic League. His only set in the league last year was one of 403. Whip chalked up 13 "400's" for a record last season.

Apparently, the legal lights of the city have been stung by the bowling bug. Charlie Ford has lined up a group of his fraternity to roll in the Daylight League at Covington Hall.

Hagerty Is Careful With G. U. Squad

Still feeling the effects of its battle with Canisius, Georgetown went back to work yesterday, gingerly feeling its way lest more injuries be added. Coach Jack Hagerty contented himself with signal practice and a brief period in fundamentals.

Today work gets under way in earnest. There will be no let up from now until the squad leaves for New York. While Georgetawn's football is at low ebb, Hagerty is well aware of the fact that Manhattan has a better than average team. He views Oglethorpe's victory over the Jaspers in the light of an upset, and figures that Chick Meehan will strive to blot out the loss with a decisive victory over the Hilltoppers.

Those on the ailing list were able to hobble around yesterday and will be able to answer the starting whistle Saturday.

C. U. Gridmen In Spirited Workout

STEPPING but from under the gloom that has prevailed since the Holy Cross disaster, Catholic University's eleven scampered through its paces yesterday with a will that bodes no good for St. John's.

The varsity had its first taste of St. John's plays in a lively scrimmage with the freshmen that lasted an hour. A vast improvement in the varsity's play was noticeable. Timing was better and the men were more aggressive.

Bergman Tells Them.

Coach "Dutch" Bergman gave the squad a verbal lashing before practice with telling effect. He emphasized the fact that the Annapolis team must not be regarded lightly, and that regulars would find themselves performing on the second team if they lag behind in practice.

Should the Cards roll up a large score, as Bergman hopes they will, he plans a wholesale usage of reserves. Every man on the squad will get into the game, unless, of course, St. John's proves to be too tough.

Today Riggs, St. John's coach, is handicapped by a small squad and lack of reserves. Four Washington boys are on the squad, all regulars, and they are hopeful of making a good appearance before a local audience.

Boesch and Humberto Clash at Auditorium

This week's wrestling at the Auditorium tomorrow night is headlined by the George Zaharias-Ray Steele engagement, but no little attention is being focused on the 45-minute semi-final between Paul Boesch and Jacques Humberto.

Boesch, a comparative newcomer to the hit and groan circle, is a leading exponent of the Edwin Booth school of rassling. His opponent is an outstanding advocate of the Barrymore type. Sanguine fans are expecting the clash of histrionics to promote hysterics.

Blood and thunder and other forms of mellerdrammer will predominate in the 30-minute time limit supporting bouts, in which Frank Brunowicz meets Ivan Zeniaki; Cliff Olsen plays ingenue to George Hill, and Karl Davis croons "Whose afraid of the big, bad Tiger?" to William (Tiger) Nelson.

American U. Prepares For Bridgewater Fray

Profiting by the experience of its mistakes against Hampden-Sydney in the opening game of the season, American University went through an intensive drill yesterday, stressing line plays.

Coach Walter H. Young was satisfied with the team's work against the Virginians, despite the 32-0 reversal. American was obliged to concede almost 20 pounds per man in weight, and of course boasted far less experience than its rival. Hampden-Sydney had played three games prior to its meeting with the Eagles, and won them all.

Young predicts a different result against Bridgewater. This despite the fact that word has been received that the Red eleven has a veteran machine and is pointing for the fray.

Burl Meets Sarron At Portner's Tuesday

Eddie Burl and Pete Sarron, featherweights, have been definitely signed to open the Portner's Arena boxing season in Alexandria next Tuesday. It will be the third meeting of the pair, the first two bouts having resulted in a decision for Burl and a draw.

N. E. Boys Club Boxing.

Coach Billy Reed, of the Northeast Boys Club, has issued call for aspirants for the boxing team tonight.

Junior candidates will work out, starting at 7 o'clock, while an hour later the seniors will unlimber their punches. Coach Reed expects a crack junior team, with virtually all of last season's youngsters back in the fold. Workouts will be held every night.

Rockville Challenged.

The Silver Spring Giants are casting challenges in the direction of the Rockville nine, which last week defeated Gaithersburg and Colesville in games billed for the championship of Montgomery County.

The Giants, last year's champions, played two games with Rockville, winning one by a 7-6 score and dropping the other 8 to 5. They claim that Roockville has refused to play the third.

Navy Polishes Offense for Pitt Game

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10 (Spl.).—With Pittsburgh admittedly one of the strongest foes to be encountefed this season, Rip Miller, head coach at the Naval Academy, today launched a special program of prepping the Middies for the battle to be waged with the Panthers on Forbes Field Saturday.

Improved blocking and greater coordination between backs and the forward wall on running attack, to step up the timing of plays are the principal rough spots to be ironed out in this week's drive.

The Tars have given ample demonstration of potential strength in the two previous starts, the games against William and Mary and Mercer, the latter resulting in a decisive triumph over a heavy and formidable combination.

Coaches Satisfied.

From a general standpoint the coaching staff is well satisfied. Unquestionably the Tars are much further advanced than any Navy team in recent years, but most of all is the fine caliber of the reserve material.

Of the eight or ten high-grade backs, Saturday's game with Mercer showed beyond doubt that the best thus far are the veterans "Buzz" Borries, and "Reds" Brumberger, half backs; Bill Clark and Swede Larson, full backs, and Bud Slack and Larry Becht, quarter backs.

Borries and Baumberger were the mainsprings of the attack that subdued the Georgians. Clark and Larson both did impressive work offensively and defensively, but Larson held a decided edge in punting. Slack looms as the better field general, while Becht, a heavier lad, is a fine blocker.

Chung-Hoon In Slump.

It was Slack who directed the four-play march to reel off 65 yards for Navy's second touchdown against Mercer, and the ball carrying was done by Borries and Baumberger in alternate plays. Gordon Chung-Hoon, Hawaiian, veteran half back, has not been up to scratch in the past week.

Miller has planned a stiff scrimmage session for the Middies tomorrow and the program for Thursday will be of a light order. The squad, 45 strong, will move on Pittsburgh Friday. The players will go into seclusion at Shady Side Academy over Friday night.

Guyon Revamps Eastern Line-up

Whether Big Chief Charlie Guyon has weakened his Eastern eleven in preparation for the coming inter-high battle with Central Friday will not be known until after the final whistle has blown.

The wholesale make-over is practically entirely along the forward wall with a pair of new guards, a tackle and a center scheduled to replace the regular men of last week.

Only Dick Absher at tackle will continue at his old post, his running mate, recruited from the second team, is Campbell. Thompson, a sub center, and Davis, second-stringer tackle, will move into the regular guard assignments. Lewis will replace Nash at center.

In the back field, "Hawk" Shaw is slated for full with full back Nolan placed at quarter back. Half backs Keegin and Joe Mills, as well as the ends, Widner and Wood, will continue in their regular spots.

2 Basket Ball Leagues Planned at S. E. Center

Efforts will be made to organize two basketball leagues at a meeting of the Southeast Community Center at Hine Junior High School next Monday night at 8 o'clock.

Six teams are expected to seek berths in one loop, and six in another.

The following men's teams are requested to have representatives at the meeting: Marine Corps Institute, Navy Yard Barracks, Christ Church, Congress Heights, Marion A. C., Anacostia Business Men, Sigma Phi Lamba, Naval Reserves, Miller Furniture, Whirlwind A. C., Brookland Boys' Club, Douglas Methodist Episcopal Church, Mercury A. C., Eastern A. C., Saint Josephs, Friendship House and the newly organized NRA club.

St. John's vs. Emerson.

St. John's pries off its grid lid today when it meets Emerson at the Tidal Basin Field. The game is scheduled for 3:30 o'clock. Tomorrow Roosevelt and Gonzaga tangles at Gonzaga.

Walt Mason, Himself

Things Needed.

We're all in need of many things, of mops and brooms and teething rings, of books and catalogues; we need new shoes and ties and hats, we need new kennels for the cats, and also for the dogs. The cars we drive are far from fine, the cylinders are out of line, the sparkplugs do not spark; we bought them years and years ago, and they're worn out, and look as though they came from Noah's ark. We need new teacups and new [illegible], new carpets and new roller skates, new rigs for work and sport; for everything we have is worn, and should be banished to that bourne where junkmen hold the fort. We murmur, with a sickly smile, "We'll have to wait a little while to buy the things we need; although we have on hand the dough, we'll wait a while before we blow the hard-earned chickenfeed. We'll wait and see if things improve, if commerce hits a higher groove, before we loosen up, before we spend out weekly wage to buy the bird a modern cage, a collar for the pup." So we keep waiting year by year, in hopes that symptoms may appear of better times at hand; we do not patronize the shops of men who deal in soda pops, we shun the peanut stand. We are so prudent and so wise we'll wait until the prices rise on everything in sight; then all at once we'll seek the mart, and rend our hoarded rolls apart, and buy by day and night.

Robert Woods Heads Masons Of Royal Arch

Indiana Man Installed; Chapter Triennial Opens Today.

Robert A. Woods, Princeton, Ind., was elected and installed general grand master of the General Grand Council of Royal and Selected Master Masons at the eighteenth triennial gathering at Masonic Temple yesterday. The Masons have been in session here since Sunday.

Other national officers elected and installed were Nelson Williams, Hamilton, Ohio, general grand deputy master; Charles N. Fowler, Salina, Kans., general grand principal conductor; O. Frank Hart, Columbus, S. C., general grand treasurer; Arthur D. Prince, Lowell, Mass., general grand recorder; Bert D. Ashbrook, El Reno, Okla., general grand marshal, and W. Frank Charles H. Johnson, Albany, N. Y., general grand conductor of council; Roy G. Webb, Spencer, Iowa, general grand marshal, and Frank W. Wells, Atlanta, Ga., general grand steward.

Advance In Grades.

All the new officers, with the exception of Wells, were voted up a grade, as Walter L. Stockwell, Fargo, N. Dak., serving as general grand master, retired. A luncheon followed yesterday's balloting.

The attendance of the delegates and their wives was swelled to 800 yesterday.

Buses and private automobiles carried delegates on a tour of Mount Vernon yesterday afternoon, where they visited the Masonic lodgeroom where George Washington presided as master. Christ Church, where Washington and Lee held pews, also was visited.

In the morning wives of the delegates toured Rock Creek Park Cemetery and viewed the nationally known monument, "Grief." They later visited the Franciscan monastery and Catholic University.

Pomp and Ceremony.

Two Men Ask Match, Then Stage Holdup

Two colored men stopped William E. Edwards, of 1121 Twenty-fourth street northwest, as he left his home last night. They asked him for a match. As he reached in his pockets, both men drew guns.

"Leave your hands where they are," he was ordered. They robbed him of 75 cents, Edwards reported, and fled through the Columbia Hospital grounds.

'Keep Healthy' Week of Post Off Tomorrow

Coupons Presented at Y. M. C. A. Will Aid Body Building.

"Keep Healthy" Week for Washington men, jointly sponsored by The Post and the Central Young Men's Christian Association, begins tomorrow. It will continue through October 19 during which time the health-building facilities of the Y. M. C. A. will be made available free of charge to nonmembers.

Prompted by the increasing problem of what to do with added hours of leisure, the week will be a concrete answer to the question which has been widely discussed by both conomists and sociologists.

The week will provide facilities for the development of the one thing which is generally agreed to be the first necessity in spending added hours of leisure—physical fitness.

The need of men out of jobs keeping themselves prepared to handle any work they may secure has been stressed many times.

The Post-Y. M. C. A. week will offer both unemployed men and men working fewer hours a week a chance to put themselves in good physical condition.

Fifty thousand square feet of recreational space are available at the Central "Y," eighteenth and G streets northwest. During the "Keep Healthy" drive the entire facilities of gymnasium, swimming pool, handball building, basket ball and volley ball courts and other equipment will be opened to nonmembers who apply through The Post.

Each day of the campaign, starting today, The Post will publish a coupon on which applicants for the free course in regulated recreation may register. Clip the coupon, sign your name and address, and present it at the Central Y. M. C. A. headquarters, 1736 G street northwest.

Cooper Plea To Depositors

Will Ask Them to Waive Part of Deposits to Aid Reopening.

With court action in his fight over the reopening of the United States Savings Bank deferred at least 20 days, Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the bank, announced yesterday that he planned to seek approval of depositors and stockholders of his plan for reopening.

His plan is to ask depositors to waive 35 per cent of their deposits in order to get 65 per cent in cash when the bank opens. In return, the depositors would be given participating certificates secured by a trust fund as surety for eventual payment of the 35 per cent. Stockholders would be asked to accept trustee dividends and surrender their stock and, if necessary to restore the capital structure, repurchase the stock at $100 a share.

Col. Cooper's petition for a court order, forcing Treasury officials to accept his plan, was ordered entered as a new action by Justice Jennings Bailey in District Supreme Court Monday, and Treasury officials were given 20 days to answer.

City Dentists Ask NRA to Drop Code

Insist Laboratory Work Is Professional.

The District Dental Society, meeting in the medical building of George Washington University last night, adopted resolutions calling on the NRA to accede to the request of the American Dental Association to exempt laboratory workers and technicians from a code.

The action was taken on the classification of such workers as professional rather than industrial. It was introduced by Dr. James W. Brown, chairman of the legislative committee, following a talk by Dr. C. Willard Camalier.

Dr. Camalier asserted the government, represented by the NRA, had not asked dental laboratory workers and technicians to formulate a code, but that on the initiative of some workers it has been presented. He branded the proposed code as unfair to the dental profession.

Lorton Shortage Inquiry Ordered

Rover Will Review Report on Prison Aid Fund.

Attorney General Cummings has directed United States Attorney Leo A. Rover to review a report on a prisoners' welfare fund shortage at Lorton Reformatory to determine if prosecution should be instituted, the Department of Justice notified the District Commissioners yesterday.

A request filed with the Attorney General recently by the Commissioners asking that justice officials advise them if there was basis for prosecution was the cause of this information. The Commissioners also sought to determine in what jurisdiction action would be taken.

An audit of the welfare fund account several months ago revealed a shortage said to amount to approximately $700.

Inquest Slated Today In Killing of Woman

Police last night were holding without bond the driver and two passengers of a truck which fatally injured Mrs. Marie Berkotwits, 60, 3582 Thirteenth street northwest, at Georgia avenue and Park road Monday afternoon.

Martin D. McInturff, 26, Silver Spring, Md., driver, tried twice to escape police, and injured a policeman in the second attempt. The two others held are Robert and John Freeman, both colored, of Silver Spring. An inquest will be held today.

Conscience Bit or Not, Thief Returns Bibles

Laundry Reports Theft.

Jesse Duke's Disbarment Is Demanded

Charge Brought Growing Out of Attack on Court.

The grievance committee of the District Bar Association yesterday filed in District Supreme Court charges of "gross professional misconduct and conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice" against Jesse C. Duke, member of the bar.

The committee, represented by Attorneys Lucian H. Vandoren and Charles F. Wilson, asked Duke be "suspended or removed from his office as a member of the bar."

Jurists Criticized.

Complaint against Duke is that he charged Justice F. Dickinson Letts, District Supreme Court, and Leo A. Rover, United States attorney, with sending to the District Court of Appeals "a false, inaccurate, incomplete, diluted and deleted" bill of exceptions in a criminal case in which Duke was counsel, last August.

Another proceeding, based on the same charges but arising in another case, also was filed by the bar association. This case was one in which Mary Rasmussen petitioned the court for permission to examine the books of the Northeast Savings Bank.

In the Rasmussen petition Duke filed an affidavit making charges of prejudice against Justice Letts. He repeated the same accusations he had previously made. Chief Justice A. A. Wheat ordered Duke to file answer to the two charges within 20 days. He will be tried by a three-judge court.

Duke Defends Charges.

In a statement last night, Duke defended his charges against the judge and district attorney. No court has ever held, he said, that a true bill of exceptions was sent up by the officials. He claims that the charges are substantiated by records in the Department of Justice.

"I will not withdraw the charges regardless of the threatened disbarment proceedings," he concluded.

Ring and Watch Stolen In Two Holdups Here

Dragged into an alley early yesterday by four colored men at Fifth street and New York avenue northwest, James Seale, 2113 First street, was robbed of a sapphire ring worth $30, he told police.

John F. Murphy, 1358 North Carolina avenue northeast, was robbed of a wrist watch valued at $50 by a colored man at Sixth and R streets northeast, he reported to police last night.

Club Will Fete Colpoys.

The weekly Dutch-treat luncheon of the Young Men's Democratic Club of the District will be held today at 12:30 in the Madrillon. John P. Colpoys, chairman of the District central Democratic committee, will be the guest of honor.

Radio Waves and Ripples

When there's an audience in the studio, Lum and Abner make themselves up to look something like this. In WRC last night they began a week of Washington broadcasting. At the left is Lum, dispenser of justice.

COLUMBIA has found a man who can step up to the microphone and talk like General Johnson to the satisfaction of the sponsors of the March of Time broadcast series.

He is Ted di Corsia, the man who played Hoover last year. Columbia auditioned imitators for more than a month before giving up.

In case anyone has forgotten, March of Time is the program that airs dramatized versions of news happenings with touches of realism which in the past have caused some of the listeners at times to wonder if some of the impersonated personages hadn't slipped into the studio without anyone knowing about it.

The series opens Friday at 8:30 p. m.

Whitecaps.

WOL—Modern Arabian Nights, 9:45 p. m.; Chicago Opera Co., "Madame Butterfly," 10 p. m.; Night on the Volga (Russian music, vocal and instrumental), 10:30 p. m. WRC—Chase and Sanborn, 8 p. m.; Ipana Troubadours, 9 p. m.; Meyer Davis Orchestra (dance), 11:02 p. m. WMAL—Lady Astor Y. M. C. A. Founders' Day talk, 7:15 p. m.; Irene Rich, 7:45 p. m.; John McCormack, 9:30 p. m. WJSV—Albert Spalding, violinist, 8:30 p. m.; Irvin S. Cobb, 9 p. m.; Three Maids and a Mike, (harmony trio), 10:30 p. m.

Horace Hunnicut, Washington, was turned down for an announcer job at a WMAL audition the other night.

"Maybe you would like to hear me play a piano and sing," he said.

The minds said they didn't care, so Hunnicut played and sang.

Announcer Jim McGrath answered the phone while an N. B. C. organ was playing "Beloved." A woman wanted to know in what key the number was being radioed. She hung up in the McGrath ear, mad as anything, when he said he didn't know.

Gen. Johnson gave WMAL a few hours of worry yesterday by announcing that he didn't want to make a speech at 8:30 last night, after all.

Every one felt better when he changed his mind again and decided to microphone at 7:30 instead.

WRC — Tenor Johnny Marvin, strong man with soft-voiced lady-at-home appeal; Corn Cob Pipe Club, still on after three years of fiddle scratching; Marvelous Melodies, Nat Brusiloff electrical transcription.

WJSV—Wilkin's Surprise Hour, Columbia's best local, Announcer Trout interviewing Symphony Director Hans Kindler; Skippy, not funny sketch of funny comic strip; Albert Spalding, first violin genius to succumb to radio.

There'll be radioing for an hour from eight pick-up points in Washington, New York, Norfolk and Chicago.

Speaking in the Capital for the Navy and the Federal Radio Commission will be Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, Acting Secretary, and Judge Eugene O. Sykes, commission chairman.

Aid Promised To Crowded Powell School

Kramer Will Take Action to Relieve Situation on P.-T. A. Protest.

Powell Junior High School is crowded, but probably no more than some other schools in the city, Stephen E. Kramer, first assistant superintendent, declared yesterday when informed that the Parent-Teacher Association of the school was asking that the condition be remedied.

He stated, however, that he would confer with the principal of the school with a view to relieving overcrowding.

The Parent-Teacher Association declared the school was so crowded that some pupils were compelled to sit on makeshift benches.

Use of the entire Johnson School building to relieve the crowded condition was proposed. Johnson School is opposite the junior high at Lamont and Hiatt streets northwest. At present two rooms are used by kindergarten and first grade children, with other rooms allocated to the junior high.

It was originally planned to make the Johnson building an annex to the junior high, but protests of parents of small children resulted in two rooms being reserved for them.

The association would transfer those children to Bancroft School, said to have ample room.

Mr. Kramer said use of the entire Johnson building would have to be approved by the Board of Education, and might cause complications in view of the compromise agreement. He expressed hope some other means of relieving overcrowding at the junior high school might be found.

Policewomen failed yesterady to find any trace of Esther Armor, 14, who disappeared Monday from her home, 1116 D street southeast. The girl left her home to go to the Seventh Day Adventist School at Fifth and S streets northwest, but did not arrive there.

She was seen Monday afternoon in the southeast section and at that time had with her a 6-year-old child, investigators said. They have been unable to learn the identity of the child. The girl was reported missing by her father, C. W. Armor, who said she left home wearing a green blouse and skirt.

Crash Injuries Fatal.

Benjamin Buchanan, colored, 51, of 940 Howard road southeast, died yesterday from injuries received October 6 in an automobile accident. Drivers of the two automobiles are held.
